by LINDA VACHATA

From the outside Churchville Junior High School, located at 3N315 Church Rd, just south of Bensenville, looks like a holdover of the near extinct one-room rural schoolhouses

Hemmed in on three sides by modern industries and construction on the proposed I-90 expressway, the school complex has become an oasis of sedate tradition surrounded by fast-paced progress

Time has taken its toll on the 40-yearold school building The gutters have corroded, the pipes leak and clatter, and the wood on the doors and window sills has

INSIDE, THE foreboding atmosphere quickly changes The interior walls are painted in bright colors and fluorescent lights line the ceiling

We have leaky pipes and broken-down furniture, but we must work to create an environment conductive to learning," said Nına Gwynn, principal

The 310 students, 31 of whom live in Bensenville, have great compassion for the building and there certainly will be some remorse next fall when they abandon the building for a more modern school complex on York Road in Elmhurst.

"You love those things you are surrounded by each day," Mrs Gwynn said 'We love it - it shows We will miss this building and will come back to see it "

"HOWEVER, IT WILL be fun to do something new We always seek change We never want to become stagnant "

Next fall the Churchville Junior High School building will be transformed into a school for the trainable mentally handicapped in Elmhurst Dist 3

Parks To Offer Adult Classes

The Bensenville Park District plans to offer special adult classes or clubs begin ning this fall

This is the first time the park district has ever sponsored a program of this nature for adults

Dan Plaza, recreation director, said the categories of special clubs now under consideration include Bridge, gardening painting (watercolor and oil), slimnastics, Yoga, chess (class or club) com (class or club), stamp (class or club) photography (camera art) cake decorating (pastry decorating), flower arranging, travel (slide tours) ballroom dance, and music (guitar, for example)

Plaza said competent, qualified instructors are needed to begin making final plans for the program For further information, residents are asked to contact the Park District at 766-4334

Threat of Mail Strike Looms Anew

by BARRY SIGALE

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled mail service to the suburban area, Paddock Publications has learned

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow umon members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday

Addison and other western suburban communities were debating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the federal government to legislate postal re-

THE STRIKE could touch off a nationwide series of walkouts similar to the ac-

ployes took up positions on the picket Chicago suburban post offices shut down (Addison was one of the first) and emline stranding thousands of pieces of mail

iven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us, ' said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis " The timing that the union representation taken March 20, in which dozens of tive was referring to was trouble and feet They could be in contempt of court strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing

> THE THREAT that a nostal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC

the trucking industry

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers

"Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in efif they go out "

Zych said the Chicago union leaders agreed in total with the national union representatives' decision not to take any strike action and to give Congress and tion to improve postal benefits

"THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike We are not going to be swayed by a decision by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership) As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once I won t do it again

"I just received a telegram saying that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation "

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature.

H.B. 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman R-Arlington Heights, Two months later in the State Senate, the bill

Students To Sit In Official Seats

Students at Addison Trail High School today begin their participation in Student Government Week.

Several selected students will sit in with Addison officials at various meetings and follow them as they work dur-was referred to the Municipal Corporations Committee for further study.

The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban areas. The group, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against the bill.

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session," Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

"Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement before they agreed to come into the vil-

On the other hand, Knuepfer said municipalities have considered the bill strong legislation for years.

After hearing of the bill's defeat, Mrs. Caylor said, "The price of victory is eternal vigilance." She said the watchdog legislative committee, organized by residents of unincorporated areas after the introduction of H.B. 1241, will keep active. The purpose of the committee is to watch out for all legislation affecting unincorporated areas and to object to laws deemed detrimental to such areas.

"I just hope they won't attempt to get another bill in the hopper that ignores the rights of citizens in unincorporated areas." added Mrs. Caylor.

Hydrants Probed In Bizarre Fire

"This council will conduct a full investigation."

Those were the words spoken by Mayor Ralph Hanson to irate Wood Dale residents Thursday night, following a bizarre fire the night before in which village volunteer firemen could not fight the blaze because of a shutoff valve at two hydrants.

While Wood Dale firemen waited five minutes for a buffalo key to be brought to the scene, the home of Higinio Salas, 236 Orchard St., continued to burn.

"WE HAVE INSTRUCTED our village engineer to check out every hydrant in the village," Dr. Ralph Madonna, sewer and water commissioner, asserted. "To say, at this point, that anyone is to blame is premature. We will carry on the investigation to determine where the

Madonna added that the payment for the sewer and water assessment for Orchard Street homeowners that usually goes to the contractor and the village engineer will be delayed pending the findings of the investigation.

While Madonna affirmed that the sewer and water contractor would check out every hydrant in the village, fire department officials at the council meeting lambasted the village for neglect and not heeding the recommendations of the fire department concerning the hydrants.

Fireman Chris Knoll told Madonna that a hydrant check made of his street Thursday revealed that 50 per cent of them were shut off at the buffalo box.

DANIEL ARRIENDALE, treasurer of the fire department, also joined in the criticism of village hydrant checks. Arriendale told councilmen that he would take them around the village and show them old and new fire hydrants that didn't function.

"We have a maintenance check every year on all the hydrants in the village,' replied Madonna.

Meanwhile, Salas, whose house burned down, lauded the village firemen for doing an outstanding job.

"I hope something will be done. I don't wish anybody to go through the sorrow that my family went through last night," said Salas, whose family escaped the flames unharmed.

New City of Planned Cooperation

by LESTER KINSOLVING COLUMBIA, MD — This planned city of 150,000, presently under construction between Baltimore and Washington includes planned cooperation - and joint building use - by 13 leading religious denominations

There have been other instances of interdenominational cooperation in new cities - such as in 1944 in the atomic energy city of Richland, Washington, But Columbia could be the first planned city in which religious cooperatives bring about "planned undertaking

A Funeral Practices Task Group was established by the Columbia Cooperative Ministry, which includes both Soutern and American Baptist, Roman Catholic, three Lutheran (American, Missouri Syand and Latheran Church of America's Society of Friends, Church of the Brethren. United Church of Christ Episcopal, both Northern and Southern Presby-terians and Disciples of Christ After a year-long study, the task group recommended incorporation of a non-profit Interfaith Foundation

MAJOR PROPOSED functions of this foundation are:

Establishment of a crematorium well as "the encouragement of the churches and other religious groups to develop more clarity regarding the theological issues involving cremation and burial

Signing of "a contract with a mortician who is understanding of the approach of the interfaith Foundation ... who would agree to abide by the general policies set by the Corporation."

Emphasizing that trentembering the whole life of a person is more helpful than looking at a dead body for two days . . psychologists whom we have consulted tell us that the body is not that important in grief work If the family wishes to view the body there should be a private viewing as soon after death as possible. after the example of John F Kennedy." One Columbia clergyman. Southern Baptist Jim Hamblen, recalls one mortuary unnovation: The displaying of an inclined open casket in a funeral home show window - allowing "Drive-in-viewing of the remains") CLARIFICATION OF embalming requirements (in most cases embalming is not required by law) and putting stress on the appropriateness of simple wooden caskets, or memorial services with an absence of the body and no more than one or two floral arrangements. (Bereaved persons should not have thrust upon them the necessity of making economic decisions . . . there is also a sociopsychological cost factor, as expensive funerals are often related to guilt feel-

THE REGISTER

The Funeral Practices Task Group also emphasized that there is a need for preplanning funerals, and that "there is no theological basis for pouring a lot of money into the ground or into flowers. the cost of funerals should be greatly reduced from a total average expense ranging from $1,000 to $1,300 . . to not greater than $300 "

The Task Group also recognized that one of the reasons today for the high cost of funerals is the overhead morticians have" - and they proposed: "A workroom be provided for mortician services in (Columbia's) medical facility the cost of this room to be the responsibility of the Interfaith Foundation."

THE TASK GROUP also proposes a 'memorial plaza'' with a "simple plaque which could designate the name of a person who had died in the community," as well as the use of a pall (a purple casket cover) to "downplay the differences in social position" in expensive caskets.

An extensive study of clergy and morticians in the area disclosed further in-

A majority of the Protestant clergy are opposed to the displaying of bodies, the high cost of funerals, services in funeral homes and the tendency of some morticians to try to give orders even regarding religious services. The morticians often replied: "We are doing what people want us to do." While Catholic priests and rabbis generally prefer funerals with the body present (although rearely do Jewish persons "view the remains") their influence with their congregations is generally greater than Protestant clergy - especially in this area, where Protestant clergy rarely instruct parishoners in this regard until a death has occurred.

ONE OF THE main reasons why cremation is not more widely accepted by church members is due to a misinterpretation of the doctrine of the resurrection of the body (not the ashes) despite St. Paul's assurance that this does not mean a fleshly body. (1 Corinthians 15:50)

Many of the ministers interviewed had never heard of burial or memorial societies ("non-profit associations to promote dignity, simplicity and economy in funeral arrangements"). And those clergy who were familiar with such organizations "almost all felt that only one per cent or less of the people belonged to them." (Copyright Chronicle Publishing

Verdict: 'Coward' Did Shoot Jesse

by DONALD BERNS

UNION, Mo. UPI - A Franklin County Court jury ruled with history and legend Thursday that the infamous Jesse James died in 1882 and did not live to the age of t03, as contended by Rudy Turilli, who lost $10,000 in the decision

Turilli, who said he would appeal, was ordered to pay the money to Mrs. Jesse James Jr., of los Angeles. She sued after Turilli offered the money to anyone who could disprove his contention

The jury returned the verdict after nearly two hours of debate. One juror dissented, but Judge Herbert K. Moss ruled that a verdict would be declared on a nine to three majority.

of 1970, better known as the proposed Illinois budget for Fiscal Year 1971

When Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie presented his $4.9 billion budget to the legislature on April 1, we pointed out that much of the confusion state. that arose following the presentation would have been climinated had the governor presented the budget in a more reasonable man-

We also said that under the clouds of confusion, the budget was a mixture of good and bad.

Since that time there have been the following developments: (1) Gov. Ogilvæ apparently has been have chopped so much from the state's mental health appropriations: (2) the governor apparently has changed his mind about the proposed tuition increases for state colleges and universities; (3) Ogilvie apparently was legally inerror by not providing legislators with information about the budget. requests of the various departments, and (4) many legislators. now feel there needs to be a total. change in the manner in which the - than to clarify it. budget is presented to and reviewed by the legislature.

houses of the legislature. The appropriations committees would take over the commission's traditional function of conducting legislative review of the budget. The proposed legislation, which was overwhelmingly approved by Democrats and Republicans on the House executive committee, also would require the governor to submit his budget a month earlier.

We think the legislation makes sense. The governor, as chief executive of the state, should retain the traditional authority to prepare and present the state budget, and he should have the staff to accomplish this. The Bureau of the Budget fits this purpose.

But the legislature must continue to exercise its authority to carefully scrutinize and evaluate the budget, and this would be accomplished by presenting the budget carlier and by making available the necessary staff to perform this function on the appropriations committees, where the first step toward budgetary approval is tak-

Youth: Doing is the Key

by GINNY KUCMIERZ

To be young is to be excited, active and involved. It is wanting something and working for it enthusiastically, spontaneously and optimistically, and to be frustrated when whatever "it" is doesn't materialize.

Youth has always had a sense of caring and hope, and the yre nice people to be around

Being young is difficult though, and can be exasperating for determined bubbly people. Their spirit is too often smothered with phrases like "When you're old you'll understand what it's really like," or "You can't change things that have been going on for thousands of

TODAY KIDS ARE learning, thinking and worrying about many more prob-lems, far-reaching ones that will effect them and their grandchildren, if they Earth week and its follow-up programs in Roselle's schools showed this concern in the area of pollution. They don't like if and they want it to stop, but they aren't just talking about it.

Perry Bassett, a sixth grader at Spring Hills School, along with many of his friends, picks up litter on the streets. In fact. Perry was so serious about his task he unknowingly filled the entire lining of his jacket with papers once because of a hole in his pocket.

This is cute, and Perry smiles about it, but it's also dedication most old people wouldn't have in putting their personal

THE KIDS KNOW the answer to the problems must first be solved at the individual level. They don't just sit back and blame an impersonal factory or corporation for all the dirty water and ugly skies. They don't attribute the existence of all the poor people in the world to an impersonal catch-all society which just doesn't understand.

They really understand, at least the kids I've been talking to at the Roselle schools. They realize man is responsible for hunger, poverty and the dirty environment, and they admit they are men.

Poems, like the one recently quoted by Laurie Jo Walton, a third grader at Lincoln School, expresses the sentiment of the children today. They are not afraid to say they are wrong. They want to change. And most important of all, they think it can be done, and that is the essence of their youth.

They actually believe as wide-eyed Patty Montfeli. another sixth grader at Spring Hills said "that industry and people can contribute money, putting it together to clean the air and water and make parks for all people."

Youth, fortunately, isn't a quality limited to children, although they do have a corner on it. Young people come in all sizes and ages. They are students and teachers, parents and churchmen. Some are even school board members and village trustees. Hopefully, the young population of Roselle and the country and the world is growing.

Demand the Overpasses!

Have you ever gone into a meeting knowing very little about what is to be discussed and then left knowing even

This is exactly how I felt Tuesday night after the public hearing regarding Illinois Rte, 83 improvements.

The highway engineers were highly successful in confusing many of the 250 people in the standing-room-only crowd at the Bensenville Village Hall. The engineers did not express themselves in the necessary laymen's terms, but confined their presentations to engineering jargon.

BASICALLY, FROM what I understand, the general plan for Rt. 83 includes two additional lanes, resurfacing and widening existing lanes, and reconstructing the bridges over the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad tracks and Illinois 19 (Irving Park

Although this general plan is specifically designated for the stretch of Route 83 between Woodland near Bensenville and Devon in Elk Grove Village, it appears to be in line with the overall improvements already completed or underway to the north and south.

I go along with this general plan. Anyone who has ever driven along Route 83 must agree some improvements are

What worries me, however, is will these planned improvements turn Route 83 into a "mini" expressway?

THE BENSENVILLE Elementary Dist. 2 school board is being supported by the Fenton Dist. 100 school board and administration, the park district, PTA Council and the library board in their efforts to encourage the engineers to construct pedestrian overpasses at Hillside. Grove and Second Street and construct a special pedestrian overpass facility over the railroad tracks and Rte. 19.

These pedestrian overpasses are surely nceded. Today youngsters living northwest of Rte. 83 cross the tracks or busy 83. If they are not dodging trains they are dodging cars.

Come Away From The Cookie Jar

Plan One, which virtually designates Route 83 as an expressway, said pedestrian crossings "would" be installed at certain intersections. Plan Two, which offers no access, said pedestrian overpasses were not called for but "could" be installed.

Does this mean Route 30 will have pedestrian overpasses only if the road is designated as an expressway? The speed limits, whether an expressway or not. will remain the same, only chan-nelization of traffic and signalization at intersections will differ.

Rosellians have been reminded concerning the occasion of the 30th anniversary of their public library. Roselle. as well as a number of nearby communities, has enjoyed capable and courteous service from those concerned with the administration and function of the library throughout the years of its history.

The Roselle library offers technical and practical service, and much more. for all ages and interests.

Libraries are a cultural "must" for any community. Means and facilities for their designated purposes should be made available for their proper function.

Thank you so much, again.

The verse from Scripture to accompany this might be Genesis (1:28) "And God blessed them, saying, increase and multiply, and fill the earth." I have no children in high school, but if I did I certainly would be just a little bit worried.

About twice a year I'm able to keep my eyes open long enough to watch the late, late show. On one of these occasions the movie was that oldie but goodie "Hitler's Children." In one of the scenes we witness some of der Fuehrer's followers encouraging young couples to go off to the stud farm and have children for the state. Needless to say, I found this idea rather revolting, but I find equally revolting today's advocates of the opposite end, To borrow and rephrase Gerber's famous motto, I believe, "Babies are our business, our own business!"

SO COULD YOU please at least give me equal time by sending one of your photographers to take a picture of us in our shoe. Just call and let me know ahead of time so I can hide our outdoor barbecue equipment!

An Earnest Sidewalk Plea

In utter dismay I am writing this letter hoping that someone will be able to give me a satisfactory answer regarding sidewalks five feet wide on major thorough-fares to be installed by the individual property owner by June 1, or thereafter by the village at an estimated assessment cost of $6 per lineal foot.

We live at Central Road and Beverly Lane in Arlington Heights, and, I'll agree that Central Road is a major thoroughfare for automobiles, but certainly not for pedestrian traffic. However, we'll compromise as to the need and agree to a sidewalk of three or four feet, but why a five foot width?

OUR PROPERTY faces Beverly Lane on the front but the depth of our lot from the curb line is 210 feet on Central Road. The sidewalk there will end abruptly because we adjoin Scarsdale Estates and the Village has no jurisdiction as to side-

We are told the only way to have this plan modified by the village is to go through legal expense and even then not be assured you'd gain a thing. Today, when we are all feeling the pinch of higher income taxes, property taxes, state income tax, and the higher overall cost of living, why then can't we use common sense and do whatever is necessary to cooperate in this matter and let the citizens of Arlington Heights feel they have

From an engineering standpoint the five foot width of sidewalk will settle and crack much sooner. There must be a better place for our money than in a sidewalk five feet wide which will probably have six or eight people use it in one months' time.

I am not completely against this policy but the one thing that is very upsetting to me is the fact that the Industrial Ministry of Cicero and Berwyn is in favor of this endeavor.

I AM A FORMER Ciceronian of 25 years, and I am quite familiar with its ideas, problems and city government.

I might mention right here that it would be advisable for these gentlemen to visit the east side of Elgin near the high school and ask the board of education how many broken windows, etc., they had replaced over the years.

With mortgage interest at 8 and 81/2 per cent, even high cost home building is practically at a stand still. Also, do they have any idea of the value of the 60 acres they suggest for low cost housing - or did they expect the Viatorians to be gullible enough to "donate" it for their worthy cause?

Oh it's scary stuff. But sanity and balance are needed to solve our environmental problems. Ecology isn't a moral crusade, it is a science - a science which is being perverted by an organized campaign to propagandize Americans into accepting government land grabs, bureaucratic population control, and a further proliferation of government bureaus to manage every conceivable phase of our environment. The legitimate purpose of government is the protection of life and property. Since pollution is an attack on another man's life and property, conservatives will support private law suits and local

'Back Health Insurance Program'

I am writing to urge you to support HB 479. This bill will provide comprehensive private health insurance for both the welfare poor and the working poor in a dignified manner. It will provide the financial inducement for local hospitals to assume their responsibility to local residents and in the process will reduce the pressures on Cook County Hospital.

This legislation will also encourage the development of new and varied health facilities in areas which now have few sources of treatment.

HB 1479 is now being considered by the Senate public weltare committee of which Senator Harris Fawell is chairman. I urge you to communicate your support to him to vote for the bill when it comes up for a vote.

LWV: Abolish Township

In response to the many recent editorials and articles relating to township in the Herald, I felt that area citizens might be interested in the views of a non-partisan group, the League of Women Voters of Palatine, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

This past winter season, these leagues, along with the other leagues in the state of Illinois (10,000 members), did an intensive, factual study of the Illinois Constitution. At the conclusion of many months of delving deeply into each article, basic consensus was reached.

WE FEEL THAT the local government article should provide for the establishment of county and municipal government and other civil divisions as may be necessary. By not naming any divi-sions other than county and municipality, the General Assembly will have authority to create other forms of local government that may be needed and to adapt the structure of local government in the

We further concluded that there should be no mention in the Constitution of township government. The League of Women Voters of Illinois favors the elimination of township government. Provision should be made by statute for the transfer of the functions of township government to general-purpose governments, i.e. the county or municipality.

The radius of a county is no greater in travel time today than was the radius of a township in 1900. The back bone of any country I do believe Miss Styre's idea of sex is the home. Much blame regarding the life dates back to the early movies; or so-called "generation gap" can be laid at the old horror books where the husband the feet of the working mother. Many of twirled his moustache. She certainly has a mis-conception of the beauty and dignity of marital relations. Why may I ask has as Miss Styre stated, the status of American woman declined? Could it be that the woman who does not need to work is in competition with a man who must work, to support his wife and family? How can any man have respect for the "dignity of woman" when his livelihood is constantly being threatened by women whose place should be in the home. In closing I say; "sisters of blood untie" and tie those apron strings a bit tighter, enjoy your husband, children and home. Let those unmarried hold down the positions, let them scramble to compete for equal rights in the business world. Birthday in Jail for 'Spy' Priest

by CHARLES R. SMITH

HONK KONG (UPI) - James Edward Walsh, once described by the archbishop of Boston as "The finest missionary to go forth from America in my lifetime," celebrated his 79th birthday April 30 - in a Communist Chinese prison.

The Roman Catholic bishop, who earned such high praise from Richard Cardinal Cushing, is on the downhill side of a 20-year prison sentence as an alleged spy for the United States and the Vatican.

He is the only foreign Roman Catholic missionary still in China

Born in Cumberland, Md., on April 30, 1891, Walsh first went to China as a missionary more than 50 years ago. He spent almost two decades there before returning to the United States as superior general of the Maryknoll order in Ossining, N. Y. He returned to China in 1948 as executive secretary to the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai and has been there since, harassed most of the time and in prison for the last dozen

"IN THE BRIGHT lexicon of the missioner, difficulty is only a synonym for opportunity," Bishop Walsh once remarked. For him the most difficult time began when the Communists took over in 1949 and began a crackdown on the Catholic and other foreign missionaries in the country.

Persistent and sometimes brutal mistreatment and harassment of the missionaries by the Communists rapidly reduced their numbers.

Walsh was seriously restricted in what he effectively could do to propagate the faith and help persecuted Chinese Catholic priests and converts. But it was not until April 30, 1955 - his 64th birthday that the Catholic Central Bureau was ordered closed. The Communists called it a "nest of imperialist running dogs,"

COMMUNIST CONTROLLED newspapers in Shanghai denounced him almost daily, describing him as "a representative of Wall Street and a stooge of Cardinal Spellman."

During these years, the Communist Chinese repeatedly offered to permit the bishop to leave China. He refused their offers, insisting that he should remain, if only as an inspiration for the Chinese

In 1956, after the Shanghai office was closed, he was moved from his quarters to the Christ the King rectory, located on the opposite side of China's largest city. At the rectory he was placed among priests who had deserted the church of Rome for the schismatic Catholic Church in China. He refused to say Mass in the church because of the way Holy Communion was being distributed there by the priests of the breakaway church. He said Masses in his room.

His colleagues outside China tried to persuade Walsh to accept the Chinese offer of passage to Freedom. The Maryknoll superior general had a letter smuggled to him hinting that perhaps he should leave because of his health and his doubtful value to the church under the circumstances

WALSH REPLIED, "I cannot estimate the good I may be doing, apart from the settled missionary rule that kept me here. In any case a priest seldom knows if he is an asset to the church in his particular place at any time.

"I encourage some, alarm others; I do little more than say my prayers and walk the strets to show my roman collar. As for the harm - I've heard I'm an advertisement for 'liberty.' My mere Yankee presence may embarrass some of the clergy and some of the people, but is that enough reason to absent myself? The same waas true eight years ago.

"The problem really is: Are the reasons valid and grave enough to set aside the established principle that a priest ig-

Lukens stamped himself as a great humanitarian during the campaign by introducing a new political fund-raising gimmick — the non-dinner

His campaign headquarters printed tickets for a $50-a-plate reception and dinner to raise money for more television time. But then, in a move to reduce campaign expenses, the dinner was can-

Contributors to Lukens' campaign thus were mercifully freed from an evening of political oratory, an act of compassion that is all too rare in the world

Regretably, from his standpoint, much of the impact that the non-dinner might have had on the campaign was blunted by poor timing.

Had prospective ticket buyers been told well in advance that the dinner would not be held. I'm sure vast sums of money would have rolled in.

I might even have bought a ticket myself. I can't vote in Ohio, but I know a good thing when I see it. And 850 is a small price to pay for missing several hours of campaign rhetoric.

Although Lukens himself did not benefit greatly from his humanitarian innovation, other politicians undoubtedly will hear about it and use it to good advantage during the rest of this election

I predict that fund-raising non-dinners will be featured in political campaigns from sea to oil-stained sea. Particularly by candidates who are trying to win the support of the great silent majority. Another political innovator, James. E.

The Working Girl

Look Who's Wearing Pants!

by GENIE CAMPBELL

While not as prevalent as NOW or as outspoken as WITCH, WWIP is definitely making a stand. Not formally organized, WWIP is short for "Working Women in Pants." Certain area women are now eligible for membership.

"They are fabulous," said Mrs. John Conroy, head nurse of the medical surgical floor at St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove, "They are quite comfortable and very professional looking, I think. The patients were surprised at first, but they were quick to exclaim - Boy, that's Nurses at St. Alexius recently were given the nod of approval to wear pant uniforms. Along with a small minority of other women in various fields, they may be considered pioneers for a mode of dress which undoubtedly is a creation of the liberated times.

WHO WEARS THE pants in the family? The answer is no longer singular. The man wears them, of course . . , and so very often does his wife.

"The general reaction is very good," said Mrs. Don Rieck, staff development coordinator, and Marge Ruetsche, a coronary care unit nurse, added, "They're terrific and lots more comfortable. One can bend down without worrying.

"Of course it's really a big thing with the younger nurses," she continued. "Some of the older ones say they are not as professional looking, but they are quiet in their complaints.

Lutheran General Hospital is also undergoing a fashion change. About a dozen nurses already have traded in their skirts for pants. As one nurse bluntly expressed, "In order to use good body mechanics, you can't be worrying about the length of your skirt.' YET THE PANTS revolution being carried on by working women has really just begun. Predominately, tradition still rules. Dresses win out for the most part.

Many offices are quick to enforce a rigid code stipulating no women in pants. However, remember, the mini, too, was also banned . . . in the beginning.

Like all outdated legislation, the "dress only" rule is being challenged slowly but surely and in some cases changed. And, those advocating pants feel that the longer fashion lengths, the longuette and midi, will in no case alter

"The general reaction around here to the midi is thumbs down. I don't think anyone will wear longer length uniforms," said Mrs. Rieck.

"It's more comfortable to wear slacks than even longer lengths in skirts," said Miss Ruetsche.

Across town, in Arlington Market, Beauty Bar beauticians have been wearing pants since the beginning of the year.

"I HAVE WORN pants every day since I first began wearing them," said Mrs. Arnold Silver. "I like them. The only objection I have is that I think they might be warm come summer.

"Yes, I like pants much better than dresses," said Mrs. William (Cissy) Webb. "At the beginning some of my customers said they liked them, some said they didn't. After two weeks, no one said anything."

Cissy has an added individual reason for preferring pants. "I have a couple of motorcycles and now after I ride to work, I don't have to change clothes."

What do the men think?

"I don't mind seeing women working in pants," commented one man, "But I sure do miss the mini.

NURSEDAY CHORES made easier. Mrs. Gary Schmidt, head nurse on third floor of St. Alexius, traded in her dress for pants.

Medicare at Age 30?

by MARY SHERRY

It is my opinion that the bottom age limit for medical aid to the elderly should be extended to include everyone over 30.

The day after my 30th birthday I awoke with a terrible pain in my back. I lived with it for several days, passing it off as old age. When it didn't go away the pain, not my age - I described the discomfort to my gynecologist. I was in his office for a check-up anyway, and rather than start the merry chase of specialists on my own diagnosis. I asked him for advice.

Naturally he wouldn't consider any problem I had above my waist. But he recommended an internist.

Fortunately the pain had not subsided when I got in to see the next doctor a few days later. My body, like my car, tends to mask symptoms of disorder in the presence of a specialist.

THE INTERNIST examined me thoroughly, asking if I had been doing any heavy housework lately. I wanted to reply that I had to be the last candidate in the world for Housewife's Back, but since this was our first meeting, I merely denied the charge. He asked me other things regarding my medical history, interjecting again the question of my household cleaning projects. I denied having, or ever having had, such proj-

The doctor continued the examination, inquiring once more if I had been lifting solas or waxing under dressers. I offered to have my husband write him a note to support my statements.

As he wrote out a prescription for a muscle-relaxing drug, it dawned on me what must have caused my distress. But if I had told him what it was, he would have referred me to a doctor who doesn't look at anything below the neck. So took the prescription and ran.

THE CAUSE of my pain? On the eve of my 30th birthday, I had to prove to my children that I could stand on my head. After I had gotten my inverted balance amid the admiring oh's and ah's I began to list. I was forced into an immediate choice between falling flat on my back and merely crumpling to the floor. I crumpled. How could I have explained this to the doctor who still thinks I had Housewife's Back?

If this kind of physical distress strikes at 30, I shudder to think what I'll be proving to my offspring at 40, and absolutely refuse to consider the scene at 50.

Hopefully, at 65 one stops this kind of nonsense. That's why I'm convinced that the government is offering medical insurance to the wrong age group. However, perhaps the line was drawn after a thorough consideration of the risks.

Rieck of Palatine is completely sold on the idea of pant signed and made it herself. uniforms. The two-piece ensemble she wears to work at

They Met on a Double Date

Two plus two makes a double date, but sometimes Cupid takes one from each twosome and strikes up a romance be-tween the new pair That's what happened when Christine Langendorf of Wood Dale and Leonard Dick of Bensenville met on a double date and on April 4 the pair were married in Holy Ghost Church in Wood Dale

Daughter of the William Langendorfs. 362 Elmhurst Ave, Christine is a '69 graduate of Northern Illinois University. She now teaches second grade in Fullerton School, Addison District 4 Leonard son of the Frank Dicks, 17W073 Center St, is a graduate of Fenton High School and studied in Arizona State University in Scottsdale, Ariz He is now with American Airlines double ring service in a setting of purple and white flowers Mr. Langendorf gave his daughter in marriage.

THE PAIR'S WEDDING was followed guests, after which the newlyweds left on week's honeymoon trip to Port of Spain, Trinidad Rev Ferrar officiated at the 3 30 p m

Christine's choice in wedding gown was a white silk organza with capped sleeves and boat neckline trimmed in Vonise lace. The sleeves and hem of the dress were also trimmed in Venice lace, and a front panel on the gown was of Alencon lace A blue ribbon outlined the high waist

A Juliet cap with double rows of blue ribbon and Venise lace held her shoulderlength veil, and she carried a large white basket of daisies, purple and blue carna-tions, stephanotis and baby's breath

HER ATTENDANTS also carried baskets their flowers were white and purple carnations with stephanotis. The bride's sister, Mrs Deane Goldstein of Bensenville was matron of honor, and brides-

Sewing Talents on Parade

Some women sew for the family as a hobby. Some sew to combat the rising cost of living. Whatever their reason, the talent it takes was displayed attractively last Tuesday evening beneath a floral arch at Trinity Methodist Church, Mount

The women's society had encouraged all of its "seamstresses" to enter the fashion show for mothers and daughters, and models ranged from age 2 to mature

AWARDS WENT TO special mothers and also to some of the models for originality of ensembles. Eldest mother in the audience was Mrs. Helen Harvey, 90, and youngest was Mrs. Dale Manning, 26. Just for fun, an award went to the guest with the most buttons on her clothing. and that winner was Mrs. George Studt-

Mrs. Arthur Gordon was recognized for having the most daughters present. She has six, and four of them appeared in the MODELS SHOWING the most originality were Peg Hopley, wearing a cotton patchwork hostess gown; Robbie Matthews, in a coordinated sport ensemble, and Barb Swenson, a junior at Northern Illinois University, who came home for the evening to model several of her handsewn outfits.

To complete the pre-Mother's Day event, the Men's Club of the church served dessert, coffee and punch after the show, and they even did the dishes!

Red-Hot Blazers Add Two More Wins

Record Now 8-2 In League Play

Erwin Csuk may very well be Public Enemy Number One in the Des Plaines Valley — at least outside of Addison.

The junior hurler who pitched the Blazer sophomore team to the championship a year ago chalked up his fifth consecutive varsity victory Saturday, spinning a three-hit shutout over Hinsdale

With his eight straight league wins in sophomore competition last year. Csuk is 13-0 in conference action over the past

Saturday's 5-0 victory moved the Blazers a glant step closer to the league title, their 8-2 record easily the best in

Csuk struck out just three, but allowed no walks to the Hornets and came within six outs of a no-hitter before his pursuit of a place in the record-book was

. long with sharp control. Csuk had the benefit of some fine defensive support by

"We looked real good in the field," says Phil Valaika, "Honk DeAngelis was outstanding at third, coming up with about six assists on hard shots. And Tim Dorgan made a diving shoestring catch in right field early in the game to keep Csuk's no hitter going.'

The Blazers actually got the only run they needed in the fourth. DeAngelis threw a walk to lead off. Bob Paulsen faked a bunt and chopped a ground bali through the drawn-in infield to send DeAgelis to third from where he scored on a sharp single by John Kelly.

A four-hit flurry in the fifth produced four runs and iced the game for Addison. Contributing the hits were Bob Landrum, DeAngelis, Dean Vaccarino, and Paul-

Riding high in the Des Plaines Valley. the Blazers will be seeking district honors Tuesday when they face Fenton at Elk Grove. Tuesday's winner will meet either Lake Park (leader of the Tri-County) or Elk Grove (leader of the Mid-Suburban League) for the district championship Wednesday.

had to do something to compensate for

So prior to Thursday's opening round game of the Elk Grove District Tournament against Glenbard North, he said: "I think I'l forsake a little defense and just get as much firepower as I can into the lineup.'

True to form. Bison pitching got rapped around a little. In fact, the Panthers bombed Bill Papke for three fence-clearing home run blasts. And they raked him for 10 runs and 11 hits in five innings.

But the Bisons, who have yet to win a conference game this season, ripped into the Panthers and came up with their biggest day of the year, run-wise and victo-

Blowing an early 9-2 lead, the Bensenville battlers fought back with a tworun rally in the seventh to post a 12-11

Hurt by a lack of solid pitching all triumph, their fourth consecutive victory year, coach Jim Monahan decided he in district competition over the last two years (the Bisons were the surprise champ of the Lake Park District in '69).

And it was one of Monahan's offensive replacments who drove in the winning run - Bill Weber. Fenton's number two catcher. Weber was inserted into the lineup in right field to get a little more power into the attack.

After a walk to Bill McDonald, a sacrifice by Mike Fonseca, an infield single by Mark Seggeling, and a passed ball had tied the score 11-11 in the seventh. Weber stepped up with Seggeling perched on second and belted a towering blast that bounced over the center field fence for a ground rule double.

Bill Bonner, who had relieved Papke in the fifth, shut the Panthers out in the seventh and the Bisons earned the right to face Addison Trail next Tuesday in the semi-final. Big inning for the Bisons Thursday was the third when they snapped a 2-2 tie with a seven-run jolt which included three walks, four singles, and a double by Fonseca.

Glenbard kept pecking away, though, finally tying it in the fifth and taking the lead in the sixth.

But the Bisons, who rapped 16 hits in the game, had enough left for the lastditch rally that won it.

Seggeling and Weber contributed three hits apiece, Finn two, and almost everyone in the lineup drove in a run or pitched in with a hit.

And out of the slugfest came some pitching hope for Monahan.

"Bonner seems to be coming along pretty well now. He's had a real fine curve ball, and now his fast ball seems to be developing along with it.

"He'll be our pitcher against Addison Tuesday." Fenton Glenbard N.202 331 0-11

Landrum Wins This Pitching Duel 3-1

by PHIL KURTH

It took Addison Trail one pitch to do something they couldn't do before in almost seven innings - get a hit off George Thoreson.

But then everything was a little different than it had been three weeks ago when Willowbrook whipped the Blazers 1-0 on Thoreson's one-hitter.

It was a cold, dreary morning on that day of defeat. The scene was Villa Park and there were no more than a dozen witnesses to the action.

A crowd that filled the bleachers and spilled out three and four deep behind the plate viewed the battle on a bright. balmy afternoon in Addison. And this time Bob Landrum got the better of his duel with Thoreson as the Blazers posted a pressure-packed 3-1 victory that boosted their league record to 7-2 and solidified their grip on the top spot in the Des Plaines Valley.

Addison coach Phil Valaika, "It just about puts Willowbrook out of contention. The kids were really ready for this one, and they played a real solid game." Valaika, a riverboat gambler on the base paths, pulled another acc out of his sleeve in the first inning to get the big run that put Willowbrook in the hole. Mike Chapman led off for Addison by right-center. Jim Carter, running full speed, got a glove on the ball but it bounced away as Chapman pulled up at second with a double.

Recognizing the importance of that run with two of the league's finest hurlers pitted against each other, Valaika had Tim Dorgan sacrifice Chapman to third.

Then came the gamble.

With a 1-2 count on Dean Vaccarino, Chapman broke for the plate on the suicide squeeze. Vaccarino bunted the ball perfectly, third baseman Bob Piekarski had no play but to first, and the Blazers had the lead.

"Sure, it was a gamble," says Valaika, "and if it hadn't worked I probably would have looked like a burn. But I have a lot of confidence in Dean. He hangs in there, and I figured he'd get a piece of the ball somehow."

That run loomed larger and larger as Landrum and Thoreson took charge.

After a lead-off single by the first batter, Landrum hurled hitless ball until the seventh, striking out the side twice. Thorsen, nicked for one hit in every inning, worked his way almost effortlessly out of trouble each time.

So the score stood 1-0 in the bottom of the sixth when Tim Dorgan lashed a single to left to lead off (the fifth time Addison's lead-off batter had hit safely). Vaccarino walked to put two men on, but Thoreson struck out the next two hitters and was apparently working his way out of trouble once more.

Up stepped John Keily. Deep toward left-center field went the ball. Across the plate came Dorgan and Vaccarino. And the Blazer lead was now 3-0.

As it turned out, Kelly's hit was the

After retiring the first two batters in the seventh, Landrom yielded his first hit since the first inning as Dave Paulson ripped a shot to left. The ball bounced by the left fielder and Paulson went all the way to third from where he scored a moment later on a double to the fence in left by Glen Fencl.

That brought the tying run to the plate in the form of pinch-bitter John Hillan who hit a pop-up along the first base line that Landrum clutched for the final out.

Bisons Falter In Twin-Bill

"We just can't seem to do anything." That was Fenton coach Jim Monahan's run. terse analysis of the Bisons' latest failure, a doubleheader loss to the Vikings of Crown in Carpentersville Saturday.

"If we get decent pitching, we don't get hitting. And if we get the pitching, we don't get any pitching."

The Bisons limited Crown to 10 total hits Saturday, but key errors and streaks of wildness helped the Vikings make the most of them. Crown jumped on Mike Fonseca for four runs in the first inning of game one to start the day off on a sour note for Monahan and his squad.

Fenton had taken the lead in the top of the first on a leadoff single by Tom Finn and a pair of Crown errors, but three solid hits, a walk, and an error pushed four runs home in the bottom of the 24 1 3 round for the hosts.

"Fonseca just wasn't warmed up sufficiently," says Monahan. "He wasn't loose enough."

Mike settled down to hold the Vikings in check over the next three rounds, and the Bisons battled back into a tie in the

Again, Finn started it with a single. Bill McDonald walked. Fonseca reached on an error, loading the bases with no one out. Elliott bore down to strike out Eric Mychko, but Mark Seggeling belted a single to counter Finn and McDonald. Then on the safety squeeze, Bill Weber dropped a bunt along the third base line to bring Fonseca home with the tying

Crown came right back in the bottom of the fifth and with two ont and two on, Hines doubled bome the winning runs.

In game two, Vasara for Crown and Bill Bonner for Fenton matched O's for three innings, but in the fourth the Vikings got to reliever Bill Papke (Bonner was lifted after three because he had pitched two days earlier) for the runs that proved decisive. The big blow came from the bat of Hines again, a run-scoring triple. Hines then scored on a single by Spella.

A lead-off walk to Vasara in the fifth resulted in a Viking run without a hit. The Viking hurler went to second on a wild pitch, to third on a passed ball, and came home on a sacrifice fly.

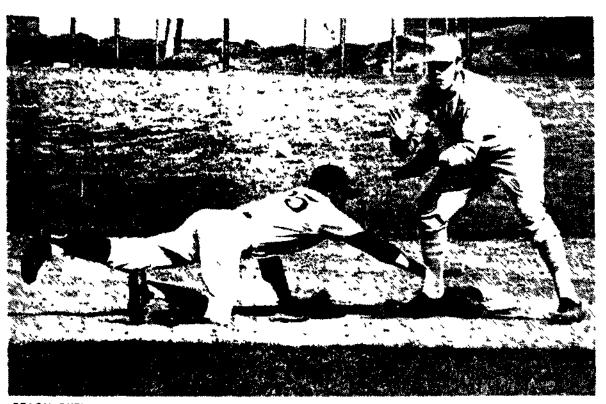

Two singles and a stolen base produced another run in the sixth and the Vikings wrapped it up with a pair in the seventh with the aid of only one hit. After two walks and a hit batter had loaded the sacks, Hines stroked a two-run single.

Fenton's only run came in the sixth as Finn and McDonald laced back to back singles. Finn eventually scoring on an er-

Scherr Hurls No-Hitter For Western Michigan

Marty Scherr of Addison pitched Westein Michigan University's first no hit baseball game in 12 years last Saturday but probably never would have had an opportunity to do so if he hadn't worked himself out of a crucial jam three weeks

His seven near perfect frames against Marshall marked his fourth straight complete game win in that contest, the senior right hander walked the second flerd batter, who was then retired in a double play

As a junior Scherr compiled a 13 record and a 265 carned run average These credentials put him high in Coach Bill Chambers pre-season mound plans however. Muity got off to a very rocky

In his fast three games, he had a 1-2 mark and a whopping 6 37 ERA yielding 14 runs and a like number of hits in 11 innings. His own throwing error cost him. a 9-8 loss against Navy at Jacksonville,

On April 13 Scherr faced a make-orbreak encounter against Cincinnati Histeammates staked him to a 20 lead in the second inning. In the visitors third, however he walked the eighth hitter in the lineup and then surrendered a pinch

Marty responded by getting the next two hitters on a ground out and a fly Just two of the next 20 Cincinnati batsmen reached base as the senior righthander went on to register a 9-2 win

Marty's always been a real competitor but he really bore down hard that time remarked Chambers He realized how much he had at stake and responded to the pressure. He really threw hard to those two futters and has done so ever since

In his next two outings, Scherr went the route against Ball State and Oluo t miversity, picking up 40 and 42 decisions flis latter victory prevented a three-game sweep by the Mid American Conference leaders and still gave the Broncos an outside chance at the league

These three complete games set the stage for his no-hit performance the first for WMU since Phil Bareis lost a 1-0 decision at Florida State in 1958

The last winning no hitters in the school's history were recorded in 1941. In a doubleheader against the then lowa-

Lancers Mix Every thing Together In 10-4, 5-3 Drive Past Tigers

by PHIL KURTH

Hits, home runs, hurling, hustle The Lancers mixed them all together Saturday and came up with what could a championship brew as they defeated Elmwood Park in both ends of doubleheader, 10-4 and 5-3 With their third sweep in three conference doubleheaders, the Lancers sent the Tigers spinning out of the league lead and perhaps out of the race Elmwood had snuck by Lake Park last week, winning a pair to boost their record to 6-2, one-half game ahead of the Lancers' 5-2.

Now the Lancers are back ahead of the pack where they've been most of the year and the Tigers are on the brink of elimination with four league losses.

Neither game was easy, but the Lancers, who seems to be the favorite of the gods, again came up with the big hit, the big play, the big pitch.

In the opener, Tom Stuckey had his rare bad day and his teammates were in another of their generous moods, committing five errors to hand the visitois four gift runs So, to win, the Lancers had to count on their bats

And their wood played a terrible tune for the Tigers.

The Lancers raked four Elmwood pitchers for 10 runs, 14 hits, a double, two triples, and two home runs. They got at least one hit in every inning and had at least two base runners in every round. Despite the awesome attack, though, it was tight through five lunings and only a great throw kept the Lancers in the lead.

Elmwood notched an unearned run in the first, Lake Park tied it in a two-out single by Jim Striver inthe second Two more errors in the third gave the Tigers the lead run and it would have been more but for a bullet throw from rightfielder Sal Dalo that cut Ken Desmaretz down at the plate (Dalo later was to use that strong right arm to tame the Tiger

The Lancers bounced back in their half of the third

Bill Ntale dropped a perfect bunit single between third and the mound Faust DeLazzer tied it and untied it with one swing, ripping a line shot to deep right-center that rolled, and rolled, and rolled By the time it was wheeled back into the infield, DeLazzer had crossed the plate standing up with a two-run

The Lancers picked up their third run of the inning on a single by Stuckey and in the fourth Shriver's triple and a sacrifice fly by Natale made it 5-2.

But the visitors, who had put together three singles without scoring in the fourth, bombed Stuckey out in the fifth

An error, two singles and a sizzling double by George Michehl produced two runs and left the tying the lead run on second.

Lancer coach Norb Wesolowski decided it wasn't Stuckey's day and called Dalo in from right field. Wesolowski, who

Dave Falkenberg belted one a mile high and about two miles deep for a home run shot in the fifth John Mikes delivered a two run single to make it 8-4 and in the sixth Dalo came up with his third straight hit to drive in the final two

With their decisive triumph, the Lancers regained the league lead temporar ily, pending the outcome of game two

Elmwood's sophomore burler. Don Partika, immediately ran into trouble in the first Singles by Natale and DeLazzer and a walk to Ted Brinkman loaded the bases with one out

Dalo then smashed one up the middle Partika got a glove on it deflecting it to second baseman Hayes who threw Dalo out Natale scored on the play and the Lancers added a run in the thi d on a deep sacrifice fly by Brinkman after a single by Mikes and a double by DeLaz

Yielding just one hit through the first five rounds, Natale held tightly to that 2-0 margin until the sixth when a lightning burst by the Tigers (aided by an error, of course) threatened to take the game and the conference lead from the basemean Don Loren made a frantic stab but the ball bounced off his glove and fell safely not more than 10 feet

Rocky Guerreo tomahanked a bulletlike drive to left center for three bases and Desinaretz stroked a single to left to Send Guerrero across with the lead run

Bob Melanius hustled the Lancers back into the game in the seventh. With one out Melanius stepped up to pinch hit for Foren He fouled off five pitches and then sent a hard grounder to short Garv Sprignoli fielded it cleanly and threw on the target on first

But Melanius flying down the line beat the throw by an eyelash

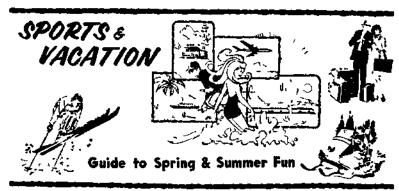

Pinch hitter Willie Campbell tagged a line shot right at the center fielder for the second out but Rick Benhart (run ning for Melanius) stole second and con tinued to third on a thiowing error to put the tying run just 90 feet from home

Shriver worked Partika for a walk and broke for second with Mikes at the plate. Mikes calmly laced a sharp grounder into the vacated hole at second and Benhart jogged in with the tying run as Shaver continued on to third

Then with Natale at the plate Mikes took off for second, hoping to draw the throw that would permit Shriver to break for the plate The throw to second arrived just about the time Mikes did and John sent Hayes tumbling and the ball pepped out of his glove as Shriver raced home without a play

Natale chased the final run of the mning home with a double and Dalo walked to the mound and silenced the Tigers again to preserve the victory

Another Super Saturday was history, and the Lancers had resumed their kingly perch atop the Tri County

Three-Run Rally

Grove Charges to

by LARRY EVERHART

If you don't think lightning can strike twice in the same place, you'll get an argument from Elk Grove baseball coach Larry Peridy.

Peddy was thinking back to the 1968 season after his Grenadiers had come up with a heart-stopping three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning Friday to win a 3-2 thriller from visiting Conant and stay in a three-way tie for first place in the Mid-Suburban League

"Two years back. Conant was here for a game late in the season." Peddy recalled. "They got up on us 4-0 in the late innings, but we pulled that one out too. This was about the same thing today "

The Grenadiers hope the end results will be the same, too. They won the title that year by half a game over Conant by virtue of that dramatic win. This year. Conant is already out of the race with a 1-6 record but Elk Grove, at 8-2 like Wheeling and Forest View, has another championship in mind.

The winning run in the seventh inning

Friday was unearned, but it would not have been necessary had not Conant also scored an uncarned tally earlier. "They gave us a couple and we gave them a couple, and if it hadn't been for that last error, it would still be 0-0 now," said Peddy, "But that's high school baseball."

Neal Noga was in the center of the mob of jubilant Grenadiers when it was over He had stroked the winning hit, a blooper that dropped in among three fielders in left field to chase home Nick Adams

Almost forgotten in the fervor of the exciting finish was a fine pitchers' duel between Elk Grove's Gordie Hollywood and Conant's Bill Arkus Both went the distance and walked just one man. Arkus allowed five hits and struck out eight; Hollywood yielded seven safeties and fanned to.

Conant's Wally Wiener and Rich Gawron smashed doubles in the first and second innings, respectively, but both were left on second. Neither team dented the scoreboard until the fourth, when Neal Schect cracked another two-bagger and scored on a two-base throwing error.

Arkus, displaying excellent control and staying in command, allowed but three scattered singler through the first six innings as Elk Grove just once advanced a runner past first base.

The Cougars then added what anpeared to be an insurance run in the seventh when pinch-hitter John Blasco singled, took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Gil Lopesilvero's base hit.

But the Grenadiers were not about to give up. After a groundout in their half of the seventh, Steve Scholten drew a walk and Scott Clinton ran for him. Scott Pruitt singled to center and took second on a throw to third, where Clinton was Pinch-hitter Nick Adams hit a ground hall which was bobbled while both runs scampered in. The next batter struck out, but Noga came through with his clutch hit to end it.

In district action this week, Elk Grove takes on Lake Park at Elk Grove Monday and Conant (a Saturday winner over Barrington) plays Arlington at Fremd Tuesday.

Forest View, Hersey Golfers Set Records...but Falcons Win

Forest View and Hersey fired the best for his winners' fine showing. He gave four-man golf totals in the history of each school Monday afternoon at the Mount Prospect Country Club Park

BEST

The Huskies notched a nifty 159 total on the par 35 front nine, but it was too much. The Falcons, burning the fairways and scorching the greens, recorded a red hot 151 score to stay in the running for the Mid-Suburban League title

The Falcons, now 5-1 in conference action, had four linksters in the 30s -Wayne Meier (37), Phil Hausman (38). Tom Schmidt (38) and Gary Abramson

The Huskies, now 4-2, had the medalist in Mark Boyett who recorded an even par 35. Mike Sutton also was in the 30s with a 38, but Rich Fosselman (42) and Lance Boyett (41) didn't have the same luck with the narrow course.

Coach Art Klein was asked the reason three:

"I think Abramson found out how good a golfer he was at Chevy Chase . . . Meier and Hausman have been hitting the ball good but had not been scoring until tonight And the big thing - Tom Schmidt is more aggressive . . . He found out that he could go for the pin and he went for it this time Hersey managed to salvage the afternoon proceedings by taking the frosh-soph meet, 188-198, A pair of Mikes — Henry and Klehr - shared the medalist honors with 45s

Pars vs. Tens

Despite early round atters plaguing Union Oil Men's Golf League, Monday night golfers have knocked in 72 pars and five birds along with a number of 10 or better holes. The Tuesday night group has scored 54 pars and one bird to 40 holes of 10 or better.

D Johnson, R Dolan and D. Sharboro scored the first birdies in the Monday night group with Shumate the only birdie shooter in the Tuesday group.

Bracket leaders through May 5 are: Monday, Sharboro, 1, R. Bryntesen, 2, E. Brooks, 3, and D Nelson, 4: Tuesday. L. LeClaire, 1, G Schwimley, 2, C. Babbs, 3, and G Lyons, 4

Hersey Golfers Whip Palatine

Hersey utilized an all-underclass lineup to stroke out a 165-186 conference golf decision over visiting Palatine Thursday

Dean Taggart of the hosts waltzed off with medalist honors at 39 and mates Mike Zakula, Scott Schubert and Steve Jackish backed him up with scores of 41, 42 and 43 respectively.

The Pirates were headed up by Rick Frohne and Ken Drost, both posting 44s while Tom Frohne came in at 47 and Mark Baker hit 51.

The Huskie sophs also reigned 178-189. Kurt Miller led the victors at 41 backed up by Mrke Henry at 43 on the Buffalo

There's nothing like a little batting practice to warm up for the district. And that's just what Mike Pettenuzzo and his mates took in the form of a 16-9 slugfest victory over non-league opponent Luther North on the Lions' diamond.

It was an enjoyable session for all of coach Pat Mahoney's charges, but most of all for Pettenuzzo. All he did was blast three tape-measure home runs, all to left field, in four at-bats to drive in nine runs for the day. All three round-trippers were three-run jobs.

Baseball has had its one-man wrecking crews, but few have been more destructive than Pettenuzzo He must have thought he was Boog Powell batting against the White Sox.

The contest, the last St. Viator will play at home this season, featured a total of 26 hits, 16 of them by the hosts. In addition to Pettenuzzo, two other Lions collected three hits, Mark Rossi Tom Smith, Mike Abinanti and Rossi, had a trip of singles and scored four times and Tom Snuth had a double and two singles and drove in three runs.

Mark Delaney pitched a good game until the sixth inning when Luther North erupted for five runs. Delaney struck out 10 and walked three. Scott Lindbergh finished up, also pitching well except for a home run by the first batter who faced

St. Viator jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on the first of Pettenuzzo's blasts. Luther North answered with a solo wallop in the second to make it 3-1.

But the fireworks were just starting for Viator. The Lions rocketed to a 9-1 lead in the second on a six-run eruption.

The first three came on - you guessed it - another clout by Pettenuzzo after singles by Mike O'Donnell and Mark Rossi. The other three runs came on a string of four singles, by Steve Smith, plus a wild pitch. Doubles by Tom Smith and Bill Madden in the fourth made the margin 10-3 after Luther North had managed a pair of tallies in the top of that frame. It was 12-3 after the fifth, when Tom Smith stroked a two-run single. Luther North made it an interesting game again in the sixth, closing to 12-9 with a six-run outburst of their own, chasing Delaney and giving Mahoney a few anxious moments. Figuring in this rally were two home runs, three singles and two errors

But the Lions made it a laugher once again with four more in the bottom of the sixth. The highlight came when Pettenuzzo again came to the plate with two on and the result was the same.

St. Viator opens district action today at 4 15 against neighboring Hersey at Forest View.

Hinkin Backs Black For Moderator

TIMA TAKACH IS the sexy teacher in this skit where the fellas find things too distracting to pay attention to the lesson. This week is Senior Week at Lake Park High School. The hilerious week of pranks, antics, and stunts will conclude when the seniors put on a series of satirical skits criticizing administrators and teachers, "just for

The Rev. Thomas M. Hinkin, pastor of ing commissioners, will emphasize and the First Presbyterian Church in Itasca, will spearhead the nomination and election of the airst Negro National Moderator to the United Presbyterian Church in America May 20 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Chicago moderator for over 85,000 Presbyterians in the Chicagoland area including 58,000 in the suburbs, Rev. Hinkin intends to support Dr. A. L. Reynolds to fill the post of national moderator.

"I'm voting for the man and he has the qualifications for the job," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is a moderating type of person and can bring divergent views in the church together. He has a reconciling effect for people with different points of

DR. REYNOLDS IS well-known for his reconciliation methods. In 1956 he presided over an all-white congregation of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church when they decided to meet the challenge of a changing neighborhood. Twelve years later many members of his white congregation remain close friends and workers for his church. He has also served extensively in predominantly black communities.

The nomination and possible election of Dr. Reynolds will highlight a week-long conference May 20-27 in which approximately 2,000 persons, including 823 votdiscuss current problems in society.

Among the crucial social topics to be discussed will be drug use, treatment and punishment, financial support of the church on all governmental levels, "The Military-Industrial Complex," "Sexuality and the Human Community" and "The Arms Race and Christian Concern.

THE 182ND GENERAL Assembly will also call for the establishment of a national holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King.

While Dr. Reynolds is the only Negro candidate among five announced candidates, the Itasca's pastor's support for him is based on more than need and necessity. Dr. Reynolds has been a personal friend to the Itasca minister for the past 15 years.

Because of this personal knowledge of the man. Rev. Hinkin feels he is the best qualified for the job. The fact that he is a Negro and the first to possibly be selected national moderator is coincidental. according to the Itasca clergyman.

"He cares about people." Rev. Hinkin said. "He is aware of the problems of today and has been especially effective in getting both black and white Presbyterians to work together. The majority of the men I know will support him."

SUPPORT FOR THE Negro's nomination to the national post is substantial that his possible election was a means of soothing black demands for reparations from the Presbyterian Church.

"A black man or a white man moder ating wouldn't make any difference." Rev. Hinkin retorted. "Our church is over that hump. In the past we over-looked some of the talents of the black church leaders. Now, we are accepting them for what they have to offer."

Dr. Reynolds will attend the conference with many other justified qualifications beside being an effective racial mediator. Numerous church and civic affiliations and citations for his reconciliation contributions to the church are important but the primary consideration. according to Rev. Hinkin, is that Dr Revnolds has the temperament and personality to assist his accomplishments The Itasca clergyman added that he is supporting the candidate because now is the opportune time to elect a qualified individual.

ALTHOUGH REV. HINKIN will avidly support Dr. Reynolds, the nominating speech for the minister will be given by Ed Logelin, vice president of U.S. Steel.

If he is elected as the national moderator to the 182nd General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in America, May 20, Dr. Reynolds will preside over four million Presbyterians.

Mail Strike May Hit Suburbs Wednesday!

by BARRY SIGALE

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled mail service to the suburban area, Paddock Publications has learned.

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow union members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday.

Addison and other western suburban communities were debating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the federal government to legislate postal re-

Pre-Annexation Agreement Eyed

Wood Dale's Village Council Thursday night directed Mayor Ralph Hanson and Village Clerk Jerry Jacobs to proceed with the signing of a pre-annexation agreement with Klefstad Engineering for 164 acres of industrial property presently located in Bensenville.

The pre-annexation agreement is valid pending the outcome of a judge's decision concerning the state's attorney's 'quo warranto" suit which questions the legality of Bensenville's annexation of Klefstad property.

Dr. Ralph Madonna, chief negotiator for the Klefstad property, told village councilmen he wanted to prepare the way for the annexation coming into Wood Dale as quickly as possible.

May 20 will be the earliest date in which a decision on the Klefstad property will be rendered.

line, stranding thousands of pieces of

"We haven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us," said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview.

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things, but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad. We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis."

The timing that the union representative was referring to was trouble and strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing the trucking industry.

THE THREAT that a postal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC.

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever. To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers.

'Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own. One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in effect. They could be in contempt of court if they go out."

Zych said the Chicago union leaders agreed in total with the national union representatives' decision not to take any strike action and to give Congress and the President a chance to pass legislation to improve postal benefits.

"THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike. We are not going to be swayed by a decision by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership). As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once. I won't do it again,

"I just received a telegram saying that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund. We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation."

Zych said he has received several queries from suburban union carriers

'Polluted' In Clean-up

Spring Brook Creek pollution is having "ill effects" on Itasca school children. That's the apparent diagnosis from Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who urged pollution-conscious students to stay out of the way as they continue cleaning the

"I think they did a fine job for the village of Itasca," Nottke said, However, the water in Spring Brook is polluted water and harmful.

Nottke's remarks came Tuesday night after it was revealed that two sixthgrade students at the Itasca North Junior High School received infections after cutting themselves while cleaning up the creek May 2. The class had been conducting a cleanup project.

NOTTKE URGED THE students to seek parental permission to clean up the creek before embarking on further poliution campaigns.

While village Boy Scouts also are seek ing a rubbish-removal day for the creek. Nottke asked them to consider helping the park district plant trees in the Green Belt area.

"We have some very fine young citizens here," Stanley Rossol, Itasca police chief, said. "I would like to thank you."

Fire Hydrant Inspection Due

The Wood Dale Volunteer Fire Depart. ment will begin its annual inspection of all Wood Dale fire hydrants May 17 from 8 a.m. until noon.

The inspection will continue throughout the village until all hydrants have been checked.

Matt Bottford and Art Conlon of the Illinois Junior Miss executive board and their wives. AT SUNDAY afternoon's judging Marilyn presented her talent in the creative and performing arts category, an original combination jazz-ballet dance to "What A Day for a Day Dream."

The Junior Misses wound up the week-end with a special Mother's Day program. Joining them were those parents present for the Pageant and the families with whom the Junior Misses live while in Mobile. Marilyn's host family is Dr. and Mrs. John Zieman.

Preliminary judging will end tonight. Marilyn is scheduled to take part in the youth fitness category at tonight's performance, with the chance of winning a $1,000 preliminary award scholarship.

Tuesday will be spent rehearsing for the nationally televised finals Wednesday over NBC-TV at 8 p.m. CDT. Awards that night total $27,500, including the $10,000 that goes to the new America's Junior Miss.

BUT COME tomorrow the seniors will have their turn. It's Take-Over Day and they intend to do just that, taking autonomous control of all faculty positions and instructing all classes for the day. "There are 90 seniors involved," said Miss Patrick, "and each will have to be prepared to teach a class. They are taking this very seriously," she added, "and working diligently with the teachers to prepare lesson plans and lectures." Snickers and giggles, to say nothing of howls and wolf calls, should fill the corri-more horselaughs will be in order. The villainous seniors, dressed as cavemen, will take to the outdoors and casually prance away the morning hours playing games. Unfortunately, the fun-loving imps will have to return to the inner confines of school by noon, "If we lt's "Healthy can get them in," adds Miss Patrick.

THE WEEK'S PRANKS and antics will come to an hilarious conclusion on Friday - Dress-Up Day and Skits Day. "The kids will dress up decent for a change," said Miss Patrick. But that's only part of it. The day will conclude with one hour of satirical skits staged for the seniors, juniors and faculty members who can stand it.

The students will criticize, in hilarious fashion, such taboo targets as the administrators, teachers, and school policies.

For example, the school apparently places a great deal of importance on ID Cards. Therefore, in one skit, the fathers.

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature

11.B. 1241 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Two months later in the State Senate, the bill

Students To Sit In Official Seats

Students at Addison Trail High School today begin their participation in Student Government Week.

Several selected students will sit in with Addison officials at various meetings and follow them as they work during the day.

The students include Jerry Bechtold, Pam Zordani, Al Echeverria, Don Hook, Laura Mirshak, Chris Repa, Larry Rouse and Rich Wren.

ALSO INCLUDED are Lydia Ainely, Ed Zatch, Carl Ortale, Dean Baccarino, Joe Raczak, Ken Kalbfleisch, John Baffa, Jim Parr, Pat Berg, Russ Nelms, Geri Pasquini, Greg Bagni, Dave Stillman. Marilyn Rumple and Pat Schmidt.

The Addiston Trail Students follow in the footsteps of Driscoll High School students, who acted as counterparts to village officials last week.

The officials agreed after the week's activities that the Driscoll students were attentive to their explanations of how government operates. After Monday's board meeting the students received recognition certificates from the Addison Kiwants Club and a trophy for the school.

The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban areas. The group, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmiurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session,' Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement before they agreed to come into the vil-

Hydrants Probed In Bizarre Fire

"This council will conduct a full investigation.''

Those were the words spoken by May-Ralph Hanson to irate Wood Dale residents Thursday night, following a bizarre fire the night before in which village volunteer firemen could not fight the blaze because of a shutoff valve at two hydrants.

While Wood Dale firemen waited five minutes for a buffalo key to be brought to the scene, the home of Higinio Salas, 236 Orchard St., continued to burn.

"WE HAVE INSTRUCTED our village engineer to check out every hydrant in the village." Dr. Ralph Madonna, sewer and water commissioner, asserted, "To say, at this point, that anyone is to blame is premature. We will carry on the investigation to determine where the

Madonna added that the payment for the sewer and water assessment for Orchard Street homeowners that usually goes to the contractor and the village engineer will be delayed pending the findings of the investigation.

While Madonna affirmed that the sewer and water contractor would check out every hydrant in the village, fire department officials at the council meeting lambasted the village for neglect and not heeding the recommendations of the fire department concerning the hydrants.

Fireman Chris Knoll told Madonna that a hydrant check made of his street Thursday revealed that 50 per cent of them were shut off at the buffalo box.

DANIEL ARRIENDALE, treasurer of the fire department, also joined in the criticism of village hydrant checks. Arriendale told councilmen that he would take them around the village and show them old and new fire hydrants that didn't function.

"We have a maintenance check every year on all the hydrants in the village," replied Madonna.

Meanwhile, Salas, whose house burned down, lauded the village firemen for doing an outstanding job.

"I hope something will be done. I don't wish anybody to go through the sorrow that my family went through last night," said Salas, whose family escaped the flames unharmed.

Lifeguards and instructors for the pool were interviewed last weekend, Derda said. Lessons by the park district will begin a few weeks after the pool opens.

The Roselle Park Board has authorized the expenditure of $1,650 for concession stand equipment located near the pool, last Wednesday.

The board is also proceeding with plans to develop the baseball diamond and tennis courts at the site where the pool is located. They probably won't be completed, however, Derda said until the New Multi-Family Housing Units?

The possibility of more multiple-family housing units in the east of Roselle was informally presented to the village plan ning commission Thursday.

The commission heard tentative plans for about 24 acres east of the Jewel-Osco store and the Willow Creek Development and south of the Pulte Development.

Scholz Homes is currently doing the planning for proposed condominiums in the area, according to a representative of the development.

INITIAL PLANS call for five story elevator buildings with underground parking and plenty of green space, the commission was told.

"People, especially older people want to move out of their homes. They're getting tired of mowing the lawns yet they have their roots here and don't want to move. But they have to have the kind of housing they want, and we're offering apartments but yet not the typical kind.

"If a town is as good as we think it is. then we're convinced people will pay more for extra conveniences like elevators," the representative said.

THE COMMISSION made no comment about the proposed development but Charles Turner remarked, "one hurdle you'll have is convincing the school board of the value of the project.'

Village Pres. Robert Frantz noted Roselle would have condominium or townhouse type of units in the Kenn

Bros, development and wasn't lacking in that type of housing.

In other action, the commission officially informed Joseph Beckman by letter his plans for annexation hadn't been approved and adviesd him any engineering and construction done in the development would risk not having formal reaction from the commission.

After the first presentation of the Beckman plan to the commission, no other meetings were held and Beckman began negotiations with the village board, How ever, the concept of multiple family zoning was approved by the commission, according to Frantz.

THE COMMISSION registered formal reaction to three issues scheduled for public hearings before the zoning boar of appeals May 20. The commission recommended unanimously to deny Lakeshore Oil Co.'s petition for a car wash on Maple Street near Irving Park Road because of the existing car wash immediately adjacent and the traffic problems which would follow. By a vote of 4 to 2, with Louis Narcisi and Lyman Gould opposed, the commission voted to recommend B-2 commercial zoning for three lots on Rosello Road north of the post office owned by Irene Kisselberg. A special use permit for gas tanks for

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session," Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

"Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race rack at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. "This council will conduct a full investigation."

Those were the words spoken by Mayor Ralph Hanson to irate Wood Dale residents Thursday night, following a bizarre fire the night before in which village volunteer firemen could not fight the blaze because of a shutoff valve at two bydrants.

While Madonna affirmed that the sewer and water contractor would check out every hydrant in the village, fire department officials at the council meeting lambasted the village for neglect and not heeding the recommendations of the fire department concerning the hydrants.

Fireman Chris Knoll told Madonna that a hydrant check made of his street Thursday revealed that 50 per cent of them were shut off at the buffalo box.

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled muil service to the suburban area. Paddock Publications has learned.

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow union members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday.

Addison and other western suburban communities were debating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the federal government to legislate postal re-

THE STRIKE could touch off a nationwide series of walkouts similar to the action taken March 20, in which dozens of ployes took up positions on the picket Chicago suburban post offices shut down (Addison was one of the first) and em-

line, stranding thousands of pieces of

"We haven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us," said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview.

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things, but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad. We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis."

The timing that the union representative was referring to was trouble and strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing the trucking industry.

THE THREAT that a postal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC.

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever. To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers.

"Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own. One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in effeet. They could be in contempt of court if they go out."

Zych said the Chicago union leaders agreed in total with the national union representatives' decision not to take any strike action and to give Congress and the President a chance to pass legislation to improve postal benefits.

"THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike. We are not going to be swayed by a meetsion by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership). As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once. I won't do it again.

"I just received a telegram saving that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund.

We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation."

Zych said he has received several queries from suburban union carriers and that they have expressed their unwillingness to walk off the job this week. He added that these suburban carriers would follow whatever action the Chicago leaders take. Meanwhile, union representatives throughout the country have received a telegram from the office of James H. Rademacher, president of the NALC, asking local members not to go on strike.

But, despite the official objections to a strike, postal employes throughout the area still mistrust their employers in Washington who, they said, have promised so much for so long. And the militants remain militant.

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session.' Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings.

Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement before they agreed to come into the village. On the other hand, Knuepfer said municipalities have considered the bill strong legislation for years.

"WE WILL TRY TO give cities greater freedom of annexation and at the same

Hydrants Probed In Bizarre Fire

"This council will conduct a full investigation."

Those were the words spoken by Mayor Ralph Hanson to irate Wood Dale residents Thursday night, following a bizarre fire the night before in which village volunteer firemen could not fight the blaze because of a shutoff valve at two hydrants.

While Wood Dale firemen waited five minutes for a buffalo key to be brought to the scene, the home of Higinio Salas, 236 Orchard St., continued to burn.

"WE HAVE INSTRUCTED our village engineer to check out every hydrant in the village," Dr. Ralph Madonna, sewer and water commissioner, asserted. "To say, at this point, that anyone is to blame is premature. We will carry on the investigation to determine where the

Madonna added that the payment for the sewer and water assessment for Orchard Street homeowners that usually goes to the contractor and the village engineer will be delayed pending the findings of the investigation.

While Madonna affirmed that the sewer and water contractor would check out every hydrant in the village, fire department officials at the council meeting lambasted the village for neglect and not heeding the recommendations of the fire department concerning the hydrants.

Fireman Chris Knoll told Madonna that a hydrant check made of his street Thursday revealed that 50 per cent of them were shut off at the buffalo box.

DANIEL ARRIENDALE, treasurer of the fire department, also joined in the criticism of village hydrant checks. Arriendale told councilmen that he would take them around the village and show them old and new fire hydrants that didn't function.

"We have a maintenance check every year on all the hydrants in the village,' replied Madonna

Meanwhile, Salas, whose house burned down, lauged the village firemen for doing an outstanding job.

"I hope something will be done. I don't wish anybody to go through the sorrow that my family went through last night," said Salas, whose family escaped the flames unbarmed.

Hinkin Backs Black For Moderator

TINA TAKACH IS the sexy teacher in this skit where the fellas find things too distracting to pay attention to the lesson. This week is Senior Week at Lake Park High School. The hilarious week of pranks, antics, and stunts

will conclude when the seniors put on a series of satirical skits criticizing administrators and teachers, "just for

The Rev. Thomas M. Hinkin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Itasca. will spearhead the nomination and election of the first Negro National Moderator to the United Presbyterian Church in America May 20 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Chicago moderator for over 85,000 Presbyterians in the Chicagoland area including 58,000 in the suburbs, Rev. Hinkin intends to support Dr. A. L. Reynolds to fill the post of national moderator.

'I'm voting for the man and he has the qualifications for the job," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is a moderating type of person and can bring divergent views in the church together. He has a reconciling effect for people with different points of

DR. REYNOLDS IS well-known for his reconciliation methods. In 1956 he presided over an all-white congregation of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church when they decided to meet the challenge of a changing neighborhood. Twelve years later many members of his white congregation remain close friends and workers for his church. He has also served extensively in predominantly black communities.

The nomination and possible election of Dr. Reynolds will highlight a week-long conference May 20-27 in which approximately 2,000 persons, including 823 voting commissioners, will emphasize and discuss current problems in society.

Among the crucial social topics to be discussed will be drug use, treatment and punishment, financial support of the church on all governmental levels, "The Military-Industrial Complex," "Sexuality and the Human Community" and "The Arms Race and Christian Concern."

THE 182ND GENERAL Assembly will also call for the establishment of a national holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King.

While Dr. Reynolds is the only Negro candidate among five announced candidates, the Itasca's pastor's support for him is based on more than need and necessity. Dr. Reynolds has been a personal friend to the Itasca minister for the past 15 years.

Because of this personal knowledge of the man, Rev. Hinkin feels he is the best qualified for the job. The fact that he is a Negro and the first to possibly be selected national moderator is coincidental, according to the Itasca clergyman.

"He cares about people," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is aware of the problems of today and has been especially effective in getting both black and white Presbyterians to work together. The majority of the men I know will support him."

SUPPORT FOR THE Negro's nomination to the national post is substantial but Rev. Hinkin rejects any allegations that his possible election was a means of soothing black demands for reparations from the Presbyterian Church.

"A black man or a white man moderating wouldn't make any difference. Rev. Hinkin retorted. "Our church is over that hump. In the past we overlooked some of the talents of the black church leaders. Now, we are accepting them for what they have to offer."

Dr. Reynolds will attend the conference with many other justified qualifications beside being an effective racial mediator. Numerous church and civic affiliations and citations for his reconciliation contributions to the church are important but the primary consideration. according to Rev. Hinkin, is that Dr. Reynolds has the temperament and personality to assist his accomplishments. The Itasca clergyman added that he is supporting the candidate because now is the opportune time to elect a qualified individual.

ALTHOUGH REV. HINKIN will avidly support Dr. Reynolds, the nominating speech for the minister will be given by Ed Logelin, vice president of U.S. Steel.

If he is elected as the national moderator to the 182nd General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in America, May 20, Dr. Reynolds will preside over four million Presbyterians.

Mail Strike May Hit Suburbs Wednesday!

by BARRY SIGALE

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled mail service to the suburban area, Paddock Publications has learned.

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow union members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday.

Addison and other western suburban communities were debating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the federal government to legislate postal re-

Pre-Annexation Agreement Eyed

Wood Dale's Village Council Thursday night directed Mayor Ralph Hanson and Village Clerk Jerry Jacobs to proceed with the signing of a pre-annexation agreement with Klefstad Engineering for 164 acres of industrial property presently located in Bensenville.

The pre-annexation agreement is valid pending the outcome of a judge's decision concerning the state's attorney's "quo warranto" suit which questions the legality of Bensenville's annexation of Kiefstad property.

Dr. Ralph Madonna, chief negotiator for the Klefstad property, told village councilmen he wanted to prepare the way for the annexation coming into Wood Dale as quickly as possible.

May 20 will be the earliest date in which a decision on the Klefstad property will be rendered.

"We haven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us," said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview.

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things, but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad. We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis."

The timing that the union representative was referring to was trouble and strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing the trucking industry.

THE THREAT that a postal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC.

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever. To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers.

"Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own. One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in ef-

agreed in total with the national union representatives' decision not to take any strike action and to give Congress and the President a chance to pass legislation to improve postal benefits.

"THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike. We are not going to be swayed by a decision by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership). As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once. I won't do it again.

"I just received a telegram saying that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund. We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation."

Zych said he has received several queries from suburban union carriers

Spring Brook Creek pollution is having "ill effects" on Itasca school children

That's the apparent diagnosis from Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who urged pollution-conscious students to stay out of the way as they continue cleaning the creek.

"I think they did a fine job for the village of Itasca." Nottke said. However the water in Spring Brook is polluted we ter and harmful."

Nottke's remarks came Tuesday nig': after it was revealed that two sixth grade students at the Itasca North Junior High School received infections after cutting themselves while cleaning up the creek May 2. The class had been con ducting a cleanup project.

NOTTKE URGED THE students to seek parental permission to clean up the creek before embarking on further pollution campaigns.

Birthday Cake For Marilyn

Illinois Junior Miss Marilyn Raedel has just had one of the most memorable weekends of her young life.

In Mobile, Ala., where the Wheeling High School senior is participating in the 13th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant, she observed her 18th birthday on

Pageant officials had a special cake baked for her, complete with 18 candles, and as it was presented, the other 49 state winners sang "Happy birthday, Marilyn." Marilyn, formerly of Prospect Heights and now of Barrington, was the only Junior Miss to have a birthday during the contest.

Preliminary judging began Saturday night with the first public performance in the huge Mobile municipal auditorium. Marilyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raedel, were in the audience along with

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature.

H.B. 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Two months later in the State Senate, the bill

The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban areas. The group, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session. Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

'Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Hydrants Probed In Bizarre Fire

"This council will conduct a full investigation."

Those were the words spoken by Mayor Ralph Hanson to irate Wood Dale residents Thursday night, following a bizarre fire the night before in which village volunteer firemen could not fight the blaze because of a shutoff valve at two hydrants.

While Wood Dale firemen waited five minutes for a buffalo key to be brought to the scene, the home of Higinio Salas, 236 Orchard St., continued to burn.

"WE HAVE INSTRUCTED our village engineer to check out every hydrant in the village," Dr. Ralph Madonna, sewer and water commissioner, asserted. "To say, at this point, that anyone is to blame is premature. We will carry on the investigation to determine where the

Fireman Chris Knoll told Madonna that a hydrant check made of his street Thursday revealed that 50 per cent of them were shut off at the buffalo box.

DANIEL ARRIENDALE, treasurer of the fire department, also joined in the criticism of village hydrant checks. Arriendale told councilmen that he would take them around the village and show them old and new fire hydrants that didn't function.

"We have a maintenance check every year on all the hydrants in the village," replied Madonna.

Meanwhile, Salas, whose house burned down, lauded the village firemen for doing an outstanding job.

"I hope something will be done. I don't wish anybody to go through the sorrow that my family went through last night," said Salas, whose family escaped the flames unharmed.

Janis of having personal control of the situation because he was fidgeting with the temperature-control knob. Finally, Mayor Ralph Hansen interjected his thoughts amidst the controversy.

"I only have one question," the mayor said. "What's wrong with the thermostat? One minute we're freezing, the next we're cold."

The situation was corrected in record

Half-Staff Flag Ends Threat of 'Riot'

by TOM WELLMAN

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at half-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting of the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that the flag should stay at half-staff for only three days dissolved. The board niembers approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

THEN. THE RESOLUTION reads that the flag should be lowered "as a memorial to the recent regrettable deaths of the Kent State University students."

After the resolution was unanimously approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was suposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to

That fact became apparent Friday afternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and lower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

"IT'S DOWN, AND it's going to stay down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, who helped lower the flag on Wednesday and Thursday. "If the same people (are present), it'll stay down," he told 200 students and faculty members Friday.

Two other students, Raymond Sklencar and Robert Yadon of Arlington Heights, urged the persons at the rally to support the action to keep the flag at half-staff.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday

Harvey asserted that some of the facts in the matter had been misstated by the students, and that a poll of Faculty Senate support did not indicate just how long the faculty members wanted the flag

The Elk Grove Village Board will consider formation of a housing commission to solve the shortage of low-and moderate-income housing in the community.

Jack Pahl, village president, indicated recently that the board will give serious study to establishment of a commission.

The commission, which would have legal status, was recommended to the board by the housing task force in a 10page report released April 14.

The village board and task force met Thursday to discuss the report and its recommendations.

PAHL ALSO INDICATED it was not likely that the village board would participate in a survey of housing needs in a four-township area. The study, recommended by the task force, would cost from $80,000 to $100,000 with Elk Grove's share, $10.000.

Pahl said it would take at least five years trying to get the contributions from local governments.

As an alternative, he said he has sought help from the Northeastern Illinois Plenning Commission (NIPC), which has the "capability and techniques to determine housing needs.

In another area Pahl said he no longer wanted the village to become involved with the families a task force subcommittee was attempting to place.

He said he would not tell the task force not to look after the families but that the village itself was not to become involved

A SUBCOMMITTEE OF the task force had been in charge of placing 17 Mexican-American families. Some of the families sought independent solutions and others were housed temporarily, but three are still in need of housing.

William Koretke, task force chairman, said the members would meet Wednesday to decide whether the subcommittee would continue.

The task force is also to come up with recommendations and objectives for the proposed housing commission. Trustee Eugene Keith said he wanted the goals to be explained through a mailing to the residents.

"They should know what we're planning," he said, disavowing any kind of secrecy connected with a housing commission.

AFTER THE MEETING Koretke said he felt it showed the beginning of the leadership role a political body should

The Rev. Maynard Beal, a task force member, said if Elk Grove cannot get other communities to cooperate to solve the housing shortage it should do so on its own.

John Sheehan, a member of Neighbors at Work (NAW) organization, indicated he was disappointed with the meeting.

He mentioned the deaths of five children in fires over the past few years and said, "We might as well admit we do not want to solve the problem."

Birthday Cake For Marilyn

Illinois Junior Miss Marilyn Raedel AT SUNDAY afternoon's judging Marihas just had one of the most memorable weekends of her young life.

In Mobile, Ala., where the Wheeling High School senior is participating in the 13th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant, she observed her 18th birthday on

Pageant officials had a special cake baked for her, complete with 18 candles. and as it was presented, the other 49 state winners sang "Happy birthday. Marilyn " Marilyn, formerly of Prospect Heights and now of Barrington, was the only Junior . liss to have a birthday during the contest.

Preliminary judging began Saturday night with the first public performance in the huge Mobile municipal auditorium. Marilyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raedel, were in the audience along with Matt Bottford and Art Conlon of the Ill-Inois Junior Miss executive board and their wives.

lyn presented her talent in the creative and performing arts category, an original combination jazz-ballet dance to "What A Day for a Day Dream."

The Junior Misses wound up the weekend with a special Mother's Day program. Joining them were those parents present for the Pageant and the families with whom the Junior Misses live while in Mobile. Marilyn's host family is Dr. and Mrs. John Zieman.

Preliminary judging will end tonight. Marilyn is scheduled to take part in the youth fitness category at tonight's performance, with the chance of winning a $1,000 preliminary award scholarship.

Tuesday will be spent rehearsing for the nationally televised finals Wednesday over NBC-TV at 8 p.m. CDT. Awards that night total $27,500, including the $10,000 that goes to the new America's Junior Miss.

A June 10 settlement this time could cause problems, since salaries are interrelated with the school budget. The budget, under the study of Louis Audi, finance director, cannot be finalized until contract negotiations are settled.

Audi is leaving the district June 17 and a new finance director has not been hired as yet. Although Audi had said he would extend his services through August if necessary, a late settlement could cause difficulties in organizing the budget before its September deadline.

ALTHOUGH NO ONE has predicted a late settlement date, no one has predicted otherwise, and the trend seems to

So believes Dave Robert, Dist. 59 teacher council salary negotiation chairman. Robert predicted in late March that it would be several months before the contracts come to a vote.

To this point, the two teams have been "dickering on non-monetary issues," according to William Pavesic, Teacher Council treasurer.

Pavesic termed the meetings "very amicable." He said, "I really don't see any problem, but we have yet to touch on monetary issues.

The council, which presented its proposal in early March, is waiting for a return proposal from the administration.

Negotiations are going slow, but apparently "even-keeled" according to Robert Brower, district personnel assistant superintendent and chairman of the administration negotiating team.

THE ADMINISTRATION team also includes Al Stone, Grove Junior High princiapl; Anthony Mostardo, Clearmont School principal; and Al Waltman, acting superintendent.

"Other personnel work with the team as we need them." Brower said.

The board of education hired a district negotiator in April to represent them. He is Wesley Wildman, a faculty member of the University of Chicago specializing in

Housing Panel Raps Smith Stand

Comments by Thomas E. Smith, Elk Grove Village Community Service director, on the need for a housing study were blasted recently by a housing task force member.

Edward Kenna, a member of Village Pres. Jack Pahl's housing task force, said, "Mr. Smith labels our recommendations regarding a study as absurd, and, as typical of most statements made by Mr. Smith, he makes no recommendations of his own."

The task force last month recommended to the village board that the housing shortage could best be approached if a regional study costing from $80,000 to $100,000 were made.

Smith wrote a letter to the village board saying that the problem is obvious and anyone recommending a study is

'suspect of procrastination. KENNA REPLIED that Smith and other area agencies had been asked for details of the housing needs and could not respond. Kenna added, "The attitude that we should do something, anything without a comprehensive program, is why most

"When Jack Pahl asked me to serve on the housing task force it was to help develop programs to solve the problems of people in our area, young married couples, elderly citizens, and low income persons, residing in this area, and not to go elsewhere and recruit people to live in yet unbuilt public housing units. The housing task force has never implied that a problem didn't exist, we only recommended that instead of halfbaked and un-planned solutions that for a change the problem be approached in an intelligent and businesslike manner.

"THE NUMBER OF families that have been permanently housed since last January should be a pretty good indication of the results of the approach taken by Mr. Smith and those that agree with his thinking and methods (Few of the families have permanent homes.)

"I submit that it is time for the majority of people in this area to break out of their cocoon of apathy and make their wishes known or accept the fact that one of the two minorities will exert their will and foist upon us one of the two programs: do nothing; or embark on un-

Fire Pact Is Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

"The response is on a voluntary basis, with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well," Fogarty explained. "I have a 10-man department with ments are the biggest limitation, there is three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

"The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. 'In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. "I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

"Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower require-

also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained.

"But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood, Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to the call.

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments, Pairitz said.

"And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

Schmerler Ford Hit By Burglars

Burblars broke into Schmerler Ford. 1200 Busse Hwy., Elk Grove Village, sometime Friday night, and stole over $5,000 worth of office equipment and

Police said that entry to the building was made by smashing one window located in the lower corner of an overhead door on the north end of the body shop. Two tool chests were then broken into by forcing open the padlocks. Police said that several cars and trucks in the body shop were moved by the burglars, apparently in order to move in their own truck and haul away merchandise.

An attempt was made to remove the lock on the door to the service department, but entry was not made. The lock on the door from the body shop to the parts department, though, was pulled off, police said.

Stolen from the parts department were 1,715 spark plugs, valued at $857, four radios, with a total value of $163, a tape player, worth $70 and 34 points with a total value of about $42.

Pre-School Story Hour, 10 a.m., Elk Dist. 59, Park Dist. To Offer Separate Summer Programs

The Elk Grove Park District summer program is being operated separately from the School Dist. 59 summer school program, according to Sandra Little, park recreation superintendent. Mrs. Little indicated that she has received questions concerning the organization of the summer program. She added that the park district summer recreation brochure will be mailed to residents today stating the park district's position. Last year the summer program was offered jointly by the park district and school district.

Mrs. Little explained that the schedules this year, though separate, have been coordinated so that children participating in summer school can still take advantage of the lessons and activities provided by the park district.

Work-Study Grants Being Sought Here

Money for two $500 work-study scholarships at Elk Grove Village Community Service is being sought by Thomas Smith, director.

According to Smith college students have been volunteering their time during the year and he would like to create two employment scholarships to provide positions for the summer.

If the funds are rasied, nominations for college students to fill the positions will be solicited from the community, Smith

Wildman is an "outstanding professional negotiator in Illinois" according to Waltman, and has negotiated for the Chicago Board of Education.

Waltman commented when Wildman was hired, "It's a great idea. We didn't have one last year, but needed one as far as I'm concerned." Although Brower said both teacher council and district negotiators were "very competent" their presence does not appear to be speeding up negotiation. NEGOTIATIONS ON salaries are expected to begin soon, added Brower. He explained that the board of education would be meeting this week to discuss the situation and then a proposal should be readied to be presented to the Teachers Council.

No information has been released concerning the teachers' proposal or district response.

The contracts agreed upon last June included $7,000 for a beginner with a bachelor's degree increasing through 14 steps to $14,145.

Neither teachers nor administrators have ventured to guess when the discussions will end. Pavesic commented, however, "Prob-

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Scrite Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill (24) providing for in voluntary annexation of unincorporated areas may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County react is veck after learning of the defeat of H B 1241 in committee

His ever according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature

IIB 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep Eugene Schlickman R Atlangton Heights Two months later in the State Senate the bill was referred to the Municipal Corpocations Committee for further study

The referral was due partly to the obice tots of a citzens group made up of residents from unincorporated suburnan area The group led by Mrs Marie of Prospect Heights visited Spring ield last May to testify agains

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the slate to test local reaction to HB 1241 under the chairmanship of Sen Jack Knuepfer R Elmhurst

We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session

Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlungton Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify

WE RECOVIMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved said Knuepfer

The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings

Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examine of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlungton Park into Arlungton Heights Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement be fore they agreed to come in o the vil lage

On the other hand Kruepfer said mu nicipalities have considered the bill strong legislation for years WF WILL TRY TO give cities greater freedom of annexation and a the same time overcome some or these problems.

After hearing of the bill's defeat. Mrs. Caylor, said. The price of victory is eternal vigilance. She said the watch dog legislative commi ee organized by residents of unincorpolited areas of it the introduction of HB 1211 will keep active. The purpose of the committee is to watch out for all legislation affecting unincorporated areas and to object to laws deemed detrimental loss of measurements

I jus Tope they won't attempt to act another bill in the rooper than alrotothe rights of crizers in unincorporated areas added Mrs Caylor

by BARRY SIGALE

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled mail service to the suburban area. Paddock Publications has learned.

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow union members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday.

Addison and other western suburban communities were debating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the federal government to legislate postal re-

THE STRIKE could touch off a nationwide series of walkouts similar to the action taken March 20, in which dozens of ployes took up positions on the picket Chicago suburban post offices shut down Addison was one of the first) and emline, stranding thousands of pieces of

"We haven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us." said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview.

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things, but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad. We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis."

The timing that the union representative was referring to was trouble and strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing the trucking industry,

THE THREAT that a postal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC.

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever. To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers.

"Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own. One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in effect. They could be in contempt of court if they go out."

Zych said the Chicago union leaders

tion to improve postal benefits. "THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike. We are not going to be swayed by a decision by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership). As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once. I won't do it again.

'I just received a telegram saying that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund. We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation."

Zych said he has received several queries from suburban union carriers and that they have expressed their unwillingness to walk off the job this week. He added that these suburban carriers would follow whatever action the Chicago leaders take.

Meanwhile, union representatives throughout the country have received a telegram from the office of James H. Rademacher, president of the NALC, asking local members not to go on strike. But, despite the official objections to a strike, postal employes throughout the area still mistrust their employers in Washington who, they said, have promised so much for so long. And the militants remain militant.

Half-Staff Flag Ends Threat of Harper 'Riot'

Friday evening and Saturday morning. He said the 13 he contacted all (avored the seven-day period.

Ryan also spoke at the Friday rally. He asserted that conservative members of the community did not support the college, after Harvey had indicated that community support had to be a factor in deciding how long the flag should stay up

"This institution is not here to cater to the John Birch Society." he said, and the audience cheered.

Harvey then countered that the majority of the community were not John Birch members. Duffy then asserted that no actual agreement had been reached at the Thursday meeting.

Other students and faculty members spoke at the rolly, and the majority seemed unsympathetic with the threeday agreement. However, there were boos when one speaker suggested "closing down" Harper.

AFTER THE FRIDAY rolly, Harvey asked Duffy for a closed-door Student Senate meeting, but Duffy was unable to gather a quorum before the Saturday meeting. And the decision was reached to call for the Saturday board meeting.

At the Saturday meeting, Gerald Bandemer of Schaumburg presented a 215-signature petition from the Schaumburg area. The petition protested the "unlawful lowering of the flag" by one of the students on Thursday afternoon. Bandemer said he drove past the campus and saw the flag at half-staff. He and two other persons then rang door-bells in two subdivisions to gain support for their netitions.

In the Saturday meeting, most of the open session was given over to a summaof events by Harvey, Duffy and others involved in the incidents on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Briefly, several students lowered the flag to half-staff on Wednesday morning. They were told by Harvey to re-raise it and seek student support through student government channels to gain official permission to have it lowered.

80, DUFFY AND others organized a petition drive to lower the flag for seven days. They gained 1,600 petitions signatures (200 other signatures for an earlier petition merely opposed the Kent killings and the Indo-China War).

The petitions were approved by a Student Senate meeting Thursday morning, and Duffy presented the seven-day recommendation to the administration. Meanwhile, students, acting without official permission, lowered the flag.

After some shouting, confusion and the re-raising of the flag, there was apparent argeement between Duffy, Newby and several administrators that the three-day period hold. However, that apparent agreement was renounced Friday.

Meanwhile, on Thursday the Palatine police sent an observation car to the Harper campus. They told the Herald that, since the demonstration at which students surrounded the flagpole was peaceful, there was no action to take.

president Robert Lahti, who received calls from several citizens upset about the flag being lowered, stressed that the flag was not the central issue. Rather, it was the avoidance of a campus con-

mitteeman of Palatine Township, Mugalian urged the board to allow the students to keep the flag at half-staff until Thursday, which is the end of the original seven-day period.

So, this morning the flag should be flying at half-staff. No ceremony is anticipated, according to Duffy.

And, for everyone involved, the threat of a crisis and confrontation among students (both for and against the lowered flag), policemen and angry citizens is considerably lessened. The flag will be at half-staff until Thursday evening, in memory of four Kent State University

Hinkin Supports Black For Post

The Rev. Thomas M. Hinkin, paster of the First Presbyterian Church in Hasca, will spearhead the nomination and election of the first Negro National Moderator to the United Presbyterian Church in America May 20 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Chicago moderator for over 85,000 Presbyterians in the Chicogoland area including 58,000 in the suburbs, Rev. Hinkin intends to support Dr. A. L. Reynolds to fill the post of national moderator.

"I'm voting for the man and he has the qualifications for the job," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is a moderating type of person and can bring divergent views in the church together. He has a reconciling effect for people with different points of

DR. REYNOLDS IS well-known for his reconciliation methods. In 1956 he presided over an all-white congregation of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church when they decided to meet the challenge of a changing neighborhood. Twelve years later many members of his white congregation remain close friends and workers for his church. He has also served extensively in predominantly black communities,

The nomination and possible election of Dr. Reynolds will highlight a week-long conference May 20-27 in which approximately 2,000 persons, including 823 voting commissioners, will emphasize and discuss current problems in society.

Among the crucial social topics to be discussed will be drug use, treatment and punishment, financial support of the church on all governmental levels, "The Military-Industrial Complex," "Sexuality and the Human Community" and "The Arms Race and Christian Concern.'

THE 182ND GENERAL Assembly will also call for the establishment of a national holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King.

While Dr. Reynolds is the only Negro candidate among five announced candidates, the Itasca's paster's support for him is based on more than need and necessity, Dr. Reynolds has been a personal friend to the Itasca minister for the past 15 years. Because of this personal knowledge of the man, Rev. Hinkin feels he is the best qualified for the job. The fact that he is a Negro and the first to possibly be selected national moderator is coincidental, according to the Itasca clergyman. "He cares about people," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is aware of the problems of today and has been especially effective in getting both black and white Presbyterians to work together. The majority of the men I know will support him."

SUPPORT FOR THE Negro's nomination to the national post is substantial but Rev. Hinkin rejects any allegations that his possible election was a means of soothing black demands for reparations from the Presbyterian Church.

"A black man or a white man moderating wouldn't make any difference," Rev. Hinkin retorted. "Our church is over that hump. In the past we overlooked some of the talents of the black church leaders. Now, we are accepting them for what they have to offer."

Dr. Reynolds will attend the conference with many other justified qualifications beside being an effective racial mediator. Numerous church and civic affiliations and citations for his reconciliotion contributions to the church are important but the primary consideration. according to Rev. Hinkin, is that Dr. Reynolds has the temperament and personality to assist his accomplishments. The Itasca clergyman added that he is supporting the candidate because now is the opportune time to elect a qualified

ALTHOUGH REV. HINKIN will avidly support Dr. Reynolds, the nominating speech for the minister will be given by Ed Logelin, vice president of U.S. Steel.

If he is elected as the national moderator to the 182nd General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in America, May 20. Dr. Reynolds will preside over four million Presbyterians.

Two Area Teams Cop District Titles

Oakley's 74 is Leader

by PAUL LOGAN

Some golf coaches want their boys to set their sights on the conference championship alone, but not Len Fiocca.

Fremd's coach wants his boys to go for the pin - the state title - instead of just for the green — the Mid-Suburban League crown. They did just that on Fri-

The Vikings, led by Jeff Oakley's masterful medalist-shooting performance of a three-over-par 74, carried home the Barrington district team trophy and a free ticket to the state finals in Champaign (May 22-23).

At the tough Highland Park district. where six area schools were competing, only Arlington came close with a fourth place finish. Elk Grove, playing at the Luke Park hosted site, took a sixth.

"This is mostly what we were aiming for more than anything," said the extremely jubilant Fiocca. "We did real well . . . I was happy to see the guys make it . . . We spend a long time working at it.

'And Oakley - that guy was amazing. He beat everybody by three strokes.'

Oakley finished strong with an even par 36 after touring the front nine with a three-over-par 38. This fine junior is a veteran when it comes to district pressure for he finished fifth the year before with a 79 on the same course.

Strauss, the only senior, carded an 8t (41-40). He was followed by juniors Miezio and Kremt who had 82 (42-40) and 83 (43-40), respectively.

Fremd's fifth man - freshman Al Hassen - shot an 86 (44-42) and will also be competing at Champaign.

This will be the first trip for the younger of the Palatine schools. But Fiocea will be taking his second team. He coached at Palatine when his team won a berth in 1966 - the last team from the area to make the trip — and finished

Trackmen Post Dazzling Marks in Prospect Meet

by KEITH REINHARD

Track buffs couldn't have asked for nicer weather for the district running of the state track and field championships at Prospect Friday afternoon and eve-

The thinclads themselves responded accordingly. With temperatures in the high 70s right up to the conclusion of the gathering near 10 p.m. and a nice warm breeze out of the south to encourage them, a total of 47 individuals and seven relay teams earned tickets to the finals at Champaign May 22-23 with stellar performances Friday.

Maine East was the team winner, notling 34% points to outdistance the hosting Knights, Fremd. Maine West, Barrington and Forest View. But even bigger winners were both Maine West and Prospeet, qualifying 13 and 11 slots respectively in the state showdown.

A total of 17 schools of the 23 participants at Prospect all told, placed at least one thincald on the Champaign-bound train later in the month. The Warriors put a pair of relay units aboard along with five other individuals and the Knights qualified seven plus a mile-relay

The winning Blue Demons in the meantime were able to place eight individuals on the qualifyng list. Other squads doing well in this area included Fremd with nine including a relay team and Wheeling and Forest View with seven apiece including relay units.

Weather and competition were so encouraging in fact, that 14 more individuals and another pair of relay groups were turned away from state berths even ofter meeting the qualifying standards.

In eight different categories, all five top finishers equaled or bettered the state specifications and in five of them there were more athletes than slots to A pair of Hersey cindermen were among those turned back. Greg Cawlik turned in an unofficial time of 4:28.8 in the mile run - over a second better than the 4:30 qualifying time - yet finished eighth on the list. Another Husky, Jim Heuer, equaled the 6-1 qualifying height in the high jump but was one of four winding up out of the money. That same event brought even bigger heartbreak to Viking Steve Wickum, who cleared 6-2 - equal to fifth place - but was eliminated because of more misses en route.

There were other setbacks as well. Arlington's Sam Wit had the best effort of the day (21-1) all the way down to last round of the finals in the long jump. Then Maine East's Bob Trautin went 21-31/2 and Wheeling's Jon Pitt leaped 21-21/2

The Card jumper had one last shot himself after that and managed a tremendous 22-4 effort but it was wiped away by a foul and he had to settle for third and miss the Champaign trip.

Another setback of sorts was experienced by Palatine's Guy Zajone in the pole vault competition. The stringy Pirate had the best effort in the state going into the district fray - a 14-3 vault but he could do no better than 13-4 Friday and settled for third.

Zajonc still qualified however, along with three others who cleared 13-4 and Barringtons' Jeff Allen, who won it at 13-8. Not so fortunate were three more vaulters who bettered the 12-8 qualifying standard but did not finish among the top

For all the setbacks, there was still more to cheer about. Conant's Steve Peterson turned in a lighting fast 14.1 to win the high kurdles. It was .2 better than his best previous time, the quickest turned in around the state this spring, and the best ever by an area hurdler.

Eighth Straight Victory

For the eighth consecutive year Arlington High School has won a district tennis tournament. Six area netters qualified for the state meet in Champaign on May 22-23 in action over the weekend.

Arlington hosted and won its own district and qualified two singles players. Greg Harris and freshman Jim Merkel. for the state meet. The championship doubles pair of Tom Ruprecht and Stein Ohrstrom of Hersey and the runnerup pair of Don Martin and Scott Vaughn of Forest View also qualified for the state

Arlington wen the district with 12 points followed by Hersey's eight, Forest View's seven, St. Viator's three and two each by Prospect. Palatine and Fremd.

Wheeling, which competed at the Deerfield District, Elk Grove, which took part at the Maine West District, and Conant, which competed in the Wheaton North District, failed to produce a state qualifier.

Arlington's Harris became one of the first players in years to qualify for state three consecutive years when he won the singles title in the Arlington District. Harris qualified for state in his sophomore and junior campaigns on doubles round and in his first action, which came in the quarter finals, he defeated Hersey's Bill Hutton 6-0 and 6-1. In the semifinal round he defeated Fremd's Steve Calliban 6-1 and 6-3.

Harris has given a bye in the first

In order to win the championship, Harris had to beat his own temmate, Merkel. Harris won the match 6-1 and 6-2.

Merkel, one of the few freshman ever to make the state meet, downed Bill Joyce of Forest View 6-0 and 6-0 in the first round, Jim Dalton of St. Viator 6-1 and 6-1 in the quarter-finals and Paul Burrus of Palatine 2-6, 6-1 and 6-3 in the semi-final round before losing to Harris.

In doubles competition at Arlington, Hersey's Ruprecht and Ohrstrom were involved in a splendid match with Forest View's Martin and Vaughn before winning 7-5, 5-7 and 6-4.

The Hersey twosome opened with a 6-1 and 6-0 win over Fremd's Ed Hume and Jay Buehler, downed Rob Baer and Bruce Starck of Arlington in the quarterfinals, 6-3, 5-7 and 6-0 and Forest View's Kirk Buckholz and Al Malone in the semi-finals before nipping Martin and

The Forest View pair of Martin and Vaughn reached the finals by winning three straight matches in straight sets.

At the Deerfield District, Wheeling had Bob Lemke reach the quarter-finals in Peterson also snagged a third and singles and Ron Fedyski and Wayne Fish

Conant Ousts Barrington In District Action, 7-6

by LARRY EVERHART

When the sun finally peeked out from behind the clouds for the first time in the sixth inning of Saturday's Conant-Barrington clash, it was symbolic for the Cougars.

Just after that, Conant also made a breakthrough, taking the lead after a long, stirring comeback. They held on for a dramatic 7-6 victory in the first round of district play at Fremd. When it was over, Conant coach Jerry Cunningham's face took on a sunny expression, replacing what had been a worried frown all day. Cunningham summed up the Cougars' jubilation when he chirped, "All the way. Seven more and we're downstate." Barrington had spent most of the afternoon blowing off steam — and understandably, since some of the calls against them were horrendous. But at the same time, the Cougars kept their cool, never giving up despite a 6-2 deficit after two innings. Batting hero for the day had to be Wally Wiener, who has been at or near the top of the Cougars' hitting list for two seasons. All Wiener did Saturday was go three for four, including a home run and triple; knock in three runs and score the winning tally. Gil Lopesilvero also made a vital contribution, as one of his two hits was a tape-measure home run that tied the score in the sixth. Mike Arkus and Neal Scheet (who was starting only his second game in left field) also had two solid hits

The game was delayed for the first of several times at the start when one umpire was missing. An emergency volunteer was hastily recruited. The contest was also held up about 30 minutes in the fifth by a sudden thundershower, in addition to several shorter delays resulting from many disputes on umpires' deci-

Both pitchers, Conant's John Macdonald and Barrington's Mike Dunaime, went all the way despite being hit fairly hard. Macdonald wasn't himself at the start, giving up all six runs and five of the seven hits against him in the first two frames.

Macdonald had nowhere near his usual speed during this time, but he suddenly regained it in the third inning and seemed to get stronger from that point on. Hismates rewarded his persistence by unleashing an 11-hit attack. Barrington scored three times in the first, with the big blow being a two-run triple by Grant Wyborny, to wipe out a 2-0 Conant lead. That had come on Wiener's two-run homer, which took a bad bounce, skipped past the left fielder, and just kept rolling. Barrington continued its fireworks in the second, with three more runs for the 6-2 lead. Two errors, two singles and a hit batsmen figured in this rally. But the Bronchos were silenced the rest of the way as Conant gradually ate into the deficit. They closed it to 6-4 in the third when one run scored on an error and Dave Kellermeyer singled in another. Wiener drove one in to make it 6-5 in the fourth. but when an outfielder bobbled the ball. Wiener tried to score and was thrown Lopesilvero opened the sixth with his mighty home run, making it a new game. An out later, Wiener blasted a bad-hop triple to center. On Mike Arkus' ground ball. Wiener was trapped in a rundown and - in everyone's opinion except the plate umpire's - tagged out diving back to third.

qualified in the lows along with teammate Don Wendoll (in second) while Barrington's Brad Mason zipped to victory at 19.8.

In the 100, Falcon Mike Keen raced home at 9.9 to lead three more qualifiers into the state meet. The Forest View flash also nailed down a victory in the 220, topping a list of three more who qualified including Prospect's Paul Hacker and teammate Bob Bell.

Keen's time in the 220 was 21.9 knocking a tenth of a second off his previous best effort.

Five more runners breezed to qualifying berths in the 888, led by Maine East's Jim Olson at 1:56.2. Fremd's Bill Jarocki was second, St. Viator's Steve Schlickman third and Knights Kelth Matthews and Tom Klinker copped fourth and fifth with Klinker just squeezing under the wire at the 159.0 state standard.

Prospect and Fremd also qualified boys in the mile longer features. Demon Rick Randall won the mile at 4:21.9, chased by Ron Hankel of the hosts (4:23.0) and Viking Chuck Porter (4:23.1) along with fourth and fifth place runners who also were well under the 4:30 requirement.

Fremd's Dan Pittinger was an easy victor in the two-mile race, clocking in at 9:28.8, while Bill Allen of Prospect nabbed second and Viking Wally Spiniolas earned fourth. A total of nine runners whisked across the finish line under the 9:47 standard for the two-mile affair.

In the high jump, Prospect's Jeff Meissner got off the best leap of his career, a 6-5 launch that places him among the best in state in this event. A pair of Maine East entries took second and third with Knight Terry Rohan and Husky Don Spry going 6-2 for fourth and fifth respec-

Wildcat Kevin Barthule came up with a discus peg nearly ten feet better than his longest previous effort to head up a field that included Pirate Henry Schneipp, owner of one of the best marks in state. Parthule's winning heave sailed 162-1 white Schnelpp, who has a 172-812 effort to his credit, could do no better than 159-1 and settled for second.

Maine South's Jim Staunton also bettered the 150-0 qualifying mark while taking third in the discus.

Only Broncho Chuck List's winning 55-10 throw bettered the state requirement for the shot put but Fremd's Rick Gaare also earned a ticket downstate by getting off a 52-812 lob good for second place.

The 880 relay was won by Forest View at 1:31.5 and Maine West also earned a crack at state competition by finishing second. Members of the triumphant Faicon half-mite unit were Bob Bell. Howard Mock, Terry Shakon and Mike Keen.

All five top finishers in the mile relay were under the 4:30 qualifying mark.

The winning Fremd quartet, which posted a 3:26.4, included Jim and Bill Jarocki, Mike Menick and Mike Pitchell.

Maine West finished second in the mile relay, pursued by Wheeling and Gary Hildebrandt, Frank Savage, Doug Sanders and Gary Kawell in third; Prospect and Gary Reese, Keith Matthews, Tom Klinker and Scott Szala in fourth; and Arlington and Mike Splitt, Mike D'Angelo, John Curtin and Mike Cleveland in fifth.

Kawell also qualified on his own in the quarter mile. He carded a 50.9 for the runnerup slot to Warrier Jerry Kranik and the two were the only ones coming in under the standard for the 440.

A half a dozen times the game seemed decided between Prospect and Fremd on Friday. However, after three hours and 12 innings, it looked like neither team was going to win the Mid-Suburban League baseball contest on the Vikings' wind-swept field.

Five home runs had been hit (three by Fremd) but, even though the score was 9-9 in the 12th, Mike Berdell, the Knights' starting pitcher, was still going strong.

Berdell, who took all four Fremd hurlers, had been touched for 15 hits and nine runs. However, the big righthander

Wheeling Golfers Shoot Past Grove

Wheeling edged Elk Grove by four strokes, 173-177, in a Mid-Suburban League golf meet at Golden Acres Country Club, the Grenadiers' home.

A pair of Wildcats tied for medalist honors as Don Russ and Jack Kennedy both shot 42's. Terry Nied came in with 44 for the 'Cats and Bob Winters carded a 45.

Bob DeHaven led Elk Grove with a 43, John Flypaa had 44, and Curt Hejduk and Jim Cooley 45 each.

Wheeling also won the frosh-soph action, 182-192, with Wildcat Dave Mehlberg leading the pack with 41.

Men's Softball Loop Needs Men

The Leaning Tower YMCA, 6300 W. Touhy Avenue, Niles. is organizing a men's slow pitch softball league and needs additional players and teams.

The league will be open to all who are 16 years of age or older. Participants may sign up as individuals or as an organized team.

Games will be played during the week in the evenings and will consist of one Round Robin and a Double Elimination Tournament.

Starting date will be the second week of June. Deadline for entries will be May 30, 1970. Entry fee per individual is $5 Leaning Tower Y member; $10 non Y member.

For application forms and additional information call Mike Anselmo, Assistant Physical Director, 647-8222 or 774-8515.

single scoring Den Koehler from third. The Knights recorded another on a freak play. Then Berdell, seemingly indestructible, recorded his 18th and 19th strikeouts, made the final batter ground out, and preserved the marathon, 11-9, victory. Berdell, his blazing bullet and his cutting curve working well throughout the three hour and 20 minute workout, was brilliant in walking just two. Any time a prep pitches 13 innings, faces 56 batters, throws into a strong wind with no fence behind him and still wins, his effort has to be something super.

Twice the Knights seemed to have taken the lead for good, but both times - in the sixth and eighth - the gutty group from Fremd came back. However, Berdell didn't lose his composure.

Very early in the game, big Mike didn't look like he'd pitch the required seven innings as Fremd jumped out in

The Vikings, after falling behind 1-0 on a run-scoring single by Dave Harbach, tallied in the bottom of the second on the opposite field, two-run homer by Rick Peekel to left field.

In the third, it was Simpson's turn to play long-ball. A walk, error and bunt single by Tom Bruns loaded the bases with no outs. Then Simpson sent a line drive to center. A shoe string catch failed and the grand slam made it 6-1. Berdell retired the next three on a strikeout and a double play to get out of Prospect, now 4-6 in league play, saw a fourth inning rally stopped by a Fremd double play. But, in the fifth, the visiting team caught fire scoring four off starter Bruns. Jim Perkins, Greg Sumner and Stu White had run-scoring singles and the other was the result of an error. This made it 6-5, Fremd.

sixth when he powered a shot over the left fielder's head scoring Harbach in front of him. This was off the Vikings' new hurler, Steve Kellett. Fremd, 5-5 in the MSL, came back in the bottom of the seventh, however. Kolze singled and went to second on an error. Then, with two outs. Simpson singled him home to throw the game into extra innings

History repeated itself in the eighth when Koehler, Harbach's replacement. singled and scored on another Lundstedt blast to left. This time Fremd's Rick Peekel was the victom.

Lundstedt

Dave

In the bottom of the eighth, Fremd needed only two swings to deadlock things at 9-9. Dave Houswirth poked one down the "Lundstedt Alley" scoring Bill Cheney ahead of him

Berdell settled down after that homer and fanned the next five Fremd batters. His string was stopped in the ninth when he hit Simpson. The latter stole second and cost Prospect a coach in the process.

The Knights' head man - Larry Pohlman - was thrown out when he pointed out that the plate umpire had missed a swing just before the throw to second. A Fremd batter also was boosted out earlier after arguing with the same ump.

Fremd the ninth through the 13th, Berdell squared off with Fremd's winningest pitcher - Mark Wicklund. Between the two, they fanned 17 - nine by Wicklund. But the latter's last fanning prompted the most freakish play of the long day.

Just before the strikeout, Lundstedt had singled home Koehler with the goahead run in the 13th after two were out. Wicklund threw three past Berdell, but the last missed strike was dropped by Viking catcher Kolze. He thought he tagged Berdell and so he tossed the ball toward the mound and the Fremd team began leaving the field.

But Berdell wasn't called out by the ump and began racing around the bases. Lundstedt, who had been on first, scored and Berdell got to third before order was Fremd might have won the game in either of the two innings before but the 11th frame saw Viking cut down at the plate on a fine throw by Pete Jackson and the 12th saw two die on base after reaching on singles.

Harper Heads Regional Again in Tennis

Lands Spot In National Competition

by PAUL LOGAN

Two years of competitive tennis . . . two regional championships.

Harper College's crack tennis team, taking part in the Region IV net champlonships Saturday at Springfield, came home with the first place team trophy for the second straight year and qualified its team for the National Junior College finals June 8-10 in Ocala, Fla.

Leading Coach Roy Kearns' crew again was Hawk ace Bill Von Boeckmann. The sturdy sophomore standout whipped everyone he faced in straight sets to successfully defend his singles

Von Boeckmann totaled six of Harper's first place points in the 121'2 hour meet which was delayed by rain for two hours and threatened with tornadoes.

The Hawks' No. 1 singles player, unbeaten against all comers this year, progressed to the championship clash in this way:

First round - defeated Mark Schlupp of Rock Valley, 6-0, 6-1; 2nd round stopped Ken Holtz of College of DuPage, 6-1. 6-1; 3rd round - nailed Rick Pleva of Morton, 6-1, 6-1; and 4th round eliminated last year's title foe - Jim Horton — (rom Blackhawk, 6-1, 6-2, to meet the lower bracket winner - Art Schrom of Rock Valley. Schrom had just completed a grueling three-setter and Von Boeckmann put him away with ease. "He (Bill) was an artist at that point

These crushing victories allowed him

— his game was about as perfect as it could be," said his very happy head

Harper's No. 2 man - Randy Seiler and its doubles team of Mike Bierma and Mike Wells accounted for the other four points with two each.

Seiler won his first two matches. He defeated Jim Till from Robert Morris, 6-1. 6-3, and beat Mike Paulis from Lincoin College, 7-5, 6-1. But he met his match in Greg Lawton from College of DuPage and lost 6-4, 6-3.

Bierma and Wells got by Morton's combination of Bob Sotir and John Novotny, 6-2, 7-5, and they handled Lincoln Land's Bib Ricks and Jim Lapp, 7-5, 6-2. But then it was their misfortune to meet the No. 2 seeded team - Illinois Valley's Bert Stetzler and Tony Sorrentino. They were ousted 10-8, 6-3.

Jollet won the doubles title by defeating Illinois Valley, 10-8, 6-3. Illinois Valley finished second to Harper with eight points. In all, 20 schools competed for the trip to Florida. "One comment from all the coaches was that the caliber of tennis was really a lot higher than ever before," Kearns added.

The Hawks will now try to do one of the few things they failed to do in tennis competition last year - win the Northern Illinois Junior College League title.

They will be facing Western Division winner Rock Valley in Rockford on Wednesday.

Cats Club Huskies, Hold Share of Lead

by KEITH REINHARD

The Hersey baseball machine appeared to have run out of gas at Wheeling Friday afternoon.

Playing in their fifth contest in as many days, a sluggish Huskie bunch just didn't seem to have it against the defending Mid-Suburban league champs. The hosts combined eight of their own hits with a rash of Hersey miscues and coasted to an 11-3 decision to retain their share of the circuit lead.

Ron DeBolt's bomestanding crew jumped into a 2-0 advantage after one stanza of play and never trailed after that. Bruce Frase boomed a mighty tworun circuit blast for the guests in the third to bring them within one run of the Wildcats but a five-error, five-run fourth put together by Wheeling sealed Hersey's fate - their sixth loop defeat in ten games this spring.

The triumph was Wheeling's eighth in ten league contests. Scott Day notched it for the hosts with a three-hit, five strikeout stint through inning five that left his club in command 11-2. Hersey tapped reliever Glen Jarzemboski for one unearned run in the seventh but by then Day's third win in four MSL decisions was fairly well insured.

The Wildcats went through four Huskie hurlers. Paul Elisco started and was the fourth. John Dyson drilled a double to left to drive home one run in the first and then scored himself on an error.

In the second Terry Lundouist was hit by a pitch and circled the bases without benefit of a hit when Tony Fricano walked. Dyson reached on an error and then Day walked to force in the run. Fricano reached again on an infield hit to open the fourth and Robbie Richter followed him to the basepaths on an error and Elisco gave way to Bob Leja.

Leja finished out the fourth while Wheeling pulled away on four more errors and back-to-back doubles by Mike Groot and Lundquist.

Greg Prosser pitched the fifth for Hersey while the 'Cats clubbed out their fourth, fifth, and sixth two-base hits of the game. Fricano opened with one and came in on Dyson's double and Dyson. tallied on Day's two-bagger.

Day eventually scored too, on a misgloved grounder. It was Wheeling's sixth unearned run of the contest.

Frase connected for his homer in the third. It too was unearned, coming after Ken Keanepp had reached on an error that should have retired the sides. In the top of the seventh pinch hitter Rich Grutzmacher dropped a single into right, George Solomon beat out an infield hit, stang for five runs before departing in Solomon came round and in when Steve Fisher slapped a liner off Jarzemboski for a safety.

If in Trouble, Call Dave

In his two and a half seasons as a hurler for Palatine High School, Dave Hasbach has rarely been used as a relief

But Friday the 6-2 righthander was called on in relief and he came up with a brilliant saving performance.

In the bottom of the seventh inning Palatine had a 7-5 lead but Glenbard North had runners on second and third with one out. Palatine coach Roy Schodtler then called Hasbach in from third base, handed him the ball and the hardthrowing senior proceeded to strike out the next two Glenbard North batters on just seven pitches.

Those two strikeouts gave Palatine its third Mid-Suburban League win of the season against seven losses and one tie. Glenbard North is 2-7-1 also. Earlier in the season the Pirates and the Panthers played to a 2-2 tie.

Palatine's winning runs came in the top of the seventh inning. Hasbach singled and went to score on Keith One's single. John Compton sacrificed both runners along and John Feekin drove both in with a double.

Palatine took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on a walk to Feekin, a double by Bruce Eberle and a single by John Duir. Glenbard North closed the gap to 2-1 in the fourth on two walks, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly off of Palatine starting pitcher Compton who got credit for the

The Pirates made it 3-1 in the fifth inning on Feekin's single, an error and Eberle's second double of the contest. Glenbard North's Tom Pauling tied the game with a two-run homer in the fifth. Palatine made it 5-3 in the top of the sixth. Chris Andriano reached base on an error and Feekin walked. Eberle's fielder's choice grounder scored Andriano and Duir's single scored Feekin.

The Pirates then added two more runs in the seventh to make it 7-3. Glenbard North came back to score two in the bottom of the seventh but then Hasbach came on to hold off the rally.

Half-Staff Flag Ends Threat of 'Riot'

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at balf-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting of the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that the flag should stay at half-staff for only three days dissolved. The board niembers approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

THEN, THE RESOLUTION reads that the flag should be lowered "as a memorial to the recent regrettable deaths of the Kent State University students.

approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, 'I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to half-staff.

That fact became apparent Friday afternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and 'ower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

"IT'S DOWN, AND it's going to stay

who helped lower the flag on Wednesday and Thursday. "If the same people (are present), it'll stay down," he told 200 students and faculty members Friday.

Two other students, Raymond Sklencar, and Robert Yadon of Arlington Heights, urged the persons at the rally to support the action to keep the flag at half-staff.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday

Harvey asserted that some of the facts in the matter had been misstated by the students, and that a poll of Faculty Senate support did not indicate just how long the faculty members wanted the flag

AT THE SATURDAY meeting, Martin Ryan, president of the Faculty Senate, said he had tried to re-poll the faculty on

OF HOFFMAN ESTATES • SCHAUMBURG • HANOVER PARK

A group of 26 north and Northwest suburban communities are being approached to coordinate a special police force against drug abuse.

A $567.158 grant from the federal government is available if the towns can get

The force is to be called the Metropolitan Narcotics Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group, with each of the 26 suburbs contributing one man during a one-year trial period.

"I think it's worthwhile," said Chief John O'Connell from Hoffman Estates Police Dept He will propose tonight that his village board allow a man from Hoffman Estates to participate.

O'CONNELL ESTIMATES that half of one man's manpower will be needed in place of the participating officer

The project was first proposed last February at a meeting between area police officials and federal agents in Wilmette, he added

In Schaumburg, Chief Martin Conroy was to review the proposal with the village's police commission on Saturday He expects the decision to be made in 'Supplying a man could cost a village $11,000 a year." Conroy said. "Will my man be here or in another community all the time? I'm not against this, I just want to review it." "Whenever you sign an agreement you have to watch for legal responsibility, What possibility is there for lawsuits for

Under the attendance plan approved by the school board, pupils living in the Carlisle-Benwick area will attend the afternoon session next fall at Hanover Highlands School in Hanover Park. These pupils would be bused approximately six miles to school in Hanover Park until the Collins School is completed. Then these pupils will walk to school in their neighborhood.

"Hanover Park is the finest community in the school district." Robert Summerfield, Hanover Highlands principal, told the residents of the Carlisle-Benwick

"ONCE YOU GET THE pupils on the bus, it's no harder to bus them six miles than two miles," explained Ronald Ruble, Dist 54 assistant superintendent.

"I have the feeling that most of you wouldn't be here tonight if your children weren't involved in double shifts." said board member Mrs. Dianne Hart, addressing the parents in the audience.

'You're darn right we wouldn't," replied one of the parents.

On a split-shift schedule, one group of pupils attends school from 8 a.m. to noon, while a second group attends from 12 30 to 4 30 p.m. The afternoon group of pupils and teachers will be shifted to the three new schools as units when these schools are completed.

ABOUT 180 PUPILS in the Timbercrest section of Schaumburg are now scheduled to attend the afternoon session at Schaumburg Elementary School next fall. These pupils will attend the Aldrin School in Weathersfield Unit 14 when it is HILLCREST SCHOOL is at Hillcrest Boulevard and Fremont Street.

Children residing in the Hillcrest School neighborhood will attend the morning session at the school.

Boundaries between Churchill, Hillcrest, and MacArthur schools in Hoffman Estates will remain the same as this year, according to the attendance plan approved Thursday Boundaries between Blackhawk, Hoffman, and Lakeview Schools also will remain the same.

The boundaries of Anne Fox School in Hanover Park will include the Hanover Park area north of Irving Park Road in Schaumburg Township.

BOUNDARIES BETWEEN Campanelli, Dooley, and Hale elementary schools in Schaumburg will remain the same in 1970-71 as this past year. However, the Dooley School area has been extended west of Salem Drive between Wise and Schaumburg roads since 14 additional classrooms will be available at this school in September.

Fairview School in Parcel B of Hoffman Estates will continue to serve the children in this area.

Children from the apartment developments on west Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates - K & B, Moon Lake, and Multi-Con - are scheduled to attend Armstrong Elementary School. These pupils will attend Hillcrest School until Armstrong is completed.

Sixth-grade pupils in the Campanelli School area will attend Jane Addams Junior High next fall, according to the attendance plan. And some kindergarten pupils will be bused from the Campanelli area to another school.

Dist. 54 has three sessions of kindergarten each day. The elementary district has 17 schools, including three junior highs.

Summer School Is 'Free'

"Students of High School Dist. 211 and surrounding communities are now enrolling in summer school courses. The low cost of attending summer school provides a fine opportunity for many students," Charles L .Mueller, director of extended school services, said.

Because Dist. 211 qualified for a state aid program this summer, no tuition will be charged The only cost for attending classes between June 17 and July 31 will be a $1 50 book rental fee per semester for district residents, and $22.50 for nonresidents per semester.

Conant High school will be the center for summer school classes. For students living out of walking distance from Conant bus transportation will be provided at $9 for the entire summer, or $4.50 for one semester.

IF THERE IS sufficient enrollment, an additional four course will be held at Palatine High. Those courses are social science survey, American history, personal typing and general mathematics.

All classes will meet from 8 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. A one-credit course runs full time from 8 a.m. to 12 15 p.m. for seven weeks. A one-half-credit course may be held two hours daily for seven weeks or for four hours daily for 31/2 weeks.

The dates for first semester are June 17 to July 9, and for second semester

Courses offered this summer are art, typing, general business, data processing, English, speech, developmental reading lab, general shop, automotive shop II, general math, modern algebra, geometry, biology, physical science.

Birthday Cake For Marilyn

Illinois Junior Miss Marilyn Raedel AT SUNDAY afternoon's judging Marihas just had one of the most memorable weekends of her young life.

In Mobile, Ala., where the Wheeling High School senior is participating in the 13th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant, she observed her 18th birthday on

Pageant officials had a special cake baked for her, complete with 18 candles. and as it was presented, the other 49 state winners sang "Happy birthday, Marilyn" Marilyn, formerly of Prospect Heights and now of Barrington, was the only Junior Miss to have a birthday during the contest. Prelimmary judging began Saturday night with the first public performance in the huge Mobile municipal auditorium. Marilyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raedel, were in the audience along with Matt Bottford and Art Conlon of the Illin o is Junior Miss executive board and their wives.

Agents Donate $2.000 to U-46

The Elgin Association of Insurance Agents presented Elgin School Dist. U46 with a $2,000 check on May 6 as partial payment for a driver education simulator located at Larkin High School, 1475 Larkin Ave . Elgin

The simulator, an AETNA Drivotrainer System, holds 12 units which are replicas of the left front portion of a car. With the use of films a student "drives" his car.

The cost of the unit is defrayed entirely by outside funds. In addition to the $10,000 donated by the Elgin Association of Insurance Agents at a rate of $2,000 a year, the district is reimbursed by the state for students taught in driver educa-

The Association also purchased about $2,000 worth of training films used in the simulator. Films cover practice drills, such as starting and stopping, traffic strategy, special driver techniques, emergencies, bad weather and others.

Approximately 700 students have received driver training in the simulator this school year.

Martin Oil was denied a permit by the village board Thursday to build a gas station on Irving Park Road at Jensen Boulevard in Hanover Park.

All trustees, except James Scheuber who was absent, voted to deny the request as did Mayor Richard Baker. Martin Oil representatives left without commening on the action.

A recommendation to approve the special use is expected following a review of the hearing transcript.

Kaufman and Broad, owner of the property, two weeks ago came before the zoning board after its motel-gas station special use expired.

The original permit was granted by Hoffman Estates' prior administration last spring.

THE NEW ZONING board postponed a decision two weeks ago to look into vilbehind the original permit's issuance.

The information could not be found. but last Tuesday the ZBA arranged a compromise with Kaufman and Broad.

The new permit will state that only one gas station can be constructed on the site and that it will not be built until the remaining land is sold for use as a motel. said Robert Valentino. ZBA chairman.

The exact site of the gas station will be designated in advance, he added.

The terms of the agreement will protect the village because the number of gas stations to be built is restricted to one and Kaufman and Broad will have prezoned land in their effort to sell a mo-

Boys Admit Defacing Parked Automobiles

Schaumburg Police apprehended four boys who confessed using spray paint to deface two cars on Saturday.

The boys, age 12 and 13, told police that they used a can of silver paint to deface a car parked in the Weathersfield Commons Shopping area.

Phylis Ohlson, 600 Dartmouth Lane. Schaumburg, owner of the car, said that the damage totaled about $50. A second car in the area, owned by Ronald Redfern, 1518 Revere Circle, Schaumburg, was also painted, but no estimate of damage was available.

When I heard Friday that Foodmaker, Inc. developer of Jack-In-The-Box is coming back to request a sit down restaurant, with no drive through facilities; I pictured that clown climbing from the box and bowing, with a smile on his face, to the wishes of the Hoffman Estates community.

There is no limit to what might have been tried, following last month's demal to place the drive-through in Hoffman Estates. A suit against the village by Foodmaker's seemed likely.

But, the village was prepared. Mayor Fred Downey and the board had their own traffic study done at the Jack-In-The-Box site and were given expert opinion that the proposed drive-through would be a hazard.

I CAN ONLY estimate that Foodmaker decided the village's study would stand up in court against their own study showing no conflict with traffic safety.

I hope that Foodmaker, when they come in with their new plan, will offer Hoffman Estates residents what is most desired.

Success in a restaurant operation can be had by providing a full menu of moderately priced dinners and sandwiches. A place that can offer something to everyone, morning, noon or night is bound to be a success in Hoffman Estates.

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to

That fact became apparent Friday aftermoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and 'ower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

Buffalo's 'Chips' Removed by Teens

A group of about 25 teenagers, all but a few of them from Wheeling High School, spent last Saturday clearing out some of the trash and lunk in Buffalo Creek.

The 25 spllt into two groups, one working along the creek in Wheeling, the other working in Buffalo Grove.

"The kids are really working," commented Ken Felten, the Buffalo Grove trustee who coordinated the Buffalo Grove portion of the project. And the facts bore him out. By Saturday afternoon, the teenagers had collected almost

IN WHEELING, about 15 students started about 9 a.m. at that point in the creek near Valley Stream Drive.

They worked with William Dodds, an English teacher, at the school. The group moved downstream pulling out logs, branches, rusty cans, bottles — everything from an old milk can to a discarded air conditioner. One thing the students were unable to remove: an old auto body. The village department of public works supplied a truck to haul the junk away.

As they worked, one woman thanked them for what they were doing. Another woman invited the group into her house, while she bandaged one of the students who cut himself.

SAID DODDS, "We had a lot of fun, and we feel like we accomplished something.

One of the teenagers working in Wheeling defined the goal of Saturday's effort this way: "We want to clean up pollution, and we want people to realize that pollution matters all year long - not just on Earth Day." She quickly added, "We want persons to know there are some people who will work for their lives." Both groups began about the same time Saturday morning. They stopped for lunch about 1:30 Saturday afternoon - a lunch donated by MacDonald's and Henry's Drive-ins and by Dunkin' Donuts.

In Buffalo Grove the group numbered about 10. They broke into two sections, one working near Emmerich Park, the other on a branch of the creek at Bernard Drive near Alcost School.

They found doll "just plain trash" that someone had thrown into the creek. While they were working, a man saw them, and came out to clean up that portion of the creek behind his house. The group in Buffalo Grove worked with Louis Nettlehorst, a WHS biology teacher.

WHILE ONE GROUP was at Alcott School the other worked its way north to Lake-Cook Road upstream from Emmerich Park. After they reached Lake-Cook Road, they returned to the perk and worked their way downstream from that point toward Buffalo Grove Road.

As in Wheeling, in Buffalo Grove public works crews hauled away the junk that the teenagers collected from the Day said that the growing number of boys coming to live with him, plus a less than cooperative landlord, resulted in him moving to a place on Milwaukee Avenue. "During the six months we were on Milwaukee Avenue, we had 21 boys live with us. Most of them were from Wheeling: a few came from the Maryville Home.

Day did not hesitate to admit his project was a controversial one. And he did not hesitate to admit he had problems with the boys: "Where I got into trouble was that some of the boys were using drugs. Some persons thought I should kick them out. But, I couldn't tust tell them to stop using drugs. And if I kicked them out, where would they go?"

"I reported it to the Wheeling police, just as I had told the boys earlier I would, if I ever found anything like that."

AT ONE POINT in his talk Day indicated that in some ways he considered it good that the village ended his "experiment" He criticized his project, pointing out that one reason he had problems was that he was unable to spend enough time with the boys.

Day called for a similar home to be started in the Wheeling area, but cautioned that it should be staffed by a fulltime counselor. "This was my mistake; I had to be away too much."

However, he does not consider the project a complete failure. Far from it. "I wanted the boys to think the village was interested in them, and I think I was successful with some." He said that out of the 21 who spent some time at the home that "possibly about 13 or 14 were

by ANNE SLAVICEK

A group of employes have closed the Hungry Lion Restaurant on south Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling by walking off the job because they have not been paid for more than a month.

The employes, four adults and eight teenagers, left their jobs April 27 because they had not received their paychecks, according to Mrs Mary Ellen Jensen, one of the restaurant's employes.

The restaurant has long been a puzzle to Wheeling residents. No sign identifies the building from the outside, and the building was constructed slowly from 1966 to 1970, standing for months at a time without any work being done at all.

The self-service restaurant finally opened its doors for business last September, and had been open less than eight months when it closed again two weeks ago.

Mrs. Jensen, a Prairie View resident, told the Herald last week that a number of area residents have money invested in the restaurant's corporation, National Franchising Systems, Inc.

Mrs.Jensen explained that she believes she is owed almost $5,000 by the corporation in both wages and money she invested in the restaurant.

MRS JENSEN said Friday she planned to picket the home of corporation president Bruce Carmen at 1438 Shawnee Trail in Riverwoods last Saturday and other days this week.

She said she would carry a sign reading, "Bruce Carmen owes me $3,389.73 plus interest.

Signs reading "no pay, no work" were posted at the restaurant before it was closed by the employes, Mrs. Jensen said, but the signs disappeared after about a week.

Mrs. Jensen said she notified Carmen by registered letter last week she would picket his home, if she did not receive payment from him. She said she had received a receipt indicating that Carmen had received the letter, but Carmen had not contacted her.

The Herald was unable to contact Carmen for comment on the charges by the restaurant employes.

Another former employe of the Hungry Lion, L. J. Victorine, told the Herald he resigned as the restaurant's manager in January because he had not been paid for six weeks.

in completing and opening the building was due to his and Carmen's efforts to raise funds to complete the building and restaurant facilities.

Victorine explained originally the restaurant was to be the first of a franchise chain named, "Yogi Bear Picnic Basket." The name was later changed to Hungry Lion, he said.

Victorine explained that he had helped Carmen raise funds from local residents to build the restaurant. He said Mrs. Jensen a friend of his, had invested in the corporation at his suggestion.

He said a $12.000 sign had been planned for the restaurant but funds had not been raised to pay for it. He estimated that the restaurant building and land cost approximately $250,000.

After almost 14 months, the battle of the banks is over and the Northpoint State Bank came out on too.

The prize is a permit from the state to organize a bank to be located in the Northpoint Shopping Center, Arlington Heights and Rand roads, Arlington

The bank may be temporarily housed in existing buildings in the shopping center within a "short time," according to Donald Brown, one of the organizers of the bank.

Future plans call for the construction of a two-story office building in the shopping center with the bank facilities on the ground floor Construction time is estimated to be from one year to 18 months

IN FEBRUARY, 1969, organizers of the Northpoint State Bank filed a request with the state for a permit to organize. Two days after that request, another application was submitted for permission to organize the Northgate Trust and Savings. This bank's location was listed as, on the east side of Arlington Heights between Palatine and Rand Road."

At the time of filing, Bernard Rabins, bank examiner of the Chicago area, stated that only one of the permits would be approved since the two banks were competing for essentially the same loca-

According to Brown, "The modern banking facility will serve an area of primary influence containing approximately 14.3 square miles and a population of more than 25,000 residents. The area has been described by a leading research organization as one of the most promising Cook County suburban locations.

Plans for the bank include a drive-in facility with four lanes of traffic. Architectural plans are now being formalized for the permanent office building.

The bank will be capitalized at $1 milhon, including $400,000 in surplus and $200,000 in reserves. Shares of stock will be made available to the public at $25 per share. Announcements of the stock sales will be made later.

ORGANIZERS OF the new bank include Fred Griffiths of Park Ridge, assistant to the president of Joanna Western Mills Co.; C.T. Mitchell of Western Springs, president of Howell Tractor and Equipment Co.; Charles Kimball of Chicago, partner in Ashcraft and Ashcraft; George Bugbee of Hinsdale, and Donald Brown of Northbrook

By granting the permit to the Northgate organizers, the state effectively demed the request of the organizers of Northgate Trust and Savings. The list of organizers for the Northgate Bank included the same names as those on the board of directors of the Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, 311 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. This bank opened its new building about a year ago. SOME OF THE NAMES also have been listed as directors of the Bank and Trust Company of Arlington Heights, 909 E Kensington Rd.

The criteria used by the state for deciding which bank is permitted to organize include the individuals organizing the bank, the proposed building and facilmount of money behind the location.

THAT THE VILLAGE would have the area cleared at its own expense was part of an agreement concerning the schoolpark site reached at a meeting held a few months ago among officials from School Dist. 21, the Buffalo Grove Park District, and the village.

Fire Agreement Seen As Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

"The response is on a voluntary basis. with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice hefore responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained. Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said be can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well," Fogarty explained.

I have a 10-man department with three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call." Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

"The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty explained.

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

'Uusually the fire chief will leave one is own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained.

"But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl

Hollywood Ridge Bash on Friday Sealcoating Set

Sealcoating of streets in the first section of Hollywood Ridge development north of Dundee Road in Wheeling is planned for this summer.

A proposed program of curb and gutter repair and replacement, patching, and sealcoating of streets will be paid for with Motor Fuel Tax funds rebated to the village by the state.

The program is expected to cost $11,295 to complete this year. Last year streets in West Meadowbrook and Hollywood Ridge south of Dundee section of the vil-

Streets to be sealcoated this summer include Cedar Drive from Dundee Road to St. Armand Lane, St. Armand Lane from Cedar Drive to Valley Stream Drive, Valley Stream Drive from St. Armand Lane to Elmhurst Road, Wilshire Drive from Valley Stream Drive to Cedar Drive, Pebble Drive from Cedar Drive to Wilshire Drive, Woodland Drive from Wilshire Drive to Cedar Drive, and Beverly Drive from St. Armand Lane to Valley Stream Drive.

drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba di- all had to call for help from other fire vers from Niles and Skokie responded to the call.

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments,"

"And at one time or another, we have regardless of where you live.

departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know,

Sticker of an Issue: GIs

Should servicemen who live in Wheeling because they're stationed in the area have to buy village vehicle stickers for their automobiles?

That's what the Wheeling village board has to decide Monday because of complaints from a number of servicemen who live in the village and have been ticketed by police for not having vehicle stickers on their cars.

In the past the village has maintained that if a car was registered in Illinois, that is, if it had Illinois license plates it also had to have a vehicle sticker.

If a serviceman registers his car at another permanent home and has out-ofstate plates he has not had to buy a Wheeling sticker.

The village attorney explained that because the village tax is for the use of local roads and not a personal property tax the village can apply it to the ser-

Buffalo's 'Chips' Removed by Teens

A group of about 25 teenagers, all but a few of them from Wheeling High School. spent last Saturday clearing out some of the trash and junk in Buffalo Creek.

The 25 split into two groups, one working along the creek in Wheeling, the other working in Buffalo Grove,

"The kids are really working," commented Ken Felten, the Buffalo Grove trustee who coordinated the Buffalo Grove portion of the project. And the facts bore him out. By Saturday afternoon, the teenagers had collected almost 10 truckloads of trash.

The teeangers' anti-pollution effort Saturday followed an organizational meeting Thursday afternoon at Wheeling High School. That meeting and Saturday's project came about as the result of a pollution committee made up of four WHS students.

IN WHEELING, about 15 students started about 9 a.m. at that point in the creek near Valley Stream Drive.

They worked with William Dodds, an English teacher, at the school. The group moved downstream pulling out logs, branches, rusty cans, bottles - everything from an old milk can to a discarded air conditioner. One thing the students were unable to remove: an old auto body. The village department of public works supplied a truck to haul the lunk away.

As they worked, one woman thanked them for what they were doing. Another woman invited the group into her house, while she bandaged one of the students who cut himself.

One of the tecnagers working in Wheeling defined the goal of Saturday's effort this way: "We want to clean up pollution, and we want people to realize that pollution matters all year long - not just on Earth Day," She quickly added. "We want persons to know there are some people who will work for their lives."

Both groups began about the same time Saturday morning. They stopped for lunch about 1:30 Saturday afternoon - a lunch donated by MacDonald's and Henry's Drive-ins and by Dunkin' Donuts.

In Buffalo Grove the group numbered about 10. They broke into two sections, one working near Emmerich Park, the other on a branch of the creek at Bernard Drive near Alcott School.

They found doll buggies, old tires and "just plain trash" that someone had thrown into the creek. While they were working, a man saw them, and came out to clean up that portion of the creek behind his house. The group in Buffalo Grove worked with Louis Nettlehorst, a WHS biology teacher.

WHILE ONE GROUP was at Alcott School the other worked its way north to Lake-Cook Road upstream from Emmerich Park. After they reached Lake-Cook Road, they returned to the park and worked their way downstream from that point toward Buffalo Grove Road.

As in Wheeling, in Buffalo Grove public works crews hauled away the junk that the teenagers collected from the

Tax Rate on Downswing

Stevenson High School's tax rate is going to be 21 cents lower than last year, board of education announced last week.

The new rate is $1.88 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation as compared to $2 09 a year ago. The savings will be reflected in tax bills now being prepared for distribution late this month by the Lake County treasurer's office. The new tax rate includes a five-cent levy for junior college tuition for individupl students. Although Stevenson is not in a junior college district, taxes for junior college tuition must be levied because the district must pay tuition for local students who attend junior colleges in other districts.

"A BOOST OF MORE than $21 million in assessed valuation and careful planning of last fall's tax levy produced the drop," Board President Lorenz Schmidt explained. "We were hoping for an increase of $20 million," Schmidt said, "but we based our levy on a $15 million increase." Stevenson's assessed valuation jumped from just under $50 million to $71,597,000.

Following the recommendation of architect Conrad Kristman, the board awarded the electrical contract for the new building to the Skokie Valley Electric Co for $239,500. It is the last building contract to be awarded and brings the total for the new Stevenson addition to $1,730,249.

The board directed the administration to proceed with the sale of $2 million in building bonds needed for the new addition. Supt. Harold Banser presented a tentative 10-year retirement schedule which kept the bond tax rate slightly below last year's figure throughout the retirement period.

In other action, the board selected Richard J. Vogtsberger, head of the industrial arts department, to fill the newly created post of the dean of students for the coming school year. He will continue as industrial arts head and teach one class. His additional duties will include supervision of attendance and student control.

MRS. IVANKA VREULS, Spanish instructor at Glenbrook South High School since 1963, was hired to head the foreign language department at Stevenson begin-The board also authorized the hiring of Marvin Heller, professor of Education at Loyola University, as a consultant, to assist the administration in developing new educational programs.

The next regular meeting of the board is at 8 p.m. May 18.

Food Handling Code Urged

Buffalo Grove trustees are considering passage of a new ordinance covering food handling and sales establishments in the village.

The ordinance outlines certain standards for food establishments to follow and sets up inspection and permit application policies.

Don Schindler, a registered sanitarian who is the village's health inspector, explained the new ordinances would be a set of guidelines for the proper operation of foodhandling establishments."

SCHINDLER SAID the village was considering such an ordinance at this time "because of increased concern in this area and the increased number of food establishments in the village."

Under the new ordinance, permits will have to be secured from the village for any food establishment. The permit can be suspended or even revoked if the establishment fails to measure up to the standards dealing with food preparation, handling and sale as outlined in the ordi-

However, under the terms of the ordinance proposal, no permit would be revoked without a hearing first being conducted on the matter.

The ordinance also calls for inspections of each food service establishment once every six months, with provisions for as many additional inspections as necessary. Schindler explained that the inspections "are designed to help educate employers and employes of food establishments. We're trying not only to enforce laws, but to educate too. Our main objective is an educational approach to problems and rectifying these at the

in the village are inspected now, under the provisions of the village's business license ordinance "Now we're refining the ordinances to give ourselves specific authority."

Schindler said the new ordinance would result in no changes in his inspection procedures. "I come around once a month to all foodhandling establishments in the village. I also check all other commercial establishments (not only ones that handle food) every three

Another Anti-Levitt Suit?

Yet another suit is expected to be filed in connection with the Lake County School Dist. 96 school site controversy in Buffalo Grove.

Friday evening the Strathmore Homeowners Association (SHA) voted unanimously to file a suit charging fraud against the building firm of Levitt and Sons. Inc., builders of Strathmore. Approximately 70 of the 400 SHA members attended the meeting.

The action was taken after Mrs. Lou-Alltop, chairman of the SHA schools committee, reported that a Waukegan attorney had recommended the action after "careful study" of the situation.

Basically, the suit centers around charges that home buyers were not told of the shortage of schools in the Lake County portion of the village.

However, throughout the months-long controversy over school sites. Levitt officials have maintained that sufficient school sites exist to accommodate Lake County Strathmore children.

SHE SAID THE SHA will ask in the suit that Levitt be required to set aside some of its property free of charge for a school site and pay the legal expenses incurred in connection with the suit.

Mrs. Alltop said that 10 Strathmore homeowners would be required to sign written statements charging Levitt with false advertising. She said it would also be necessary for the 10 homeowners to appear in court in connection with the

Permit AwardedTo Bank

Monday, May 11, 1970

After almost 14 months, the battle of the banks is over and the Northpoint State Bank came out on top.

The prize is a permit from the state to organize a bank to be located in the Northpoint Shopping Center. Arlington Heights and Rand roads, Arlington Heights.

The bank may be temporarily housed in existing buildings in the shopping center within a "short time," according to Donald Brown, one of the organizers of

Future plans call for the construction of a two-story office building in the shopping center with the bank facilities on the ground floor. Construction time is estimated to be from one year to 18

IN FEBRUARY, 1969, organizers of the Northpoint State Bank filed a request with the state for a permit to organize. Two days after that request, another application was submitted for permission to organize the Northgate Trust and Savings. This bank's location was listed as. on the east side of Arlington Heights between Palatine and Rand Road

At the time of filing, Bernard Rabins. bank examiner ofr the Chicago area, stated that only one of the permits would be approved since the two banks were competing for essentially the same loca-

According to Brown, "The modern banking facility will serve an area of primary influence containing approximately 14.3 square miles and a population of more than 25,000 residents. The area has been described by a leading research organization as one of the most promising Cook County suburban locations. Plans for the bank include a drive-in facility with four lanes of traffic. Architectural plans are now being formalized for the permanent office building.

The bank will be capitalized at $1 milkon, including $400,000 in surplus and $200,000 in reserves. Shares of stock will be made available to the public at $25 per share. Announcements of the stock sales will be made later.

ORGANIZERS OF the new bank include Fred Griffiths of Park Ridge, assistant to the president of Joanna Western Mills Co.: C.T. Mitchell of Western Springs, president of Howell Tractor and Equipment Co.; Charles Kimball of Chicago, partner in Asheraft and Asheraft; George Bugbee of Hinsdale, and Donald Brown of Northbrook.

By granting the permit to the Northgate organizers, the state effectively demed the request of the organizers of Northgate Trust and Savings.

The list of organizers for the Northgate Bank included the same names as those on the board of directors of the Northwest Trust and Savings Bank. 311 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. This bank opened its new building about

SOME OF THE NAMES also have been listed as directors of the Bank and Trust Company of Arlington Heights, 909 E. Kensington Rd.

A large pile of old cars, dead trees and moved," Davis said. "We had contacted several contractors about two weeks ago. but they refused to do the job because they're already too busy. So we contacted a contractor we knew, and he agreed to do the job." He said the refuse would be taken to a Wheeling landfill to be disposed of.

"The earliest it could be done is this Saturday. The contractor agreed to do it, but only on a weekend," said Davis.

THAT THE VILLAGE would have the area cleared at its own expense was part of an agreement concerning the schoolpark site reached at a meeting held a few months ago among officials from School Dist. 21, the Buffalo Grove Park District, and the village.

John Barger, assistant Dist. 21 superintendent, said that once the refuse is gone from the site, the district will have the land graded and seeded.

Residents' concern about the pile of trash has been growing in recent weeks. Mrs. James Rickards, 1097 Bernard Dr., said "the junk has been there since we moved in about 11/2 yeasr ago. We weren't too concerned at first, thinking they would have to take it away before Longfellow School was opened. But the school has been open for almost a year now." Another Bernard Drive resident, Mrs. William Dunton, said that children often use the junkpile for a playground.

The land on which the refuse is located is part of an area the village is turning over to the park district for use as a

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked.'

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

'The response is on a voluntary basis, with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice hefore responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. "I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

"Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained.

"But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

Sealcoating Set

Sealcoating of streets in the first section of Hollywood Ridge development north of Dundee Road in Wheeling is planned for this summer.

A proposed program of curb and gutter repair and replacement, patching, and sealcoating of streets will be paid for with Motor Fuel Tax funds rebated to the village by the state.

The program is expected to cost $11,295 to complete this year. Last year streets in West Meadowbrook and Hollywood Ridge south of Dundee section of the village were sealcoated with the funds.

Streets to be sealcoated this summer include Cedar Drive from Dundee Road to St. Armand Lane, St. Armand Lane from Cedar Drive to Valley Stream Drive, Valley Stream Drive from St. Armand Lane to Elmhurst Road, Wilshire Drive from Valley Stream Drive to Cedar Drive, Pebble Drive from Cedar Drive to Wilshire Drive, Woodland Drive from Wilshire Drive to Cedar Drive, and Beverly Drive from St. Armand Lane to Valley Stream Drive.

Sticker of an Issue: GIs

Should servicemen who live in Wheeling because they're stationed in the area have to buy village vehicle stickers for their automobiles?

That's what the Wheeling village board has to decide Monday because of complaints from a number of servicemen who live in the village and have been ticketed by police for not having vehicle stickers on their cars.

In the past the village has maintained that if a car was registered in Illinois, that is, if it had Illinois license plates it also had to have a vehicle sticker.

If a serviceman registers his car at another permanent home and has out-ofstate plates he has not had to buy a Wheeling sticker.

The village attorney explained that because the village tax is for the use of local roads and not a personal property tax the village can apply it to the ser-

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at half-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting of the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police.

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that three days dissolved. The board members approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

the flag should stay at half-staff for only. After the resolution was unanimously approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, "I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to ternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and lower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff on Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures would be enough.

"IT'S DOWN, AND it's going to stay

That fact became apparent Friday af- down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, who helped lower the flag on Wednesday and Thursday. "If the same people (are present), it'll stay down," he told 200 students and faculty members Friday.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday

Harvey asserted that some of the facts in the matter had been misstated by the students, and that a poll of Faculty Senate support did not indicate just how long the faculty members wanted the flag lowered.

School's Old, But They'll Miss It

by BETSY BROOKER

A "head start" is now not only available to pre-kindergarten children, but also to pre-college students.

In High School Dist. 214, the head start is called "work experience." It enables high school students who have decided upon their career to spend a certain portion of their school day actually observing professionals at work.

For Kathy Kubik, a student at Prospect High School and a resident of Mount Prospect, the program means visiting the River Trails Dist. 26 Euclid School from 1 to 3 p.m. every school day.

Kathy is a soft-spoken, pretty girl with long, flowing hair and not a touch of makeup. She says she has wanted to be a teacher ever since she can remember.

"I wasn't sure before if I could teach. and if I really wanted to go to college," said Kathy. "But now I am."

THE BEST THING about teaching, according to Kathy, is the kids. "They're just great.'

Kathy was eligible for the work experience program because she was lacking only one-half credit tograduate from high school in the middle of the year. She has also maintained a B average.

In the morning Kathy takes creative cookery, contemporary fiction, note hand typing and gym. For her two hours at Euclid School in the afternoon she receives one half credit.

After her graduation next month, she sity. Kathy still isn't sure if she wants to will enter Northern Illinois State Univermajor in elementary education or in special education.

At Euclid School she not only works with a regular kindergarten class, but also with educable mentally handscapped EMH children. She says she is reluctant to enter special education because it is so hard to "get through to them. I tried to explain money to the class at Euclid, but couldn't make it clear.'

"I couldn't handle the class on my own yet," explained Kathy. Her position is geared more towards supervision than actual teaching.

Last week Kathy led the children in a discussion of their weekly reader for the first time. The children gathered around her in a circle and began giggling as they saw the funny picture on that week's edition. It showed a dog and cat on roller skates, with the dog wearing a pillow for protection against falls.

Kathy asked the children if it hurt Zip. the dog, when he fell dow. No, they said, because "the pillow is soft."

THE INSIDE OF the reader showed a picture of the new Disneyland being planned for Orlando, Fla. The children were very excited at that prospect, especially one little boy who said his cousins live in Florida.

Kathy also helps the children with various "seat work" such as pasting art projects, or writing the alphabet. She also escorts them to the library and gym for assemblies or physical education.

Teaching for Kathy will be a lifetime career. She said she doesn't think of her career in the same terms as members of the Women's Liberation League because, "Men and women are not equal.

HB 1241 Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate rations Committee for further study. Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee, the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature.

H.B. 1241 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Two months later in the State Senate, the bill was referred to the Municipal Corpo-

Wednesday, Mrs. Dorie McClellan, assistant women's editor, will be in the branch office from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

The office is located at 110 S. Main, Mount Prospect. The telephone number is 394-5450.

Persons needing help or information on submitting news items, or who have news to release, may call the office or drop off the items there.

Persons who would like to talk with the Prospect Heights or Mount Prospect staffs in the afternoon must call the main office of Paddock Publications in Arlington Heights at 394-2300.

Editorial personnel who will be staffing the new office are: Monday, Betsy Brooker: Tuesday and Thursday, Gerry De-Zonna and Friday, Dave Palermo.

The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst. "We inlend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session,' Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

"Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement before they agreed to come into the vil-

On the other hand, Knuepfer said municipalities have considered the bill strong legislation for years.

"WE WILL TRY TO give cities greater freedom of annexation and at the same time overcome some of these problems," resolved Knuepfer.

After hearing of the bill's defeat, Mrs. Caylor said, "The price of victory is eternal vigilance." She said the watchdog legislative committee, organized by residents of unincorporated areas after the introduction of H.B. 1241, will keep active. The purpose of the committee is to watch out for all legislation affecting unincorporated areas and to object to laws deemed detrimental to such areas.

"I just hope they won't attempt to get another bill in the hopper that ignores the rights of citizens in unincorporated areas," added Mrs. Caylor.

Pool Opening Set for July 1

Construction of the River Trails Park District swimming pool at Woodland Trails, located near Euclid and Wolf roads, is "progressing quite well," reports Park Supt. Marvin Weiss.

If the trucking strike continues much longer, it may present a problem, said Weiss, but it hasn't up to this time. Contractors on the project, Barbett Builders, are waiting for several parts, including pool pumps and doors.

The floor of the pool is already cemented in and the walls now are being poured, said Weiss.

Plumbing pipes have been installed in the bathhouse but the fixtures are not in yet. The walls are also up and the roof is framed. The shake roof should be put on

"We still feel the pool and bathhouse will be finished in time for a July 1 opening," said Weiss.

Anti-Drug Unit Proposed

A group of 26 north, north shore, and northwest suburban communities are being approached to coordinate a special police force against drug abuse.

A $567,158 grant from the federal government is available if the towns can get

The force is to be called the Metropolitan Narcotics Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group, with each of the 26 suburbs contributing one man during a one-year trial period.

"I'm gonna join," said Newell Esmond, Mount Prospect police chief, Friday. "I've talked with the village manager and we both feel it's worthwhile. I mailed a letter letting them know we're interested in joining today."

Esmond called the proposed force, "one of the most important efforts" made by suburban communities in curbing drug abuse.

SIU Students Are Teacher Interns

Three Mount Prospect students are teaching in Illinois schools for their practice teaching requirement at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. James T. Geocaris of 219 S. Pine and Michael H. Herzog of 1713 Willow St. are both teaching in the Chicago school system and Kevin P. Marek of 304 S. Emerson is at Anna Junior High School.

The project was first proposed in February at a meeting between area police officials and federal agents in Wilmette. "WE ALL HAVE MUTUAL problems with drugs and with a group like this, they'll be able to concentrate on specific areas and work together," said Esmond.

The Mount Prospect police chief said that supplying one man full-time to work on the drug force would not cause problems on the local police force.

Drive for Food Set for Students

Young teens will be knocking on doors in Prospect Heights and portions of Arlington Heights this week, asking for canned foods and non-perishable boxed

The students, who attend Dist. 23 Mac-Arthur Junior High School, are participating in a food drive under the leadership of the Pep Club. The club is charged with rallying student enthusiasm. The eighth grade will donate their collection to Little City, a school for retarded children; the seventh grade to the Northwest Opportunity Center, and the sixth grade to Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children. The class that collects the most will be announced at the school's spring dance this Friday evening.

"I think this will help everyone out here tremendously," he said.

Officers participating in the program will receive formal training and will be used where the problems exist.

Capt. Korner Has Flying Cross

Army Capt. William C. Korner, whose wife Jane lives at 102 S. Kennicott, Arlington Heights, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross at Camp Gorvad, Vietnam.

He received the award for heroism in action while engaged in aerial flight in connection with military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam. Capt, Korner, 24. battalion adjutant with the 228th Assault Support Helicopter Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile), entered active duty in November 1967 and was last stationed at Ft.

Nab 2 for Vandalism

Mount Prospect police apprehended two teenagers Saturday who were apparently among the 20 teens responsible for starting a fork lift tractor and ramming r through a fence at Lincoln School.

Police said that the lift had been rammed into a fence and then through a back stop at the baseball field at the school. The outside water at the school also had been turned on.

When police arrived at the scene they saw about 20 teens, both boys and girls between the ages of 13-16, running from the area of the baseball field. Police were able to apprehend only two of the vouths. They were turned over to the iuvende officer.

On Feb. 11, more than 12,000 residents in Prospect Heights and portions of Mount Prospect serviced by CU had their water shut off for 612 hours.

A SUIT HAS BEEN filed against CU for ignoring an order from the Illinois Commerce Commission to conduct an engineer survey of sanitary sewer back-ups in Prospect Heights.

CU was directed to make the survey after a Woodview area resident, Patrick Link, filed a suit against the utility in March, 1966.

Since that time, an entangling series of suits have been filed to rectify the sewer problem. A suit also was filed against local residents, under the auspices of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association legal aid committee. The homeowners filed suit against Hollis Builders, which constructed their homes. Hollis Builders, in turn, filed suit against the Metropolitan Sanitary District and MSD was directed to take action against CU.

Plan Probe: How High Is High?

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission will determine how high is high at a public hearing Friday at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

To this point, the two teams have been dickering on non-monetary issues," according to William Pavesic. Teacher Council treasurer.

ALTHOUGH NO ONE has predicted a late settlement date, no one has predicted otherwise, and the trend seems to Pavesic termed the meetings "very amicable." He said, "I really don't see any problem, but we have yet to touch on monetary issues.

The council, which presented its proposal in early March, is waiting for a return proposal from the administration, Negotiations are going slow, but apparently "even-keeled" according to Robert Brower, district personnel assistant superintendent and chairman of the administration negotiating team. THE ADMINISTRATION team also includes Al Stone, Grove Junior High School princiapl; Anthony Mostardo, Clearmont School principal; and Al Waltman, acting superintendent.

Other personnel work with the team as we need them," Brower said.

The board of education hired a district negotiator in April to represent them. He is Wesley Wildman, a faculty member of the University of Chicago specializing in industrial relations. Wildman is an "outstanding professional negotiator in Illinois" according to Waltman, and has negotiated for the Chicago Board of Education.

Waltman commented when Wildman was hired. "It's a great idea. We didn't have one last year, but needed one as far as I'm concerned.

Although Brower said both teacher council and district negotiators were "very competent" their presence does not appear to be speeding up negotiation.

NEGOTIATIONS ON salaries are expected to begin soon, added Brower. He explained that the board of education would be meeting this week to discuss the situation and then a proposal should be readied to be presented to the Teachers Council

No information has been released concerning the teachers' proposal or district

The contracts agreed upon last June included $7,000 for a beginner with a bachelor's degree increasing through 14

Neither teachers nor administrators have ventured to guess when the discussions will end.

Pavesic commented, however, "Probably next September — actually I have no idea. It is conceivable that things will be ironed out in one night or it may take six months.

Fire Pact Is Called Helpful

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal. written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

The response is on a voluntary basis. with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well," Fogarty explained.

'I have a 10-man department with three men on duty at a time. Fortunatewhen the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station, But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

"The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system." Fogarty explained.

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. "I had 23 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always, someone at the station.

"Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town." Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel." Pairitz explained.

"But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department is requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire I epartment sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to the call.

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments."

Pairitz said. "And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fice departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment." togarty explained. The "good" part about any disaster from fires to spowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

Two weeks ago the board members accepted a petition from area residents concerned about property damage and students wandering off-campus through their neighborhoods. The residents are seeking relief through a better policed smoking area (perhaps closer to the school building) or a strongly enforced smoking ban.

No official action is scheduled on the request. It is believed that the board members will listen to comments from area residents on the problem.

The board has been unable to resolve the smoking question this year. In January, the high school administration presented a request for an on-school smoking area near the corner of Mayfair and Dale THAT PROPOSAL was rejected by the board, but the board has debated the problem on several occasions since that decision. And it could debate it again

As usual, the board faces a heavy agenda. It will go into closed session at the end of the meeting to consider "discussion of employment of administrative personnel.

That meeting could consider a threeear contract for Supt. Edward Gilbert. Before the April hoard elections, a contract was discussed, but no board action was taken.

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at half-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting of the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police.

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that the flag should stay at half-staff for only three days dissolved. The board memaproved, the crowd of perhaps 30 pe bers approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to

That fact became apparent Friday af- down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, ternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and lower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff on Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures would be enough.

Anti-Drug Force Proposed

A group of 26 north, north shore, and northwest suburban communities are being approached to coordinate a special police force against drug abuse.

The force is to be called the Metropolitan Narcotics Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group, with each of the 26 suburbs contributing one man during a one-year trial period.

"I'm gonna join," said Newell Esmond, Mount Prospect police chief. Friday, "I've talked with the village man-mailed a letter letting them know we're lems on the local police force. interested in joining today."

Esmond called the proposed force, 'one of the most important efforts' made by suburban communities in curbing drug abuse.

The project was first proposed in February at a meeting between area police officials and federal agents in Wilmette.

"WE ALL HAVE MUTUAL problems with drugs and with a group like this, they'll be able to concentrate on specific areas and work together," said Esmond.

The Mount Prospect police chief said that supplying one man full-time to work ager and we both feel it's worthwhile, I on the drug force would not cause prob-

Fire Pact Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

"The response is on a voluntary basis, with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"TIIIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well." Fogarty explained.

I have a 10-man department with three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't alwave happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty explained.

important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless

Pool Passes on Sale At Park District Office

Season swim passes for the Mount Prospect Park District pools are now on sale at the park district office, 600 S. See-Gwun, Mount Prospect.

Family passes for those living within the park district boundaries are being sold for $18 Adult residents over 14 years of age may purchase passes for $10 and children for $6.50.

Non-residency rates are $36 for families. $20 for adults and $12 for children.

The passes may be used for all three park district pools at Meadows Park, Lions Park and Kopp Park.

After May 13 the passes may be purchased at the pools. Proof of residency, such as utility bills, is required at the time of purchase.

Drive for Food Set for Students

Young teens will be knocking on doors in Prospect Heights and portions of Arlington Heights this week, asking for canned foods and non-perishable boxed

Arthur Junior High School, are participating in a food drive under the leadership of the Pep Club. The club is charged with rallying student enthuciasm.

The eighth grade will donate their collection to Little City, a school for retarded children; the seventh grade to the Northwest Opportunity Center, and the sixth grade to Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children. The class that collects the most will be announced at the school's spring dance this Friday evening.

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

> "Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained. "But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Tepartment sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburhan units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments," Pairitz said.

'And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

'Report to People' Set By District

The Dist. 57 board of education will present a "Report to the People" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln Junior High School library.

Brief presentations on four major subjects; finances, curriculum, the junior high program and facilities, will be followed by open discussion on all aspects of the school district's operation.

"We have no ulterior motive for this meeting," said Leo Floros, chairman of the board's public relations committee. We have scheduled it simply because we believe we owe it to the residents of the district - the people who foot the bill for the school district's operation - to give an accounting of our stewardship."

Fuel Is Added To War 'Games'

The undeclared war between citizens in Prospect Heights, incorporated portions of Mount Prospect and Citizens Utility received added impetus last

Mrs Diane Gear, who lives at 709 Hackberry in incorporated Mount Prospect, east of Randhurst, called the Herald and complained about her water being shut off.

Mrs. Gear said her water has been turned off numerous times in the past couple of years and that when it is turned back on she is afraid it might be

HER HUSBAND, Thomas Gear, said the water has been turned off "for no apparent reason five or six times in the last 212 years.

Nab 2 for Vandalism

Mount Prospect police apprehended two toenagers Saturday who were apparently among the 20 teens responsible for starting a fork lift tractor and ramming it through a fence at Lincoln School.

Police said that the lift had been rammed into a fence and then through a hack stop at the baseball field at the school. The outside water at the school also had been turned on.

When police arrived at the scene they saw about 20 teens, both boys and girls between the ages of 13-16, running from the area of the baseball field. Police were able to apprehend only two of the youths. They were turned over to the

On Feb. 11, more than 12,000 residents in Prospect Heights and portions of Mount Prospect serviced by CU had their water shut off for 612 hours.

A SUIT HAS BEEN filed against CU for ignoring an order from the Illinois Commerce Commission to conduct an engineer survey of sanitary sewer back-ups in Prospect Heights.

CU was directed to make the survey after a Woodview area resident, Patrick Link, filed a suit against the utility in

Since that time, an entangling series of suits have been filed to rectify the sewer problem. A suit also was filed against local residents, under the auspices of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association legal aid committee. The homeowners filed suit against Hollis Builders, which constructed their homes. Hollis Builders, in turn, filed suit against the Metropolitan Sanitary District and MSD was directed to take action against CU.

Plan Probe: How High Is High?

will determine how high is high at a public hearing Friday at 8 p.m. in the vil-

Because of the controversy surrounding the height variation granted to the Randhurst Corp. for a 10-story, 136-foot office building, members of the plan commission voted 7-0 to proposed amendments to four sections of the zoning ordi-

The ordinances concern maximum heights, minimum side yards, minimum front vards and minimum rear yards.

Our request is to change the ordinance to grant high-rise zoning for businesses with restrictions, not variations," said Harold Ross, a member of the plan commission.

ROSS SAID THE ordinance requires

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission that office buildings be not higher than er)" 28 feet and, because the proposed Randhurst office building will be 136 feet, the variation might have been unwarranted.

"A difference between 28 and 136 feet is hardly a variation," explained Ross. 'A variation is for something which deviates slightly from the norm. This

The proposed amendments to be discussed at the hearing are as follows:
1) That Section 26 which now states that in business districts the ceiling level height of a building shall not exceed 28 feet and the maximum building height shall not exceed 30 feet, be changed to read "no buildings are to be erected or constructed in the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 or B-3 zoning districts that shall exceed 10 stories or 136 feet (whichever is the less-

2) THAT SECTION 27 be changed to read, "in the B-1, B-2 or B-3 zoning districts the side yard shall be not less than 20 feet, where such use abuts any zoned residential district; provided, however, that any structure or building erected in said districts which is more than 25 feet in height shall provide a side yard of a distance not less than the height of such building.'

3) That Section 28 be changed to read. "Any building structure hereafter erected in the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 or B-3 district shall be set back from the front lot line a minimum of 20 feet; except if it is for a use abutting any of the aforementioned residential disrics in which event the setback shall not be less than required in such residential district the provided that any building erected in said district which is more than 25 feet in height shall provide a front yard setback of a distance not less than the height of such building.

4) That Section 29 be changed to read. "the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 and B-3" in place of the word "business" and additional sen-tence be inserted which reads, "However, if the B1, B2, B2.1 or B-3 district abuts a zoning district that requires a rear yard or a greater rear yard than that required above then the rear yard requirement of the immediately adjacent properties shall be the rear yard requirement of the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 and B-3 dis-

Ross urged all citizens interested in this ordinance to attend the meeting.

HB 1241 Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H B 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature

H.B. 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights Two months later in the State Senate, the bill was referred to the Municipal Corporations Committee for further study

The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban-

Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against

Since that time the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to IIB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session." Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arhugton Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings.

Smoking Question Up Again Tonight

The issue of smoking on or near Prostonight. pect High School property will return to the High School Dist 214 board at 7:30 this evening at 799 W. Kensington, Mount Prospect.

Two weeks ago the board members accepted a petition from area residents concerned about property damage and students wandering off-campus through their neighborhoods. The residents are seeking relief through a better policed smoking area (perhaps closer to the school building) or a strongly enforced smoking ban.

No official action is scheduled on the request. It is believed that the board members will listen to comments from area residents on the problem.

The board has been unable to resolve the smoking question this year. In January, the high school administration presented a request for an on-school smoking area near the corner of Mayfair and Dale

THAT PROPOSAL was rejected by the board, but the board has debated the problem on several occasions since that decision. And it could debate it again

As usual, the board faces a heavy agenda. It will go into closed session at. the end of the meeting to consider "discussion of employment of administrative personnel,

That meeting could consider a threeyear contract for Supt. Edward Gilbert. Before the April board elections, a contract was discussed, but no board action was taken.

Anti-Drug Force Proposed

northwest suburban communities are being approached to coordinate a special police force against drug abuse.

A $567,158 grant from the federal government is available if the towns can get

The force is to be called the Metropolitan Narcotics Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group, with each of the 26 suburbs contributing one man during a one-year trial period.

"I'm gonna join." said Newell Esmond, Mount Prospect police chief, Friday. "I've talked with the village manager and we both feel it's worthwhile. I

A group of 26 north, north shore, and mailed a letter letting them know we're interested in joining today.'

Esmond called the proposed force, 'one of the most important efforts' made by suburban communities in curbing drug abuse.

The project was first proposed in February at a meeting between area police officials and federal agents in Wilmette. "WE ALL HAVE MUTUAL problems with drugs and with a group like this, they'll be able to concentrate on specific areas and work together," said Esmond. The Mount Prospect police chief said that supplying one man full-time to work on the drug force would not cause problems on the local police force.

"I think this will help everyone out here tremendously," he said. Officers participating in the program will receive formal training and will be used where the problems exist.

THE POLICE departments would be reimbursed for part of the participating officer's salary.

He said villages being asked to participate are in the 3rd Congressional Dis-

Fire Pact Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Mendows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed." Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

The response is on a voluntary basis. with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake." Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well." Fogarty explained.

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

'The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. "I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless

Season swim passes for the Mount Prospect Park District pools are now on sale at the park district office, 600 S. See-Gwun, Mount Prospect.

Family passes for those living within the park district boundaries are being sold for $18. Adult residents over 14 years of age may purchase passes for $10 and children for $6.50.

Non-residency rates are $36 for families. $20 for adults and $12 for children. The passes may be used for all three park district pools at Meadows Park, Lions Park and Kopp Park. After May 13 the passes may be purchased at the pools. Proof of residency, such as utility bills, is required at the time of purchase.

Drive for Food "I have a 10-man department with Set for Students

Young teens will be knocking on doors in Prospect Heights and portions of Arlington Heights this week, asking for canned foods and non-perishable boxed

The students, who attend Dist. 23 Mac-Arthur Junior High School, are participating in a food drive under the leadership of the Pep Club. The club is charged with rallying student enthusiasm.

The eighth grade will donate their collection to Little City, a school for retarded children; the seventh grade to the Northwest Opportunity Center, and the sixth grade to Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children.

The class that collects the most will be announced at the school's spring dance this Friday evening.

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

> "Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

> MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

> "Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so partment will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained.

> "But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested." But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Cepartment sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments," Pairitz said.

"And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

'Report to People' Set By District

The Dist. 57 board of education will present a "Report to the People" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Lincoln Junior High School library.

Brief presentations on four major subjects; finances, curriculum, the junior high program and facilities, will be followed by open discussion on all aspects of the school district's operation.

"We have no ulterior motive for this meeting," said Leo Floros, chairman of the board's public relations committee. "We have scheduled it simply because we believe we owe it to the residents of the district — the people who foot the bill for the school district's operation - to give an accounting of our stewardship."

All members of the board and top administration officials will be present to answer questions and discuss school programs and policies.

A financial report will be given by board member Jack Ronchetto.

Pat Kimball will report on the junior high program which next year will be conducted in an expanded facility at Lincoln School because of the closing of Central Junior High School.

Alex Casper will present a report on curriculum planning and Floros will present a facilities report.

Board President Harry Hanson will in Prospect Heights, incorporated portions of Mount Prospect and Citizens Utility received added impetus last

Mr« Diane Gear, who lives at 709 Hackberry in incorporated Mount Prospect, east of Randhurst, called the Herald and complained about her water being shut off.

Mrs Gear said her water has been turned off numerous times in the past couple of years and that when it is turned back on she is afraid it might be unsafe to drink

HER HUSBAND, Thomas Gear, said the water has been turned off "for no apparent reason five or six times in the last 21, years

"From between 24 and 36 hours after the water is on, it doesn't look like it is safe to drink," said Gear. "It has a rusty color and you can see oil on the sur-

David Creamer, director of public works for Mount Prospect, said the water was safe.

"I know it might not look appetizing." he said, "but water could be crystal clear and still be unsafe. The rusty color is simply earbon deposits in the water.

"Anytime you decrease the water pressure, you're always going to invite the possibility of contaminating the water."

Nab 2 for Vandalism

Mount Prospect police apprehended two teenagers Saturday who were apparently among the 20 teens responsible for starting a fork lift tractor and ramming it through a fence at Lincoln School.

Police said that the lift had been rammed into a fence and then through a back stop at the baseball field at the school. The outside water at the school also had been turned on.

When police arrived at the scene they saw about 20 teens, both boys and girls between the ages of 13-16, running from the area of the baseball field. Police were able to apprehend only two of the youths. They were turned over to the invenile officer.

CREAMER ADDED that the Cook County Board of Health requires that the water be not only safe, but clear and tas-

On Feb. 11, more than 12,000 residents in Prospect Heights and portions of Mount Prospect serviced by CU had their water shut off for 612 hours.

A SUIT HAS BEEN filed against CU for ignoring an order from the Illinois Commerce Commission to conduct an engineer survey of sanitary sewer back-ups in Prospect Heights.

CU was directed to make the survey after a Woodview area resident, Patrick Link, filed a suit against the utility in March, 1966.

Since that time, an entangling series of suits have been filed to rectify the sewer problem. A suit also was filed against local residents, under the auspices of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association legal aid committee. The homeowners filed suit against Hollis Builders, which constructed their homes. Hollis Builders, in turn, filed suit against the Metropolitan Sanitary District and MSD was directed to take action against CU.

Plan Probe: How High Is High?

will determine how high is high at a public hearing Friday at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

Because of the controversy surrounding the height variation granted to the Randhurst Corp. for a 10-story, 136-foot office building, members of the plan commission voted 7-0 to proposed amendments to four sections of the zoning ordi-

The ordinances concern maximum heights, minimum side yards, minimum front yards and minimum rear yards.

"Our request is to change the ordinance to grant high-rise zoning for businesses with restrictions, not variations,' said Harold Ross, a member of the plan

ROSS SAID THE ordinance requires

The Mount Prospect Plan Commission that office buildings be not higher than 28 feet and, because the proposed Randhurst office building will be 136 feet, the variation might have been unwarranted.

'A difference between 28 and 136 feet is hardly a variation," explained Ross. 'A variation is for something which deviates slightly from the norm. This

The proposed amendments to be discussed at the hearing are as follows:

1) That Section 26 which now states that in business districts the ceiling level height of a building shall not exceed 28 feet and the maximum building height shall not exceed 30 feet, be changed to read "no buildings are to be erected or constructed in the B-1, B-2, B-2,1 or B-3 zoning districts that shall exceed 10 stories or 136 feet (whichever is the less-

2) THAT SECTION 27 be changed to read, "in the B-1, B-2 or B-3 zoning districts the side yard shall be not less than 20 feet, where such use abuts any zoned residential district; provided, however. that any structure or building erected in said districts which is more than 25 feet in height shall provide a side yard of a distance not less than the height of such building."

3) That Section 28 be changed to read, "Any building structure hereafter erected in the B-1, B-2, B-2,1 or B-3 distriet shall be set back from the front lot line a minimum of 20 feet; except if it is for a use abutting any of the aforementioned residential disrics in which event the setback shall not be less than required in such residential district the said B-1, B-2, B-2 1 or B-3 district abuts: provided that any building erected in said district which is more than 25 feet in height shall provide a front yard setback of a distance not less than the height of such building."

4) That Section 29 be changed to read, "the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 and B-3" in place of the word "business" and additional sentence be inserted which reads, "However, if the B1, B2, B2.1 or B-3 district abuts a zoning district that requires a rear yard or a greater rear yard than that required above then the rear yard requirement of the immediately adjacent properties shall be the rear yard requirement of the B-1, B-2, B-2.1 and B-3 dis-

Ross urged all citizens interested in this ordinance to attend the meeting.

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at half-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting o. the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police.

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that the flag should stay at half-staff for only three days dissolved. The board n.embers approved a resolution on the mat-

ried out its responsibilities on that policy. THEN. THE RESOLUTION reads that the flag should be lowered "as a memorial to the recent regrettable deaths of the Kent State University students."

After the resolution was unanimously approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, 'I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to

That fact became apparent Friday af- down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, ternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and 'ower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

Two other students, Raymond Sklencar and Robert Yadon of Arlington Heights, urged the persons at the rally to support the action to keep the flag at half-staff.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday an area-wide police narcotics program designed to bring area-wide police coopcration to the problem of drug abuse law enforcement.

Police Consider Drug Force Group

A group of 26 North Shore and Northwest suburban communities are being approached to coordinate a special police force against drug abuse.

A $567.158 grant from the federal government is available if the towns involved can get together.

The force is to be called the Metropolitan Narcotics Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group with each of the 26 suburbs contributing one man during a one-year trial period.

L. W. CALDERWOOD, police chief of Arlington Heights, said the program would be a pilot training program to educate officers in the area of narcotics.

Arlington Heights may participate in He added that though there would be only one Arlington policeman involved in the government program, his office would do some narcotics training, also. The federal funds are being made available through the Omnibus Crime Control and Sale Streets Act of 1968.

Calderwood pointed out that the program would probably not be activated until the end of the summer and would involve towns from Evanston to Wauke-

HE ADDED THAT the program was first proposed last February at a meeting between area police officials and federal agents in Wilmette.

In Schaumburg, Police Chief Martin Conroy said, "It's like mutual aid." Officers participating in the program will receive formal training and will be used where the problems exist.

Conroy added that there are other questions to be answered.

"Supplying a man could cost a village $11,000 a year," he said. "Will my man be here or in another community all the time? I'm not against this, I just want to review it."

He said the villages asked to participate are in the 3rd Congressional Dis-

'Angry' Flag Flies

Flying the American flag upside down is Terry Kester's way of protesting the extension of the war into Cambedia and the death of four students at Kent State.

Thursday. Kester and his wife flew the flag upside down in front of their home at 626 W. Central. Answering a complaint, Arlington Heights policeman Preston Haig went to the Kester home and spoke with Kester's wife.

Kester said neither his wife nor the policeman were positive about the legality of such a display and that Haig teft the Kester home after issuing a warning about the flag display with Mrs. Kester.

More Than Room Wasted

The teen-agers and young adults of Arlington Heights will apparently have to find their own gathering place this summer. A centrally located facility with plenty of room is going to be wasted through a lack of initiative among the adult community,

Last year it became known that the large basement room beneath the soon to be completed Olympic Park pool could be used as a teen center. The park district offered the use of the spacious quarters for a teen center and called for community cooperation in the project.

Park trustees emphasized that the space could be used for any reasonable purpose by young people and that the decoration and events would be in the hands of the young adults.

Heights Youth Council considered the matter and thought the use of space under the pool was a good idea. At that time the council agreed to participate in any program aimed at bringing the youth plans. center to a reality.

Council Chairman William Burroughs said recently that the Council offered to help the Park District to solicit funds, opinions from students and anything else necessary to bring the idea to fruition.

Interest in the project was also voiced by the Junior Woman's Club and the Jaycee wives.

In short, many adults are enthusiastic about the project but the center is no closer to completion than it was nearly a year ago.

The park district now plans to year has been wasted.

In February, the Arlington canvass student opinion on the matter during the summer and the next school year.

The community organizations remain interested but are still without leadership or purpose in their

Many young people know nothing about any plans for the center.

The space beneath the pool could have been open, too.

Battle of Banks' Over

After almost 14 months, the battle of the banks is over and the Northpoint State Bank came out on top.

The prize is a permit from the state to organize a hank to be located in the Northpoint Shopping Center, Arlington Heights and Hang roads, Arlington

The bank may be temporarily housed in existing buildings in the shopping center within a "short time," according to Donald Brown, one of the organizers of the bank.

Future plans call for the construction of a two-story office building in the shopping center with the bank facilities on the ground floor. Construction time is estimated to be from one year to 18

IN FEBRUARY, 1969, organizers of the Northpoint State Bank filed a request with the state for a permit to organize. Two days after that request, another application was submitted for permission to organize the Northgate Trust and Savings. This bank's location was listed as, "on the east side of Arlington Heights between Palatine and Rand Road."

At the time of filing, Bernard Rabins, bank examiner ofr the Chicago area, stated that only one of the permits would be approved since the two banks were competing for essentially the same loca-

According to Brown, "The modern banking facility will serve an area of primary influence containing approximately 14.8 square miles and a population of more than 25,000 residents. The area has been described by a leading research organization as one of the most promising Cook County suburban locations.

Plans for the bank include a drive-in facility with four lanes of traffic. Architectural plans are now being formalized for the permanent office building.

The bank will be capitalized at $1 million, including $400,000 in surplus and $200,000 in reserves. Shares of stock will be made available to the public at $25 per share. Announcements of the stock sales will be made later.

Birthday Cake For Marilyn

Illinois Junior Miss Marilyn Raedel has just had one of the most memorable weekends of her young life.

In Mobile, Ala., where the Wheeling High School senior is participating in the 13th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant, she observed her 18th birthday on

Pageant officials had a special cake baked for her, complete with 18 candles, and as it was presented, the other 49 state winners sang "Happy birthday, Marilyn." Marilyn, formerly of Prospect Heights and now of Barrington, was the only Junior Miss to have a birthday during the contest.

Preliminary judging began Saturday night with the first public performance in the huge Mobile municipal auditorium. Marilyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raedel, were in the audience along 'ith Matt Bottford and Art Conlon of the Illinois Junior Miss executive board and

AT SUNDAY afternoon's judging Marilyn presented her talent in the creative and performing arts category, an original combination jazz-ballet dance to "What A Day for a Day Dream."

The Junior Misses wound up the weckend with a special Mother's Day program. Joining them were those parents present for the Pageant and the families with whom the Junior Misses live while in Mobile. Marilyn's host family is Dr. and Mrs. John Zieman.

Preliminary judging will end tonight. Marilyn is scheduled to take part in the youth fitness category at tonight's performance, with the chance of winning a $1,000 preliminary award scholarship.

Tuesday will be spent rehearsing for the nationally televised finals Wednesday over NBC-TV at 8 p.m. CDT. Awards that night total $27,500, including the $10,000 that goes to the new America's

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county beaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee, the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature.

H.B. 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more than a year ago by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Two months later in the State Senate, the bill was referred to the Municipal Corporations Committee for further study.

The referral was due partly to the oblections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban areas The group, led by Mrs Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against

Pool Not Finished. Already Vandalized

Olympic Park Pool hasn't been opened yet but it's already been vandalized

Al Stauffer, construction superintendent of the new pool at 610 N Ridge, told police someone entered the pool last week and damaged the interior.

According to police reports, the glass door in the rear of the building was broken and tools were thrown into the diving pool. Police added that mercury lights on the ceiling had holes in them

The damage was estimated at $300 There was no sign of forced entry.

Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of Sen Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session. Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlangton Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify. "WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings.

Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An example of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preamexation agreement before they agreed to come into the vil-

Smoking Question Up Again Tonight

The issue of smoking on or near Prospect High School property will return to the High School Dist 214 board at 7:30 this evening at 790 W. Kensington, Mount Prospect.

Two weeks ago the board members accepted a petition from area residents concerned about property damage and students wandering off-campus through their neighborhoods. The residents are seeking relief through a better policed smoking area (perhaps closer to the school building) or a strongly enforced smoking ban.

No official action is scheduled on the request. It is believed that the board members will listen to comments from area residents on the problem.

The board has been unable to resolve the smoking question this year. In January, the high school administration presented a request for an on-school smoking area near the corner of Mayfair and Dale

THAT PROPOSAL was rejected by the board, but the board has debated the problem on several occasions since that decision. And it could debate it again

As usual, the board faces a heavy agenda. It will go into closed session at the end of the meeting to consider "discussion of employment of administrative personnel.

That meeting could consider a three-year contract for Supt. Edward Gilbert. Before the April board elections, a contract was discussed, but no board action was taken.

Mail Strike May Hit Suburbs Wednesday!

by BARRY SIGALE

There may be a repeat of March's postal strike which seriously crippled mail service to the suburban area. Paddock Publications has learned.

Suburban letter carriers were uncertain and divided this weekend as they contemplated what they will do if fellow union members in New York City go through with a threatened walkout at midnight Wednesday.

Addison and other western suburban communities were dehating that question as New York City members of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) prepared for a strike because of what they called the "inaction" by the

THE STRIKE could touch off a nationwide series of walkouts similar to the action taken March 20, in which dozens of ployes took up positions on the picket Chicago suburban post offices shut down (Addison was one of the first) and emline, stranding thousands of pieces of

"We haven't heard anything from Washington that indicates there's going to be any of the legislation that the federal government promised us," said a suburban postal union official in an exclusive interview.

"That nut (President Nixon) in Washington has promised a lot of things, but we're still waiting. We haven't decided whether to follow New York City if they go out Wednesday night. The feeling is that we just might, although the timing may be bad. We're just reviewing it on a day-to-day basis."

The timing that the union representative was referring to was trouble and strife plaguing the country recently, with the demonstrations on the college campuses over the war in Indochina, and then strikes such as that now plaguing the trucking industry.

THE THREAT that a postal strike may sock the Chicago area has been refuted by Henry Zych, president of the Chicago chapter of the NALC.

In an exclusive interview with Paddock Publications, Zych said, "As far as we are concerned, we don't intend to ever again call for a walkout or a strike or whatever. To put it bluntly, this is not something we would support, nor would we sanction such a move on the part of suburban carriers.

"Those who decided to follow New York's decision if their mandate is not put into effect are going to be on their own. One of their problems would be the court injunction that may still be in effect. They could be in contempt of court if they go out."

Zych said the Chicago union leaders

agreed in total with the national union representatives' decision not to take any strike action and to give Congress and the President a chance to pass legislation to improve postal benefits.

"THE NATIONAL Association of Letter Carriers is not about to call a strike. We are not going to be swayed by a decision by 1 per cent of the union (the New York City membership). As far as I am concerned I have called a strike once. I won't do it again.

"I just received a telegram saying that a house committee has passed a measure that would double the government's contribution to our health insurance fund, We have not set any deadline for the government to pass legislation.

Zych said he has received several queries from suburban union carriers and that they have expressed their unwillingness to walk off the job this week. He added that these suburban carriers would follow whatever action the Chicago leaders take.

Meanwhile, union representatives throughout the country have received a telegram from the office of James H. Rademacher, president of the NALC, asking local members not to go on strike.

But, despite the official objections to a strike, postal employes throughout the area still mistrust their employers in Washington who, they said, have promised so much for so long. And the militants remain militant.

Half-Staff Flag Ends Threat of Harper 'Riot'

Friday evening and Saturday morning. He said the 13 he contacted all favored the seven-day period. Ryan also spoke at the Friday rally. He asserted that conservative members of the community did not support the college, after Harvey had indicated that community support had to be a factor in deciding how long the flag should stay up

"This institution is not here to cater to the John Birch Society," he said, and the audience cheered.

Harvey then countered that the majority of the community were not John Birch members. Duffy then asserted that no actual agreement had been reached at the Thursday meeting.

Other students and faculty members spoke at the rally, and the majority seemed unsympathetic with the threeday agreement. However, there were boos when one speaker suggested "closing down" Harper.

AFTER THE FRIDAY rally, Harvey asked Duffy for a closed-door Student Senate meeting, but Duffy was unable to gather a quorum before the Saturday meeting. And the decision was reached to call for the Saturday board meeting.

At the Saturday meeting, Gerald Bandemer of Schaumburg presented a 215-signature petition from the Schaumburg area. The petition protested the "unlawful lowering of the flag" by one of the students on Thursday afternoon. Bandemer said he drove past the campus and saw the flag at half-staff. He and two other persons then rang doorbells in two subdivisions to gain support for their petitions. In the Saturday meeting, most of the open session was given over to a summaof events by Harvey. Duffy and others involved in the incidents on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Briefly, several students lowered the flag to half-staff on Wednesday morning. They were told by Harvey to re-raise it and seek student support through student government channels to gain official permission to have it lowered.

SO, DUFFY AND others organized a petition drive to lower the flag for seven days. They gained 1,600 petitions signatures (200 other signatures for an earlier petition merely opposed the Kent killings and the Indo-China War).

The petitions were approved by a Student Senate meeting Thursday morning, and Duffy presented the seven-day recommendation to the administration. Meanwhile, students, acting without official permission, lowered the flag.

After some shouting, confusion and the re-raising of the flag, there was apparent argeoment between Duffy, Newby and several administrators that the three-day period hold. However, that apparent agreement was renounced Friday.

AT SATURDAY's meeting, college

president Robert Lahti, who received calls from several citizens upset about the flag being lowered, stressed that the flag was not the central issue. Rather, it was the avoidance of a campus confrontation.

In the audience was Richard Mugalian, recently elected Democratic committeeman of Palatine Township, Mugalian urged the board to allow the students to keep the flag at half-staff until Thursday, which is the end of the original seven-day period.

So, this morning the flag should be flying at half-staff, No ceremony is anticipated, according to Duffy.

And, for everyone involved, the threat of a crisis and confrontation among students (both for and against the lowered flag), policemen and angry citizens is considerably lessened. The flag will be at half-staff until Thursday evening, in memory of four Kent State University the First Presbyterian Church in Itasca, will spearhead the nomination and election of the first Negro National Moderator to the United Presbyterian Church in America May 20 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

Chicago moderator for over 85,000 Presbyterians in the Chicagoland area including 58,000 in the suburbs, Rev. Hinkin intends to support Dr. A. L. Reynolds to fill the post of national moderator.

"I'm voting for the man and he has the qualifications for the job," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is a moderating type of person and can bring divergent views in the church together. He has a reconciling effect for people with different points of

The Rev. Thomas M. Hinkin, pastor of years later many members of his white congregation remain close friends and workers for his church. He has also served extensively in predominantly black communities.

The nomination and possible election of Dr. Reynolds will highlight a week-long conference May 20-27 in which approximately 2,000 persons, including 823 voting commissioners, will emphasize and discuss current problems in society.

Among the crucial social topics to be discussed will be drug use, treatment and punishment, financial support of the church on all governmental levels, "The Military-Industrial Complex," "Sexuality and the Human Community" and "The Arms Race and Christian Concern.

THE 182ND GENERAL Assembly will also call for the establishment of a national holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King.

While Dr. Reynolds is the only Negro candidate among five announced candidates, the Itasca's pastor's support for him is based on more than need and necessity. Dr. Reynolds has been a personal friend to the Itasca minister for the past 15 years.

Because of this personal knowledge of the man, Rev. Hinkin feels he is the best qualified for the job. The fact that he is a Negro and the first to possibly be selected national moderator is coincidental, according to the Itasca clergyman. "He cares about people," Rev. Hinkin said. "He is aware of the problems of today and has been especially effective in getting both black and white Presbyterians to work together. The majority of the men I know will support him."

SUPPORT FOR THE Negro's nomination to the national post is substantial but Rev. Hinkin rejects any allegations that his possible election was a means of soothing black demands for reparations from the Presbyterian Church.

'A black man or a white man moderating wouldn't make any difference," Rev. Hinkin retorted. "Our church is over that hump. In the past we overlooked some of the talents of the black church leaders. Now, we are accepting them for what they have to offer." Dr. Reynolds will attend the conference with many other justified qualifications beside being an effective racial mediator. Numerous church and civic affiliations and citations for his reconciliation contributions to the church are important but the primary consideration. according to Rev. Hinkin, is that Dr. Reynolds has the temperament and personality to assist his accomplishments. The Itasca clergyman added that he is supporting the candidate because now is the opportune time to elect a qualified individual.

ALTHOUGH REV. HINKIN will avidly support Dr. Reynolds, the nominating speech for the minister will be given by Ed Logelin, vice president of U.S. Steel,

If he is elected as the national moderator to the 182nd General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in America, May 20, Dr. Reynolds will preside over four million Presbyterians.

Mutual Aid Fire Pact Is Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact, "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no format, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed," Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said,

'The response is on a voluntary basis. with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

there is a real shortage of manpower on because all the men on the first call were each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well," Fogarty explained.

"I have a 10-man department with important to firemen as well as resithree men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

"The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help establishing a rescue system," Fogarty explained.

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is dents. Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without couloment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. "I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any

"Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained. "But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested." But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment. THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire I e-

Residents of Surrey Ridge Happier Now

The residents of the Surrey Ridge West Subdivision left last week's meeting of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees tired but probably very happy.

For the past six months, they have journeyed from the extreme southern end of the village to 33 S. Arlington Heights Road for discussions on the proposed K-Mart shopping center at Goif and Algonquin roads.

Two of their major concerns, the storm sewer drainage problem and an entrance to the shopping center from Kennicott Avenue, were resolved by the trustees.

An emergency exit from Kennicott for fire and police vehicles was approved by the trustees as was an independent outside study on the area's drainage problems. The homeowners had strongly been in favor of both of these proposals.

Any drainage study will take some time and it is not expected that K-Mart will reappear before the trustees before such a study is completed.

vers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood, Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to the call. "Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has en used during fires. ings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments.' Pairitz said. "And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," togarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

The American flag on the Harper College comous in Palatine will be flown at baif-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting o. the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police.

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that the flag should stay at half-staff for only three days dissolved. The board n.embers approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

THEN, THE RESOLUTION reads that the flag should be lowered "as a memorial to the recent regrettable deaths of the Kent State University students."

After the resolution was unanimously approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, 'I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to ternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and 'ower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1,800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

"IT'S DOWN, AND it's going to stay

That fact became apparent Friday af- down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, who helped lower the flag on Wednesday and Thursday, "If the same people (are present), it'll stay down," he told 200 students and faculty members Friday.

> Two other students, Raymond Sklencar and Robert Yadon of Arlington Heights, urged the persons at the rally to support the action to keep the flag at half-staff.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday afternoon.

Harvey asserted that some of the facts in the matter had been misstated by the students, and that a poll of Faculty Senate support did not indicate just how long the faculty members wanted the flag

Blackboard Now Is Time For Changes In Assignment

Every summer several groups of parents come to the Palatine-Rolling Meadmys Dist. 15 board of education angry about the way their students are assugged to schools for the coming year.

The common story is about the mother of three elementary school children who has each child in a different school every year for the past two or three years.

Most arguments by parents run along these lines: The little ones have to walk farther to school than their older brothers and sisters when another school is closer, all three kids are on different schedules, parents have to join three different PTAs in order to be a conscientious parent for all their children, and when is the board going to stop moving school boundary lines so they can settle down and send their kids to the neighborhood school where their friends

The board replies: We'd like to help you but we can't, some neighborhoods have more third graders than fourth graders and we have to even up the class sizes, the district does not operate on a home school principle because of the fantastic growth, though it would like to. and thank you for coming to tell us your problem, we'll try to remember what your request is along with the other parents who have been angry enough to come to a school board meeting.

THIS IS THE SCENE three or four times during the late spring and early summer, but by then it is too late for changes. The board has already accepted the total student assignment plan made up by the administration and it is very complicated to change.

The problem of changing school boundary lines every year is caused by new schools constantly being built in the district. As construction of houses is also completed in subdivisions near a school. the school boundary lines generally

The exception to this is an area near a school being converted to a junior high school. As grade levels are closed out. grade school students are fitted into other nearby grade schools.

The junior high school problem works like a pebble being thrown into a pond. Ripples from the center where the school is, are felt through all the schools as incoming students are moved into other schools and boundary lines are adjusted to maintain an average class size

The last fact in the problem is the administration's insistence on having balanced class size throughout the district

Because Dist. 211 qualified for a state aid program this summer, no tuition will be charged. The only cost for attending classes between June 17 and July 31 will be a $1.50 book rental fee per semester for district residents, and $22.50 for nonresidents per semester.

Conant High school will be the center for summer school classes. For students living out of walking distance from Conant bus transportation will be provided at $9 for the entire summer, or $4.50 for one semester.

IF THERE IS sufficient enrollment, an additional four course will be held at Palatine High. Those courses are social science survey, American history, personal typing and general mathematics.

All classes will meet from 8 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. A one-credit course runs full

Fire Pact Is Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty last week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal. written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed." Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

"The response is on a voluntary basis, with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

in the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice hefore responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well." Fogarty explained.

"I have a 10-man department with three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call.'

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these. Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual ald is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

'Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel," Pairitz explained.

But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment,

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments, Pairitz said.

"And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for involuntary annexation of unincorporated areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee, the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature. II.B. 1211 WAS introduced into the State House of Representatives more Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

The determination of the State Senate than a year ago by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights. Two months later in the State Senate, the bill was referred to the Municipal Corporations Committee for further study.

> The referral was due partly to the objections of a citzens' group made up of residents from unincorporated suburban areas. The group, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, visited Springfield last May to testify against the bill.

> Since that time, the Senate committee has sponsored a series of hearings throughout the state to test local reaction to HB 1241, under the chairmanship of

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session,' Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

'The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

"Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. An examipe of this problem is the annexation of the race track at Arlington Park into Arlington

Heights. Representatives of the track in sisted on a preannexation agreement before they agreed to come into the village.' On the other hand, Knuepfer said municipalities have considered the bill strong legislation for years.

"WE WILL TRY TO give cities greater freedom of annexation and at the same time overcome some of these problems," resolved Knuepfer.

After hearing of the bill's defeat, Mrs. Caylor said, "The price of victory is eternal vigilance." She said the watchdog legislative committee, organized by residents of unincorporated areas after the introduction of H.B. 1241, will keep active. The purpose of the committee is to watch out for all legislation affecting unincorporated areas and to object to laws deemed detrimental to such areas.

"I just hope they won't attempt to get another bill in the hopper that ignores the rights of citizens in unincorporated

Frank C. Whiteley, newly appointed superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15, says he was attracted into coming into this area because he thinks that suburban Cook County is characterized by its educational leadership, particularly at the elementary level

Whiteley, 43, holds a Ph.D. in elementary school administration and is currently the assistant superintendent of Southeast Polk School District in suburban Des Moines, Iowa. He has taught both elementary and high schools and has been an elementary school principal.

"This is one of the only areas in the country where the kindergarten through eighth grade districting exists." Whiteley observed. "Most school districts inchide kindergarten through 12th grades. My background and deepest interest is in elementary education, so Dist. 15 is a natural choice for me."

the University of Iowa. "That was my first contact with the district," he said. Whiteley has met all of the district's school principals and the Dist. 15 board

"I haven't visited all the schools vet but I've really enjoyed Dist. 15. Right now, though, I'm overwhelmed by names and areas," he mused.

Purse 'Tracked' Down On Tracks

Mrs. Dave Carney Iost her purse Thursday someplace along the railroad tracks near Palatine and Hicks Roads.

Mrs. Carney, who lives at 3600 Falcon Ct. North in Rolling Meadows, said her purse didn't contain a large amount of money but it did hold several credit cards. Someone could have gone on an unlimited charging spree.

But just as the hero unties the heroine from the railroad tracks, Andrew Dolan of Mount Prospect rescued Mrs. Carney's purse and turned it into the Mount Prospect police who in turn notified Mrs. Carney of her good fortune.

"If someone had used all my credit cards and had been caught," Mrs. Carney said, "people would find out about it," "But" she added gratefully, "this really nice and honest man found my purse and returned it. I think people should know about this."

Considering the factors which must be considered, parents who are unhappy with their current situation and those who have legitimate reason for specific erquests for school assignments, should let the administration know now what they want.

The master plan for student assignments will come before the board of education sometime in the next few weeks and once it is approved, changes are very difficult to make.

Mr. and Mrs. David Tregay met in a chemistry laboratory at the Illinois institute of Technology. The reaction was favorable and this year the Tregays will celebrate their 10th anniversary.

More unique than their meeting, however, is what they have been doing since they got married. They visit World Fairs. All of them.

Their streak began in 1962 with a trip to Seattle, continued in 1964 in New York, included Montreal in 1967, San Antonio. Tex. in 1968, and they recently returned from Osaka, Japan.

WHEN THEY ARE not visiting fairs, they are driving around the country. Last year they chalked up 8.800 miles in four weeks,

The Tregays sat in their living room at 177 Fairfax near Palatine the other day talking about traveling. They offered a reporter a seaweed and rice cookie, which compared unfavorably with spin-

The most memorable World Fair they visited. Mrs. Tregay said, was the one in New York. "For five days it rained every day. We got sick of the mess and went to Niagara Falls instead."

The following year, however, they relurned to New York to see the fair again.

WHEN THEY WENT to Montreal they took their oldest and youngest children at the time and parked their Volkswagen in a parking lot. And that's where they stayed. For seven days. Four people in one car.

'We spent 72 hours at the fair," Mrs. Tregay said, "and we only had to pay for parking once."

Mrs. Tregay and one child slept in the back of the car, another child slept in a buggy in what would be the passenger's seat and Mr. Tregay slept in the driver's

"We usually drive to the fairs," she said, "but this year was an exception."

WIU Names Two

Two Palatine residents, seniors at Western Illinois University, have been named to the undergraduate scholarship recognition list, the school's quarterly dean's list.

They are Patricia Ann Moore of 27 Rosemont Ave. and Gregory Alan Norton of 412 W. Wood St.

THE TREGAYS WENT to this year's fair on a tour. Had there been a slight change in the schedule they might have gotten a few extras.

On April 7 they were riding along a country road outside Manila, in the Philippines when that city was struck by an earthquake that caused extensive dam-

Mrs. Tregay said the first fair they visited was "kind of interesting, so we decided to go to another one. By then we had a record going and had to keep it up.

She said it is hard traveling with children, ''but it's worth it.'

IN OSAKA, she said, the children were a curiosity among the Japanese. "They've seen Americans," she said, "but not American children."

'You go to a fair to see unusual things." Tregay said, but you don't think of an American family as unusual.

Last year the Tregays visited the Grand Canyon, Hoover Dam, Disneyland, Las Vegas and the Canadian Rockies among other places.

BEFORE THEY MARRIED, Mrs. Tregay said, the most traveling she did was an occasional trip to Starved Rock. He also said he did not travel much.

Tregay described the family as 'pseudo-campers,'

"A good place to spend the night," Mrs. Tregay said, "is a shopping center parking lot.

Campgrounds are too crowded, he said, and "we have all the facilities." she added. Parking lots also are relatively safe, they said.

For meals, Mrs. Tregay said, the family tries to stop at school grounds so the children can get in some play activity along with food.

The Tregays have switched from a VW sedan to a bus and carry food, a small stove and their own lavatory with them. Speaking of their portable toilet; Mrs. Tregay said, "it's handy in the morning when the kids have to find one quick."

Last year's 8.800-mile trip cost them $350 for five people.

Their type of travel would not appeal to most people, Tregay said. But his wife added, "for what you can see for what it

Sitting in the expensively furnished parlor of the Hunting Ridge home at 825 Gilbert Rd., 17-year-old Bill Fetter said:

'Why should I knock things today? I've got it good here. Besides, there are other ways to express yourself, more peaceful ways, like making movies."

And recently, Fetter, a junior at Fremd High, made his first motion picture — complete with soundtrack — in conjunction with Earth Day activities at Dealing with pollution, Fetter shot about 350 feet of film in such places as the Palatine city dump, O'Hare Airport and sections of Rolling Meadows to get his message across: "Pollution is going to kill you.

TAKING TWO DAYS to shoot with a 16mm camera, and three days to edit with a magnifying glass ("I really need some better equipment," he said). "It was supposed to have been shown Earth Day, but I got sick."

Fetter got sick because one of the days he shot the film it was cold, rainy, "and just generally rotten weather which gave me a bad cold," he said.

Admitting there were several rough spots in his first production, Fetter tapped his fingers on the book cover of People Who Make Pilms," rubbed his bandaged knee and said, "Last week I twisted my knee playing basketball and might need an operation, so it's looking like my next film will be postponed too." Cambodia, Vietnam and Mr. Nixon look like they will be the stars of Fetter's second film, "which will be a satire on the war," he said, turning off the lights and switching the projector on.

As the frames cast "three. . .two . one" on the wall, the high-pitched whine of a jet grows increasing the Beatles come in loud and clear, right in step with the opening scene - a dead body by a polluted creek.

THROUGHOUT the film, rock groups provide background music as Fetter's camera travels from the airport to the tollway to Palatine, all the while juxtaposing life with death, or for example, a series of alternating scenes between the exhaust from a car with the tombstones of a graveyard.

"I'm just trying to state the facts," he said. "And this is my way, a peaceful way of doing it," as a flash of color, then total darkness, ends the visual portion of Fetter's production.

But in the darkness the sound goes on

Smoking Question Up Again Tonight

The issue of smoking on or near Prospect High School property will return to the High School Dist. 214 hoard at 7:30 this evening at 799 W. Kensington, Mount

Two weeks ago the board members accepted a petition from area residents concerned about property damage and students wandering off-campus through their neighborhoods. The residents are seeking relief through a better policed smoking area (perhaps closer to the school building) or a strongly enforced smoking ban.

No official action is scheduled on the request. It is believed that the board members will listen to comments from area residents on the problem.

The board has been unable to resolve the smoking question this year. In January, the high school administration presented a request for an on-school smoking area near the corner of Mayfair and Dale.

THAT PROPOSAL was rejected by the board, but the board has debated the problem on several occasions since that decision. And it could debate it again

As usual, the board faces a heavy agenda. It will go into closed session at the end of the meeting to consider "discussion of employment of administrative

That meeting could consider a threeyear contract for Supt. Edward Gilbert. Before the April board elections, a contract was discussed, but no board action was taken.

The American flag on the Harper College campus in Palatine will be flown at half-staff through Thursday of this week.

That decision, approved unanimously Saturday night by a special meeting o. the Harper board of trustees, ends the threat of possible early morning confrontation today between students and Palatine police.

After about 30 minutes of closed door discussion on the problem, which developed after an apparent agreement that three days dissolved. The board n.embers approved a resolution on the mat-

The resolution states that the board has the final responsibility for regulating the display of the American flag. It also states that the administration has carried out its responsibilities on that policy.

THEN, THE RESOLUTION reads that the flag should be lowered "as a memorial to the recent regrettable deaths of the Kent State University students."

After the resolution was unanimously approved, the crowd of perhaps 30 persons applauded loudly. Donald Duffy, president of the Student Senate, said, "I'm gratified by the outcome. The board saw fit to act with the concerned efforts and needs of the students."

However, until the Saturday decision, it appeared that, when the flag was supposed to be raised to full staff at 8 a.m. today, several students might be just as ready to attempt to lower the flag to

That fact became apparent Friday afternoon at a rally held next to the flag pole, as students shouted that they would defy administration authority and 'ower the flag to half-staff on Monday.

The flag had been originally lowered to half-staff Thursday, but students and administrators had apparently agreed in a closed meeting that a three-day period, rather than the seven-day period proposed by 1.800 student and faculty signatures, would be enough.

"IT'S DOWN, AND it's going to stay

down," said Jon Newby of Evanston, who helped lower the flag on Wednesday and Thursday. "If the same people (are present), it'll stay down," he told 200 students and faculty members Friday.

Two other students, Raymond Sklencar and Robert Yadon of Arlington Heights, urged the persons at the rally to support the action to keep the flag at half-staff.

And Dr. James Harvey, vice president for student affairs, asserted that the action by the students and by Duffy violated an agreement reached Thursday

Harvey asserted that some of the facts in the matter had been misstated by the students, and that a poil of Faculty Senate support did not indicate just how long the faculty members wanted the flag lowered.

AT THE SATURDAY meeting. Martin Ryan, president of the Faculty Senate. said he had tried to re-poll the faculty on

Blackboard Now Is Time For Changes In Assignment

by JUDY BRANCES

Every summer several groups of parents come to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board of education angry about the way their students are assigned to schools for the coming year.

The common story is about the mother of three elementary school children who has each child in a different school every year for the past two or three years.

Most arguments by parents run along these lines. The little ones have to walk farther to school than their older brothers and sisters when another school is closer, all three kids are on different schedules, parents have to join three different PTAs in order to be a conscientious parent for all their children, and when is the board going to stop moving school boundary lines so they can settle down and send their kids to the neighborhood school where their friends

The board replies: We'd like to help you but we can't, some neighborhoods have more third graders than fourth graders and we have to even up the class sizes, the district does not home school principle because of the fantastic growth, though it would like to, and thank you for coming to tell us your problem, we'll try to remember what your request is along with the other parents who have been angry enough to come to a school board meeting.

THIS IS THE SCENE three or four times during the late spring and early summer, but by then it is too late for changes. The board has already accepted the total student assignment plan made up by the administration and it is very complicated to change.

The problem of changing school boundary lines every year is caused by new schools constantly being built in the district. As construction of houses is also completed in subdivisions near a school, the school boundary lines generally stabilize

The exception to this is an area near a school being converted to a junior high school As grade levels are closed out, grade school students are fitted into other nearby grade schools.

The junior high school problem works like a pebble being thrown into a ponce Ripples from the center where the school is, are felt through all the schools as incoming students are moved into other schools and boundary lines are adjusted to maintain an average class size.

The last fact in the problem is the administration's insistence on having balanced class size throughout the district

The Rolling Meadows Fire Department is waiting for a report on the structural damage to the apartment building in Three Fountains Apartments which burned Monday night before allowing tenants to go in to salvage the rest of their belongings.

Wednesday Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty condemned the building and ordered it boarded up until he receives the report from the structural engineer who examined the building.

"I think people might be able to go onto the first floor soon, but the way the building is, they will never be able to get on the other floors," Fogarty said.

"IT.S DANGEROUS up there and I won't even let my men get up there."

Fogarty estimates damage to the building itself will be at least $645,000. 'It will cost at least that to update and build a new apartment to meet the building code."

On the contents of the building, Fogarty said he couldn't begin to estimate the cost. "There were probably many mink coats and keepsakes which are valuable. I think it will go over $1 million, it al-

The department used about 350,000 gallons of water throughout the night to extinguish the fire, Fogarty said. "The pubhe works department arrived at the figure from water pumped over and above the normal Monday night amount.

At one time, six pumpers, including two snorkel trucks, were at the scene. Each pumper can pump out 50,000 gallons of water an hour, though all were not working at full capacity all the time Monday night.

Budget OK'd For Library

A $70,093 working budget for the 1970 fiscal year was approved Tuesday night by the Rolling Meadows Library Board.

The sum, which was taken from the library's total budget allotment of $106,840, pays for staff salaries, maintenance, new books, supplies, periodicals and building repairs.

The 1970-71 working budget is almost $10,000 more than last year and includes an extra $4,000 to be used for the purchase of 1,000 new books.

The board also set the library's summer hours which will take effect June 12 and run through September 8.

The library will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 30 pm. on Mondays through Thursdays, 9 am. to 5 p.m. on Fridays and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Fire Pact Is Helpful

by GERRY DeZONNA

If there's anything good about the fire at the Three Fountains apartment complex in Rolling Meadows last week, it's that a mutual aid pact exists among fire departments in the Northwest suburban

The Mount Prospect Fire Department was one of five suburban departments to respond to a call for help from Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty iast week when one of the apartment buildings in the complex erupted into flames shortly after 7 p.m.

Fogarty, who directs a 10-man department, lauded the mutual aid pact. "It's important because it gives a fire chief assurance that he has help at his fingertips without any questions asked."

"ALTHOUGH THERE is no formal, written agreement between departments in the area, there is never any doubt that we will all respond when help is needed." Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp said.

"The response is on a voluntary basis. with no strings attached for sending men and equipment to the scene of a fire in another community. Everyone assumes his own responsibility for men, equipment and accidents that may occur on a call for mutual aid.

"In the case of any emergency, whether it's for equipment, manpower or an ambulance, we don't think twice before responding to a call for help. We just go immediately, because as soon as that alarm sounds, you know someone's life is at stake," Haberkamp explained.

Fogarty, who has used the mutual-aid pact four times within the last year, said he can depend on help from neighboring communities arriving within five to seven minutes, depending on the location of

"THIS IS VERY important because there is a real shortage of manpower on each department in this area. Not only is there a shortage of manpower but of equipment as well." Fogarty explained.

"I have a 10-man department with three men on duty at a time. Fortunately, when the fire broke out at Three Fountains, there were three off-duty firemen at the station. But this doesn't always happen. As it turned out last Monday night, we were able to dispatch six men on the first call."

Chief Haberkamp said the first call to any fire is the most important.

'The first call is the most important because you just don't know what the circumstances are until you get there. At Three Fountains, my men had to begin rescuing residents as quickly as possible. First things first in circumstances like these Then everything else waits until the second company arrives. We couldn't begin fighting the fire until we had help because all the men on the first call were establishing a rescue system," Fogarty

THIS IS WHY the mutual aid pact is important to firemen as well as resi-

Fogarty said the biggest demand in calling for mutual aid is for manpower. "In an emergency of this scope we need men, and men bring equipment. However, there are times when firemen will respond without equipment because there's enough equipment already at the

Fogarty said companies from River Forest, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates responded to his call at Three Fountains. 'I had 25 men at the fire, and the Palatine unit manned our station in case any trouble erupted in another section of town. This is always the case. The village is never left unprotected, regardless of the size of the fire. There's always someone at the station.

"Uusually the fire chief will leave one his own men with the out-of-town fire unit at the station since the visiting company doesn't know the streets and layout of the town," Fogarty explained.

MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Lt. Larry Pairitz said although manpower requirements are the biggest limitation, there is also a shortage of equipment in the Northwest suburban area, and for this reason, the mutual aid pact is also used.

"Mount Prospect has a snorkel, but not every community in this area has one, so there are times when another fire department will call specifically for the snorkel." Pairitz explained.

But this all depends on the nature of the emergency. Sometimes extra gas masks, smoke fans, lighting trucks or pump trucks are needed, and then specific help from a department in requested."

But the mutual aid pact is not limited to only fires. There are times when other kinds of disaster require help, additional manpower or equipment.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department sent out requests for scuba divers last summer when a young girl drowned at Lake Briarwood. Scuba divers from Niles and Skokie responded to

"Regardless of the disaster, if help is needed, then it's sent. Mutual aid has been used during fires, tornadoes, drownings, snow storms and even the Chicago riots. Men from suburban units went to the aid of Chicago fire departments.' Pairitz said.

'And at one time or another, we have all had to call for help from other fire departments. The mutual aid pact is very necessary and very important to the Northwest suburban area. In the event of any kind of a disaster, there are never enough men and equipment," fogarty explained.

The "good" part about any disaster from fires to snowstorms is that there are firemen who respond to the call for help. And that's always good to know, regardless of where you live.

Annexation Bill Is Still Alive

The determination of the State Senate Municipal Corporations subcommittee to revise House Bill 1241, providing for in-voluntary annexation of unincorpoarted areas, may dampen the prospects of unincorporated Cook County.

Residents of unincorporated areas throughout the county heaved a sigh of relief last week after learning of the defeat of H.B. 1241 in committee.

However, according to state legislators in the municipal corporations committee. the defeat actually was a postponement until a new bill is introduced in the January session of the legislature.

"We intend to continue the hearings despite the bill's defeat this session," Knuepfer said. A hearing will be held in Arlington Heights sometime next month at which the public is invited to testify.

"WE RECOMMENDED the bill not be passed this session because there were too many amendments that would have to be introduced and too many problems to be resolved," said Knuepfer.

"The basic objection we have received at the hearings is the public's desire to be consulted about annexation. Whether this element of the bill will be changed depends on the other hearings."

"Industry also was concerned because they felt municipalities would reach out and grab them for revenue without providing any services. "WE WILL TRY TO give cities greater freedom of annexation and at the same time overcome some of these problems," resolved Knuepfer.

After hearing of the bill's defeat, Mrs. Caylor said, "The price of victory is eternal vigilance." She said the watchdog legislative committee, organized by residents of unincorporated areas after the introduction of H.B. 1241, will keep active. The purpose of the committee is to watch out for all legislation affecting unincorporated areas and to object to laws deemed detrimental to such areas.

"I just hope they won't attempt to get another bill in the hopper that ignores the rights of citizens in unincorporated areas," added Mrs. Caylor.

Whiteley Awaits Dist. 15 Challenge

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

Frank C. Whiteley, newly appointed superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Elementary Dist. 15, says he was attracted into coming into this area because he thinks that suburban Cook County is characterized by its educationleadership particularly at the elementary level.

Whiteley, 43, holds a Ph.D. in elementary school administration and is currently the assistant superintendent of Southeast Polk School District in suburban Des Moines, Iowa. He has taught both elementary and high schools and has been an elementary school principal

This is one of the only areas in the country where the kindergarten through eighth grade districting exists," Whiteley observed, "Most school districts include kindergarten through 12th grades. My background and deepest interest is in elementary education, so Dist. 15 is a natural choice for me.

WHITELEY DISCOVERED the vacancy being left by Supt. E. S. Castor's retirement through a placement director at the University of Iowa

"That was my first contact with the district." he said.

Whiteley has met all of the district's school principals and the Dist. 15 board

"I haven't visited all the schools yet but I've really enjoyed Dist. 15. Right now, though, I'm overwhelmed by names and areas," he mused.

But just as the hero unties the herome from the railroad tracks, Andrew Dolan of Mount Prospect rescued Mrs. Carney's purse and turned it into the Mount Prospect police who in turn notified Mrs. Carney of her good fortune.

"If someone had used all my credit cards and had been caught," Mrs. Carney said, "people would find out about "But" she added gratefully, "this really nice and honest man found my purse and returned it. I think people

WHITELEY IS scheduled to start his new job July 1, and hopes to move his family to the area by the end of June. He and his wife Margaret have three children. They expect to settle within Dist.

"My children are looking forward to the move. We visited here this winter and they were enthusiastic about coming here to live."

"Dist. 15 is comparable to my present school district. It is in a suburb, too, and all suburbia is affected by the same problems of housing and industrial growth. Only metropolitian Des Moines is growing more slowly than metropolitan Chicago.'

and not putting any school on split-shift school days. These two guide lines have been the basis for many decisions to change boundary lines.

Considering the factors which must be considered, parents who are unhappy with their current situation and those who have legitimate reason for specific erquests for school assignments, should let the administration know now what they want.

The master plan for student assignments will come before the board of education sometime in the next few weeks and once it is approved, changes are very difficult to make.

School district personnel have spent several months working on the proposed student assignment plan, but there may be parents who do not agree with their decisions. Forewarned is forearmed. Concerned parents should make their requests now, not later, if they are going to ask for changes in the student assignment plan.
